Worst Labor Day Holiday Death Toll Is Predicted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The holiday weekend traffic death toll shot upward Saturday at a rate that was termed the worst ever recorded for the early phases of a Labor Day weekend.

"So far," the National Safety Council stated, "it's the worst Labor Day we've had."

A spokesman said that through the first 19 hours of the 78-hour period, the count of dead rose at a faster clip than it did last year, when it reached 557, a record for a Labor Day weekend.

Each Labor Day the compilation starts at 6 p.m. on a Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

The early trend is, of course, subject to change. The council had warned that the first 24 hours of the holiday period were the most hazardous. The reason, it added, is that there is a tendency to drive too far in too short a time.

Roads were dry across most of the nation. The pleasant weather was an added inducement to motorists to go places. The heavy traffic increased the exposure to danger.

The council had estimated in advance that traffic accidents would take between 490 and 590 lives during the holiday weekend.

An Associated Press survey, made to establish a basis for comparison, covered a recent nonholiday period of three days —from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 1 to midnight Monday, Aug. 24. The toll: 456 deaths in traffic, 20 in boating mishaps and 30 by drowning for an over-all total of 506.

Greeks, Turks Charge War Danger Near

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., (UPI) — Turkey and Greece asked separately Saturday for an urgent meeting of the United Nations Security Council to study their rapidly deteriorating relations.

Turkey's request was made several hours after Greece asked for a special session.

A Turkish spokesman accused Greece of "making military preparations." He also charged Greece had sent 10,000 military personnel to Cyprus.

"On the basis of these charges," he said, "we have asked the Security Council to meet as soon as possible."

Acheson Warns Greek-Turkish War Possible

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Acheson will tell President Johnson next week that while the Cyprus crisis can be permanently settled in time, as matters stand now war could break out at almost any moment.

The former secretary of state will see the President Tuesday. He returned Friday from a negotiation mission to Geneva with word that "a great deal" of progress was made toward resolving Greek and Turkish differences over Cyprus.

At the same time, he said publicly what officials here have been saying privately for weeks — that the policy of Archbishop Makarios, the president of Cyprus, created serious difficulty for Acheson's mediation efforts.

"The archbishop didn't go out of his way to be helpful," Acheson said. "He threw monkey wrenches into the machinery."

Acheson, secretary of state in the Truman administration, drew a sharp distinction between the immediate situation on the island, where Greek and Turkish Cypriot forces are arrayed against each other, and the longer range prospect for a permanent settlement giving the Mediterranean island some new status in relation to Greece and Turkey.

On Cyprus, Acheson said, the situation is so critical that "war could break out in 25 minutes." But he said he is confident "if we get a period of peace and tranquility" the Cyprus crisis can be solved.

The question of what to do next for a settlement is the principal question he will discuss with Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other policymakers.

BACK IN HARNESS — Construction workers on the $170 million Fryingpan-Arkansas project have had to call on the sure-footed and hard-working mules to bring in some of the drilling equipment. Groundbreaking was last July, and work is continuing on the project, which will also supply some water to Colorado Springs. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall called the project "one of the greatest water resource developments ever undertaken in the West." (AP Wirephoto)

ITU Faces Most Serious Problems, Chief Brown Says

HONOLULU Hawaii (UPI)— Elmer Brown, president of the Colorado Springs - based International Typographical Union, today attacked strike-breakers and the dangers of automation in opening the ITU's 106th annual convention

Brown said the ITU now faced "some of the most serious problems of its long span of existence."

He cited as a "real threat" the dangers of automation. "The technological evolution . . . is as potentially threatening to our trade as was the introduction of the linecasting machine," Brown said.

The union leader said computers were "blowing their hot breath down our backs. There is a veritable army of the robots in battle formation poised at our composing and mailing room doors, ready to annihilate our jobs."

Brown added the union would not accept attrition as a solution to the problem.

"Unless automation is used to increase or improve production and open up employment for the millions of youth coming out of schools," he said, "it will not be a benefit to industry or our country.

"We will strike, if necessary, and we will suffer lockouts if forced upon us, in order to maintain our full jurisdiction over every method of producing the printed word."

Brown called upon local unions in all the states and Canada to help push for enactment of Citizens' Job Protection laws. He said such legislation was needed to overcome this, "the year of the rat plague in the ITU."

The labor leader said strikebreakers were being used in the Toronto strike where some 25 per cent of the union's total Canadian printer and mailer membership was located.

Brown also got in plugs for the 35-hour work week and criticism of the federal government's handling of the Hoffa case.

ITU Strikers in Toronto Stopped By Court Action

TORONTO (AP)—The striking International Typographical Union will fight an injunction issued Friday by an Ontario Supreme Court judge.

Justice Edson Haines issued the order restraining the union from attempting to induce commercial printers to refuse to produce national advertisements that appear in the three struck Toronto newspapers.

The papers, the Globe and Mail, the Star and the Telegram, have continued to publish, using supervisory and non-union personnel to do composing room work since the strike began July 9. About 20 striking printers have returned to work.

The injunction was issued after the Council of Printing Industries, which represents 53 firms in dealings with the union, and four other printing firms filed a damage suit against officers of the union. The union said it also will fight the damage suit.

Monster Satellite Fails To Deliver Data in Space

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — OGO I, a giant monster-from - Mars type satellite, whirled through space on a near-perfect orbit today while scientists tried to figure out a way to put it to work.

Information relayed back to earth by telemetry showed that one long boom, one short boom, and the omnidirectional radio antenna failed to deploy.

Scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) decided today not to turn on any of OGO's 20 scientific experiments until Monday at about 8:15 p.m., E.S.T.

At that time, the huge spacecraft will be within 25,000 miles of earth on the return leg of its huge oval orbit.

Less than three hours after the 8:23 p.m. blast-off Friday, which sent OGO aloft to measure potential hazards to man's space flight, scientists at the Rosman, N.C., tracking station noted the malfunctions.

The spacecraft also failed to "lock" on the earth when ordered.

The satellite immediately was put on a "hold" position. This will conserve the control gases while the telemetry data is analyzed.

NASA officials described the launch itself as flawless.

The spacecraft, an oddly-shaped, 1,073-pound metal monster with protruding antennae, jets and eyes, hit its planned orbit almost on the nose. Its travels will bring it to within 177 miles of earth, and carry it 93,313 miles away.

It was reported unofficially today that pressure in the argon gas system evaporated. This lack of pressure, it was said, affects the chance of the satellite locking on earth, and also the deployment of its booms and antenna.

Dr. George J. Gleghorn, project director for space technology laboratories which built the satellite, said this morning, "Oh, I think we have a good chance of making it work."

LBJ Says Ending Draft Could Cost Billions

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson suggested Saturday that a quick end to the military draft might cost several billion dollars. But he didn't rule out the possibility that the draft may be halted next year.

This was the highlight of a 35-minute news conference in which Johnson announced some notable military and nuclear advances and, in a statement of philosophy, urged that all Americans resist "the spiritual cancer of hate."

In discussing the draft, Johnson took a more cautious position than the one voiced earlier this week by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, who made a campaign promise to end the draft "as soon as possible." Goldwater accused Johnson of using the Selective Service Service system for "political and social schemes."

The President said a distinguished member of one of the congressional armed services committees, whom he did not name, estimated "it would cost us several billions to act precipitously" to halt the draft.

Johnson didn't elaborate on this theme. However, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has suggested that, without the draft, the armed forces would have to pay more in re-

Goldwater Says He Will Seek Income Tax Cuts

By WALTER R. MEARS

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said Saturday that, if he reaches the White House, he will ask Congress to enact a program of automatic, yearly income-tax cuts.

"This program could and would be accomplished free of political manipulations," the Republican presidential nominee declared.

He made the pledge in a Labor Day weekend statement issued as he flew from Phoenix, Ariz., to Lockport for the campaign kickoff of the GOP vice-presidential candidate, Rep. William E. Miller, in Miller's home town.

"The rewards of hard work must be returned to those who earn them," Goldwater said. "A Republican administration will do just that."

"As leaders of that administration," he said, "we will propose to Congress, for in-

Escaped Springs Prisoner Nabbed In Indianapolis

One of two prisoners who escaped from District Court here Aug. 21, was apprehended at Indianapolis, Ind. on a car theft charge there, Sheriff's Office reported Saturday.

Authorities there told Sheriff's Office Saturday that they were holding Richard James Slinger, 22, who is charged here with assault with a deadly weapon and rape by force. Slinger was to have appeared in District Court on the day he and another prisoner, Larry Keith Wolfe, 22, made a break past a guard and ran from the Court House.

Slinger told Indianapolis authorities that he believed Wolfe to be in that area, at the time he was apprehended.

Deputy Charles A. Dietsche said that communication has been sent to Indianapolis by the Sheriff's Office here regarding disposition of the case.

U.S. Red Chief, Elizabeth Flynn, Dies in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, chairman of the American Communist party, died here Saturday after a brief illness, Tass announced.

The official Soviet news agency gave this account:

"An outstanding figure in the American and international labor and Communist movement, Elizabeth Flynn was born in 1890 in the town of Concord N.H.

"At the age of 16, Flynn joined the Industrial Workers of the World and from that time on she devoted her entire life to the labor movement. At the end of the 30s, she was elected member of the national committee of the United States Communist party and was elected chairman of the Communist party in 1961."

She was the third leader of a foreign Communist party to die this summer. Palmiro Togliatti, chief of Italian Reds, died in Yalta Aug. 21. Maurice Thorez, French party chieftain, died of a heart attack on a Soviet cruise ship crossing the Black Sea toward Yalta six weeks before.

Miller Charges Radical Record For Humphrey

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller, formally opening his campaign for the vice presidency, charged Saturday that Democratic vice-presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey has a record that is "clearly one of the most radical in Congress."

In his prepared text, Miller devoted much of his speech to an attack on Humphrey's connection with Americans for Democratic Action, which he termed "unquestionably the most influential organization in our nation's capitol attempting to subvert and transform our government into a foreign socialistic totalitarianism."

Humphrey was one of the founders of ADA, which backs what it considers liberal causes. He served as its chairman in 1949-50 and has been a vice chairman since then.

Presidential nominee Barry Goldwater headed the list of Republicans invited to this western New York city for the hometown kick off of Miller's campaign.

Goldwater was to make a 3,800-mile roundtrip flight from Phoenix, Ariz., to appear with Miller. He was to return to his home in Phoenix afterwards.

Miller quoted President Johnson's statement that Humphrey is "the best man in America" to

Farmers at Holly Will Continue Rain Experiment

HOLLY, Colo. (AP)—A group of farmers in this southeastern Colorado area have decided to keep trying to produce more rain, despite dissappointment on their first attempt.

President E. L. Hatcher of the Arkansas Valley Weather Improvement Corp. said board members made the decision Friday. The group represents drouth-plagued farmers in Kiowa and Prowers counties, Colo. and the western half of Hamilton County, Kan.

Hatcher said the big question facing the group now was: What to do next?

Last month they hired a rainmaker for a fee of $1,750 on a trial basis. The firm failed, Hatcher said, to produce an inch of rain during the 17-day period. Hatcher said the board agreed that atmospheric conditions during the period were not correct for rainmaking, but they decided against giving the rainmaker another chance.

Hatcher said corporation members would meet here Sept. 14 to discuss suggestions for a long-range program and to hear a report on weather modification experiments which have been tried in other areas.

15 Persons Die As Typhoon Ruby Hits Hong Kong

By JOHN CANTWELL

HONG KONG (AP) — Typhoon Ruby hit teeming Hong Kong head on Saturday, leaving at least 15 persons dead, 35 missing and feared dead and 250 injured. Property damage was heavy.

The Weather Bureau said it was the first typhoon to score a bullseye on Hong Kong in 20 years and called it one of the worst storms to hit the British colony.

Twenty-seven of those missing were aboard the ship Dorar, of Panama registry, which sank in the harbor. Thirty of the ship's crew were rescued. More than 20 ocean-going vessels snapped their moorings in the harbor and swept around like toys. Hundreds of sampans and junks capsized and went to the bottom.

Heavy rains accompanying the typhoon, packing 160-mile winds at the center caused flooding and landslides which wrecked many homes and trapped occupants.

More than 50,000 refugees from Red China were made homeless as the wind wrecked shacks in which they lived.

Many of those injured were slashed by jagged sheets of flying metal ripped from buildings under construction. Others were slammed against walls by cars blown from the streets.

Electric lines blown down caused many fires. Some wires lashed around the streets as hundreds huddled in doorways to escape the deadly whipping until the power could be turned off.

Nikita to Launch Drive Against Chinese Claims

By RICHARD H. GROWALD

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev returned Saturday from Czechoslovakia to take charge of a Soviet crusade against Communist Chinese territorial ambitions. He was smiling and full of wisecracks.

He tickled a little girl under the chin, wiggled his fingers joyfully at a line of pioneer Communist children and sent assembled diplomats into guffaws by saying Czech hospitality was fine "but don't get me wrong. It's good here too."

The 70 - year - old premier showed little sign of anti-Peking sentiment reported sweeping the Soviet Union but he set the tone in a speech in Prague Friday night that capped his 10-day tour of Czechoslovakia.

"Things have gone so far that the Chinese leaders are making territorial claims and one wonders that they do not suggest a dismemberment of the Soviet Union," he said.

Claims by Chinese Communist leader Mao Tze - tung to chunks of Soviet Asia larger

Doug Sutch topped all his troopmates by earning 11 merit badges. Other Scouts receiving merit badges were: Gary Baker, 7; Alan Briding, 1; Marc Castelli, 3; George Edwards, 4; John Fagan, 4; Garnet Glenn, 1; John Haney, 3; Jim Johnston, 9; Andy Krauska, 6; Richard Rumney, 1; John Steger 1; Paul Wacher 1; Ted Walford, 2; Chris Westfall, 2; Steve Whelan, 3; and Doug Woodyard, 1.

Service awards went to: Chuck Daley, five year pin; John Haney, three year pin; and Krauska and Jim Johnston, two year pins; David Daley and John Steger, one year pins.

Junior Citizens Prove Value Of Old Adage

The youngster, Jody and Risa Blanchard, daughters of Lt. Col. and Mrs. F. A. (Doc) Blanchard; Linda and Joanna Gordon., daughters of Capt. and Mrs. John N. Gordon; Marina Posvar, daughter of Col. and Mrs. W. W. Posvar; and Marlou Walter, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. J. A. Walter, stole a march on the Academy's Labor Day "Holiday from Danger" Carnival and got away with it.

By pooling their talents and "borrowing" an idea or two from the full scale carnival, the young entrepreneurs — ages 8-10 — were able to raise a grand total of $2.18 for the Air Force Aid Society Fund Drive.

Proceeds from the other carnival go to the same drive.

The youngsters sold peanuts, popcorn, sno-cones, and balloons, manned a fortune-telling booth, and exhibited a combination fat-thin lady in their backyard midway.

Since the receipts are going for a worthwhile cause, Academy officials said they didn't mind if the Douglass Valley carnival took a bit of the edge off the full-fledged Labor Day event.

Violator Pays Parking Fine With Pennies

Canon City was 26-cents in the red Friday morning as a result of a parking meter violation.

A meter violator from Eight-Mile mailed his fine to the city in one of the small yellow ticket-envelopes, developed by modern technology for that purpose.

The violater paid off the 50 cent fine in pennies, using only a five cent stamp for postage. However, modern technology has not figured out how to make 50 pennies weigh the same as a 50 cent piece, and when the envelope arrived at the Canon City post office, it had 25 cents worth of postage due stamps pasted on it.

Mrs. Marge Uhler, municipal court clerk, said a new worker at the City Municipal Building paid the postage due, not knowing she should have refused to accept it.

Then, as if to add insult upon injury, Mrs. Uhler discovered, after carefully counting the coins, there were only 49 pennies in the envelope.

Mrs. Uhler turned everything over to Municipal Judge John I. Williams, who said, "We can't do anything about the postage due, but the man has not completely paid his fine."

The judge did not say how, but stated the penny will be collected.

Then the city will be only 25 cents short.

Suspense Seen For Demos in Fourth District

half of the district, while the Democrats had none.

Then the ranks of the Republican candidates were thinned to one, and the Democrats still had none. They have none officially today—but who knows what will happen Tuesday.

Last week, a centrally-directed write-in campaign was begun for Colorado Springs attorney William T. Echkhart as district judge on the Democratic ticket.

Just writing a man's name in won't make him a candidate, but if he gets 300 write in votes he would be considered nominated according to John Bennet, El Paso County Democratic chairman.

Should Eckhart get 300 write-in votes, he would be considered a candidate to run in the general election against Charles Simon, Republican county judge who is seeking to move up to the district court.

However, Eckhart, who has served as district judge, said last week in a letter that he did not wish to run. What is to come may be the most suspenseful part of the primary.

Below is a copy of the letter Eckhart wrote to David Morris, Democratic chairman of the Fourth Judicial District, taking himself out of the race:

"I have been advised through the newspapers and by numerous telephone calls that a write-in campaign is being conducted on my behalf to nominate me as the Democrat candidate for the eastern division of the Distict court for the Fourth Judicial District.

"For several month I have been contacted by both Democrats and Republicans from all counties of the district to again present my name to the electorate for district judge.

"I am convinced of the sincerity of those who have urged my candidacy for the stated reasons that my judicial experience and knowledge of the law are needed on the bench of the Fourth Judicial District Judge, and I am also grateful to the Democratic party which has given me past opportunities.

"I feel at this time, before the primary election next Tuesday that I should advise you that I will not accept the write-in nomination should the required number of votes be obtained.

Few people realize the problems of a Judicial candidate. I have campaigned on two occasions on the basis that judges should be selected on fitness for office and not on a partisan basis. This is a most difficult proposition for voters to understand, as candidates must run on a partisan ticket.

"My past experience has taught me and I have no desire to involve myself and my family to the indignities which a Judicial candidate must share in an election year filled with emotional and philosophical conflicts.

"I am engaged in the private practive of law in Colorado Springs and owe a duty towards my clients and my family as well, to devote my efforts to serving the legal profession well as a practicing attorney.

"Please express my appreciation to the members of the committee of the Fourth Judicial District for the confidence expressed in me and my regrets that I will not be able to accept the nomination proposed."

LBJ Says Ending Draft Could Cost Billions

enlistment bonuses and might be forced to increase pay and fringe benefits to attract enough volunteers.

When asked about Goldwater's statement on the draft, Johnson noted that the administration has been studying the possibility of ending the Selective Service for several months. He said the aim is to determine the effect on mobilization and the impact on costs.

Some interim findings may be available within the next few weeks, "and probably some definite conclusion early in the spring," Johnson said.

One of the 40 newsmen gathered around the President's desk wondered aloud if Johnson shared the 1956 view of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower that the draft should not be made a campaign issue.

"Yes," the President replied. "I would agree with Gen. Eisenhower on a good many things and always have."

Johnson philosophized about "the spiritual cancer of hate" after being asked about former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's claim Friday that the Democrats have become "the party of big business." Nixon's statement was prompted by the endorsement the day before of Johnson by 45 prominent business and financial leaders.

Johnson responded that he thought both parties are "trying to do what they think is best for all the country, without regard to any specialized segment."

Turning to two sheets of paper on his desk, he began reading a statement in which he said, "We have witnessed the complete destruction by inner conflict of many nations because they pitted race against race and religion against religion, group against group."

Looking up, he said the question about a big business party suggested pitting class against class and asserted: "That must not happen here in either party."

Turning back to his prepared statement, he said that what is needed most in this country is unity and understanding.

Declaring that "we must not lock ourselves in with our prejudices," he said: "I want to urge all men and women in this land of ours to resist with all their dedication the spiritual cancer of hate."

Hate is sinful, and expresses "that poverty of the spirit which is far more dangerous to a nation's future than economic poverty," Johnson said.

In response to a question, Johnson said he did not want his statement" to have any connection with a jab or reference" aimed at Goldwater or anyone else.

He remarked that if he stated he loved his mother, "you would say it is a jab at Sen. Goldwater."

Someone then wanted to know if Johnson saw any contradiction between Goldwater's frequent remarks about violence in the streets and his July meeting with Johnson to seek ways to reduce racial tensions in the campaign.

'I think you make your point," was Johnson's only reply.

In a series of opening announcements, Johnson:

— Raised the Navy's hopes for more nuclear-powered aircraft carriers. He disclosed that a technological breakthrough promises to permit a two-reactor power plant for carriers, compared with eight reactors around the carrier Enterprise.

— Announced that the A3 Polaris missile will join the fleet this month when the submarine Daniel Webster begins its first patrol. Johnson said the A3 has a range of 2,500 miles — 1,000 miles greater than that of the A2 and more than double that of the A1. The greater range, he said, will give a missile-firing submarine eight million square miles of ocean in which to hide, compared with 700,000 square miles for a sub armed with the A1.

Much of the give and take with reporters dealt with politics and Johnson's campaign plans.

Discussing his general approach to the campaign, Johnson said, "We will make as many appearances as we think we can without neglecting the interests of the nation."

"The first consideration is going to be running the country and carrying out the duties of the presidency," he added.

Foreign affairs played a much smaller part in the conference than has often been the case. But Johnson did announce he will confer next week on the situtiion in Viet Nam with Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, and with former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodges.

He said the talks "will be devoted to a careful review of our programs, and the reaffirmation of our simple, basic purpose which is to help the free people of that country in their struggle for progress against the Communist subversion and terror."

In still another statement, Johnson hailed the election Friday of Eduardo Frei, a moderate leftist, as the new president of Chile over Communist-backed Salvador Allende.

Johnson said the electoin of the moderate candidate "seems to me to reinforce our hopes for a very bright future in the Americas."

He said "the last six months have been good for democracy and progress" in the hemisphere and that "prospects for those who are hostile to freedom are weaker."

than Europe has stung the Russians more than any Moscow-Peking feud over Marxist-Leninist ideology. The latest evidence:

—An official Tass news agency commentary on "the absurdity of Mao Tze-tung's claims to Soviet territory." Tass—and the Soviet press—has mustered archeological, historical and anthropological evidence to show China has no claim to land above the Amur River dividing the two nations. The evidence included stone age scrawls.

—Soviet farm collectives, trade unions, writers and scientists are flooding Soviet newspapers with letters condemning the Chinese "land grab dream."

—Westerners in Moscow report the man-in-the-street showing real anger over Peking's claim to the Soviet Pacific Coast, Mongolia and portions of Soviet Central Asia. A prominent American visitor, after conferring with many Soviet leaders, told UPI, "Everytime China was mentioned they all saw red."

—Newspapers throughout the nation are printing and re-printing the Communist party newspaper Pravda's two-day-old warning to Peking that territorial ambitions may lead to war.

Little Information Obtained About Cuba Travelers

after a follower of the American Nazi party had attacked him despite the host of police and marshals in the big committee room.

The United States does not recognize Cuba and prohibits all but officially sanctioned travel to the Communist-governed island.

So far the committee has interrogated a participant, the leader and an organizer of the trip that 84 young people made to Cuba this summer, defying a ban by the State Department.

All three repeated the same things they had said many times before in news conferences in Havana, New York and elsewhere and continually refused to say much else.

When asked to discuss the intricacies of the trip's financing, their own personal finances, or the part other people played in the trip, each witness invoked the 5th Amendment to the Constitution which provides protection against possibly seif-incriminating testimony.

On one occasion Friday, however, Albert Maher, 22, of Houston, who the committee said had been described as a millionaire's son, dropped the 5th Amendment protection to answer one question about his personal finances.

Rep. George F. Senner, D-Ariz., asked the young man if he had contributed any money to incite a street riot after the passage of the civil rights bill.

"That's a ridiculous question," Maher said, "just like this committee. The answer is no, but I consider this an insulting question."

Maher, who said he was a member of the executive board of the Student Trip To Cuba Committee and had taken part in a similar excursion last summer, denied he was either a member of the Communist party or the Progressive Labor Movement. The committee says the Progressive Labor Movement is an offshoot of the Communist party but tends to follow the Chinese Communist line rather than that of the Soviet Union.

The committee has set no date for resumption of the hearings, when it will call Morton B. Slater, 21, of New York.

Slater was on the stand Thursday when a follower of the American Nazi party leaped upon the witness stand and attacked him. Slater was hospitalized for medical observation and could not appear at Friday's hearing.

be vice president and added: "If Hubert Humphrey, with the program he advocates and supports is the 'best man,' then Lyndon Johnson is the 'worst.'"

Miller said that during Humphrey's 15 years in the Senate, "he has voted the official ADA line on 191 occasions and has bolted on only three occasions."

He said the ADA advocates "diplomatic recognition of Red China," "the admission of Red China to the United Nations," "a total abandonment of the Panama Canal," "that we rec "a total abandonment of the Panama Canal," "that we recognize the permanence and legitimacy of communism in East Germany," "that we readmit Cuba to the Organization of American States and welcome (Cuban Premier Fidel) Castro into the Alliance for Progress" and "that we must repeal every single piece of internal security legislation" and "abolish the House Committee on Un-American Activities."

Miller said the Johnson-Humphrey ticket "advocates programs which would repeal our great American history."

Like Goldwater, he hammered at the "crime in the streets" issue.

As he prepared to start his campaign, Miller promised Republicans it marked "the beginning of the most vigorous vice-presidential campaign in history."

Former Resident Mrs. Beere Died

Memorial services for Mrs. Jewel C. Beere, 68, of Woodland Park, will be 11 a. m. Wednesday in Swan Funeral home, Dr. Walter G. Schaefer officiating. Graveside services will be 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Masonic Cemetery in Trinidad.

Mrs. Beere, who died Thursday in Walsenburg, was born in Texas. She lived in the Colorado Springs area for 40 years and was in the real estate and investment business.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lucille Potter, Colorado Springs, and Mrs. Betty Vukonich, Denver; two stepsons, William Beere, Broomfield, and Vernon Beere, San Antonio, Tex.; seven grandchildren; and a great-granddaughter.

Goldwater Says He Will Seek Income Tax Cuts

Goldwater did not spell out details of his tax-cut plan. Press secretary Paul F. Wagner said the GOP nominee would do that in a speech in Los Angeles on Tuesday night.

Goldwater coupled his tax pledge with a charge that, under President Johnson's administration, "the dark cloud of compulsory arbitration is casting its shadow across the rights of working men and women."

The Arizona senator voted against the administration's $11-billion tax cut earlier this year. He said he feared it would be inflationary.

He has said any tax-reduction should be accompanied by a cut in federal spending. He promised Thursday a Republican administration would go to work at once to trim the budget.

The senator also has declared that tax reductions should be designed to stimulate investment in business and industry.

With the leaders of organized labor lining up against his bid for the presidency, Goldwater said Republicans "reaffirm our faith in the fundamentals of trade unionism."

"We pledge ourselves," Goldwater said, "to the cause of free collective bargaining and pledge also that we will not impose the iron fist of compulsory arbitration on laboring men."

"The present administration has shown itself quite willing to threaten such arbitrary intervention," Goldwater said.

"Unless stopped, it may prove as willing to carry out these threats."

Goldwater said unionism "could have flourished only in a climate of free society.

"The right to organize, the right to bargain collectively and the right to strike, natural companions of freedom of association, owe their existence as well to that climate." he said.

Goldwater's statement did not mention the question of "right-to-work" legislation. A critic of the union shop system, Goldwater has spoken out for what he calls "voluntary unionism."

The senator proposed in 1963 that Congress permit the union shop only in states that passed laws approving the system.

He told the Senate he would not vote "for a so-called national right-to-work law" because he thinks the states should have discretion on the issue.

The legislation he proposed, however, would have reversed the present law under which union shops are ruled out only in the states that passed "right-to-work" measures against them.

Pueblo Man Injured In One-Car Accident

A Pueblo man was injured at 2:15 p.m. Saturday when his car went out of control near the Hanover Interchange of Interstate 25 and hit a bridge, the State Patrol reported.

Ben A. Crawley Sr., 40, the victim, was taken to St. Francis Hospital by E & E Ambulance where he was treated for multiple bruises and a wrenched back.

He was the only passenger in the car which was northbound until it swerved off the shoulder of the highway, hitting four guard posts and skidding 101 feet until it hit the bridge abutment.

Patrolman J. Fred Anderson investigated the accident.

There were two Tennessee walking horses—the mare Lady B. and a filly named Linda Lou—on Lyndon B. Johnson's ranch in Texas.

The Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo Trophy, for the float presenting the most unsual cowboy scene, goes to the North American Air Defense Command.

The Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, who was not in float competition, will receive the Award of Merit. The title "Beauty in the West" typified by the Parade Queen, Miss Joyce Garrett, was vividly present and part of the Chamber's float.

Runner-up contenders for the Theme Prize are the Clearing House Banks of Colorado Springs, and Ft. Carson. (Ft. Carson had two float entries.)

Three float entries, the Board of Realtors, Lions Club, and Colorado Interstate Gas, will receive the Grand-Marshall's runner-up awards.

The Broadmoor Hotel takes second place for the Mayor's Trophy. The 4-H Clubs, Cowbelles Association, and the Rotary Clubs will receive the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo Trophy second place awards.

The League of Women Voters will be presented with the Award of Merit runner-up prize.

All of these float entries from business firms, civic organizations, and military activities, followed the parade theme of Westward Ho, by depicting scenes of the growth of the west from the 1800s to the present.

In the judging, floats were considered on the general overall attractiveness, execution of theme, excellence of design, originality, color harmony, execution of theme, and neatness in lettering float titles.

Following presentations, the newly formed board of directors for the Pageant Parade of the Rockies will be officially introduced. Elected as the first president is Verne Johnson, one of Colorado Springs' leading citizen's. He was the parade coordinator this year.

Also elected to the executive board are Leon Wilmot, parade promotion; Ed Bever, floats; Phil Hendricks, parade operations, and Ray Kranz, participating units.

Because the parade has gained in stature it was necessary to form a board of directors to coordinate the 65-man parade committee working group.

"Since the rodeo association is so big, a suggestion was made by the rodeo directors to form this separate Board," Johnson said.

"The 24th annual rodeo parade — the Pageant Parade of the Rockies — was the best yet, and is now well on its way to becoming one of the top summer attractions in the West and soon the nation," commented Johnson. He also said, "In time and with community support, the parade will match the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo in prestige and the parade-rodeo combination will become equal to the top national spectator events.

"As a matter of fact, future plans include network TV coverage," said Johnson.

Ft. Carson Man Shot; Three Held

Three men were taken into custody early Saturday for questioning by Ft. Carson authorities in connection with the shooting of a man about 3 a.m. Saturday, near 81 Moreno St., City Police reported.

John L. Deal Jr., Ft. Carson, was taken to Ft. Carson Hospital with a small caliber gunshot wound in the stomach, by persons unknown in a private automobile, Ft. Carson M. P.'s reported.

Military police apprehended three men in a car fitting the description at gate 4 of Ft. Carson about an hour later.

Military CID agents reported finding two 25 caliber automatic type pistols in the glove compartment of the car, one containing six rounds of ammunition and the other one empty.

On first being questioned, Deal told CID Agent Francis Moreton that two men had tried to roll him and that he thought he could recognize them. Moreton said that he checked the wounded man's billfold at that time and found that it still contained money.

The bullet removed from the victim was turned over to City Police, to be used in investigation, Police said.

LOAN FUND ESTABLISHED—Dr. William F. Stone, right, watches as Henry Heyser adds a new contribution to the newly incorporated Medical Education Foundation. The fund contains over $30,000, most of which became available after the completion of the K-O Polio program last winter. Heyser, executive vice president of the East Colorado Springs National Bank, will serve as executive secretary of the fund. Dr. Stone, chairman of the Public Health Committee of the El Paso County Medical Society, sponsors of the mass vaccination program, reported that the volunteer effort of hundreds of professional and lay persons and the donation of sugar cubes from Holly Sugar Corp. kept the huge public health program below the expected cost.

Med Education Group Is Being Incorporated

The Medical Education Foundation, a non-profit organization to provide loans for students enrolled in professional training in the health field is being incorporated. Already on deposit is $30,000, most of which represents funds left over from the K-O Polio program last winter.

While some special gifts are included in this amount, Dr. William Stone, chairman of the Public Health Committee of the El Paso County Medical Society, said that the loan program was made possible by volunteers and firms who contributed time and supplies to the oral vaccination series.

Polio vaccine was distributed in three doses to more than 70,000 residents of El Paso and Teller counties. The majority of the recipients made a 25 cent contribution for each dose of vaccine to offset the cost of the program. Doctors, nurses, pharmacists and other professional and lay people donated the time to administer the program. Holly Sugar Cpr., provided the sugar cubes on which the vaccine was administered by mouth. Other firms donated or sold at cost needed supplies. Because of this a balance of funds remained at the completion of the program.

A board of trustees has been selected from the K-O Polio committee and the medical society to administer the funds.

Henry Heyser, executive vice president of the new East Colorado Springs National Bank, will serve as executive secretary and permanent member of the board. Dr. Stone and Dr. Herbert Ellis will represent the Medical Society. Other members are: Dr. Harry Townsley, William Q. Haney, Earl Schwab, C. F. Spaulding. Spaulding is the Holly Sugar executive who headed the supply committee for the vaccination program.

The board is currently establishing the eligibility requirements for the loan program.

"It has already been decided that a student must be in the actual professional training phase of his education to be eligible," Dr. Stone said.

"In other words, a student in medical school, dental school or a school of nursing could apply but not one in pre-medical pre-dental or pre-nursing school. Other health careers than the three mentioned are included of course," he pointed out.

21-Year-Old Man Held on Morals Count

A 21-year old man was taken into custody Saturday to be held for investigation of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Sheriff's Office reported.

The man was arrested in connection with a runaway complaint on a 17-year old girl sought by the Sheriff's office since Thursday. The girl was turned over to the Dentention Home to be held for juvenile authorities.

Persons reporting the girl as missing said that she had left with a man Thursday night saying that they "would be back in a while." When she did not return by 8 a.m. Friday, authorities were notified.

Both were picked up Saturday morning in an automobile, the Sheriff's office said.

Light Voter Turnout Seen In Area's Primary

total; estimate by County Clerk L. R. Howe placed about half of those voters in independent category, with Republican and Democrat registration being divided about evenly in the other 50 per cent. Precincts — 13. No machines.

KIT CARSON COUNTY — 3,408 total; 1,835 Republican; 1,051 Democrat, and 522 Independent. Precincts — 11. No machines.

FREMONT COUNTY — 9,622 total; 3,356 Democrat; 3,144 Independent, and 3,122 Republican. Precincts — 30. No machines.

State officials have estimated that about 10,000 more voters will participate in the primary vote this year than did in 1962. A total of 190,000 are expected to vote across the state according to estimates in Denver.

El Paso county voters will cast votes for state congressionaly district, judicial district and county candidates, although the number of contests is limited.

Following is a report of candidates where there are races. The names are listed as they will be found on the ballot. The man who gets the highest number of votes in the party assembly as a candidate nominee is listed first.

In two cases, candidates failed to get designation at the assembly and put themselves on the ballot by petition.

Those cases are Joseph A. Gordon Sr., for county commissioner, and Henry John Olshaw for U. S. representative from the Third District.

REPUBLICAN CONTESTS IN EL PASO COUNTY:

— District attorney for Fourth Judicial District. Robert Russel and Norman E. Walton. The winner here will in all likelihood become the next district attorney, as the Democratic party has no candidate. Pat Hinton, Republican D. is running for district judge.

— County Judges for two courts. Jack L. Roeser, Robert Cole, and Albert S. Nelson. Only two will be selected. The two apparently will be the winners in the general election, as the Democrats have no candidates. These two judgeships are being created by the judicial reform law that becomes effective in January.

— County Commissioner, 2d Commissioner District. Rodger M. Fay, and Joseph A. Gordon Sr. This is the seat held by Fred Monk, who died earlier this summer. Fay has since been appointed by Gov. John A. Love to fill the term, which ends in January.

— Representative from the 20 Representative District to the state assembly. Harris E. Hart and Grant N. Gorman.

DEMOCRATIC CONTESTS IN EL PASO COUNTY:

— U. S. representative from the Third Congressional District. Frank E. Evans of Pueblo and Henry John Olshaw of Rye.

— Representative from the 20th Representative District to the state assembly. Alfred C. Coxe and Earl L. Fields.

FREMONT COUNTY CONTESTS:

— Republican, Finis Parks and Alvin (Dane) Black, contesting for county commissioner from the 3rd Commissioner District. The winner will have opposition in the general election.

— Democratic, Evans and Olshaw for Congress.

KIT CARSON COUNTY CONTESTS:

— Republican, Russel and Walton for district attorney.

— Democratic, Evans and Olshaw for Congress.

TELLER COUNTY CONTESTS:

— Republican, Russel and Walton for district attorney.

— Democratic, Evans and Olshaw for Congress.

LINCOLN COUNTY CONTESTS:

— Democratic, Evans and Olshaw for Congress, and Warren Leonard and Roland H. Meinger for county commissioner from the 3rd Commissioner District.

— Republican, Russel and Walton for district attorney.

Imported Clothing Shoddy, Soviets Say

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet trade officials are complaining that some clothing and shoes imported from abroad are shoddy.

Criticism was leveled at the manufacturers who shipped the goods and the Soviet official trade organizations which ordered them.

A shipment of 10,000 British-made lightweight coats for men had holes under the sleeves, were badly stitched and had stains. The Soviet Union is suing the firm, it was reported.

A shipment of 22,000 women's shoes from Austria was rejected and sent back because the sizes were so big that few women would buy them, the trade officials claimed.

Two Non-Credit Courses Offered

Two non-credit courses in the areas of accounting and investments will be offered during the fall semester by the University of Colorado Extension Division in Colorado Springs.

"Basic Accounting for Small Business," is a study of the methods of keeping records of expenses, purchases, and sales. Special emphasis is given to records for small businesses owned and operated by the same person. The student is also helped to understand the reports of others who may keep the books and make the tax returns. Also included is the preparation of adequate Federal and Colorado business tax and income tax returns. The class will meet for 10 weeks on Mondays, from 8:20 to 10:20 p.m., beginning Sept. 14.

"Introduction to Investments" will be taught by Joseph Barron, registered representative of Boettcher and Company. Enrollment is limited to 20 students as this class will meet in the stock board room of Boettcher and Co. in order that students can learn on location how a brokerage firm operates.

The course includes a study of the operation of security markets and of the tools and methods used by investors and brokers in determining what securities to buy and when and how to buy them. Elementary security analysis of financial statements is included. Dow theory, market movements, puts, calls, warrants, and convertible securities are studied. The class will meet for 15 sessions on Wednesdays, from 7 to 9 p.m., beginning Sept. 16.

Registration for these and other classes will be held Wednesday and Thursday at Jackson House, San Rafael Street and Nevada Avenue.

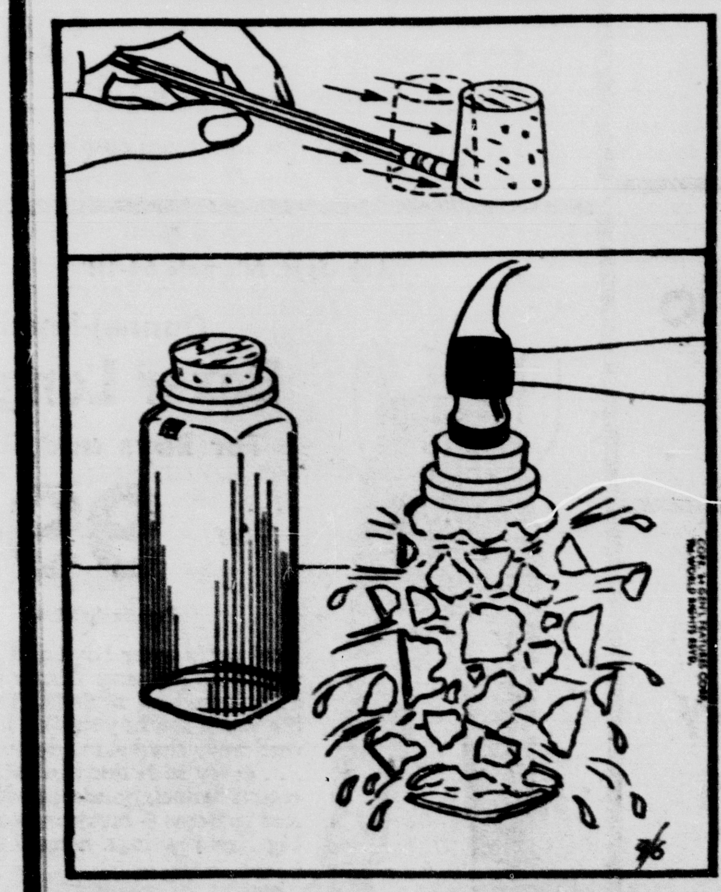
Science for You



PROBLEM: Water Transmits Pressure.

NEEDED: A bottle of water, a cork, a small hammer.

DO THIS: Have the bottle full of water, place the cork in, and hit the cork with a hammer. The bottle will break from the force of a light blow.

HERE'S WHY: The pressure of the cork as it pushes against the water is distributed to the sides of the bottle according to Pascal's law. If the cork has a bottom surface of one-half square inch, and the insides of the bottle have a total surface of 150 square inches, a push from the hammer of one pound on the cork will create a push of 300 pounds against the inside surfaces of the bottle.

The pressure is transmitted to every area of the interior of the glass.

CAUTION: There is no danger of flying glass here, but broken glass can cut, so be careful of the pieces.

Auto Mechanic, Female Employe Praise AUSA

A master technician (mechanic to you) and an office manager have expressed the opinions that the Association of the U.S. Army is an organization to which every citizen of Colorado Springs should belong.

Art Juranek, master technician in the automobile repair shop at Phil Long Ford, says AUSA is "a real good organization" which "promotes better business and personal relations between military personnel and civilians in the Pikes Peak Region."

Mrs. Hilda Herlugson, office manager for George Pfalmer Co., said that through AUSA she has been able to better understand both the military and civilian objectives in the Colorado Springs area and their relation to national defense.

Both Phil Long Ford and George Pfalmer Co. have 100 per cent membership in AUSA.

On Thursday, teams composed of military and civilian members of the organization will canvass Colorado Springs and the area in search of more than 2,000 members.

AUSA officials are seeking to rebuild the organization to a membership of 5,000 persons which would make the Pikes Peak Chapter one of the largest in the United States.

One-year membership in AUSA costs $6; three years, $16. Both men and women, whether they be executives or laborers, are invited to join.

Threats Against LBJ Labeled 'Runaway'

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House Press Secretary George E. Reedy described as "rumors" Friday reports of an alleged threat against President Johnson during last week's Democratic National Convention at Atlantic City, N.J.

In Austin, Tex, Democratic National Committeeman Frank Erwin, who had discussed the alleged plot in a speech to the Austin Junior Chamber of Commerce Thursday, said Friday he had no direct knowledge of it.

The FBI and the Secret Service said no arrests had been made and the FBI said it was not investigating.

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

BY ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

CHECK LIST OF CHANGES ADDED BY THE 1964 TAX LAW CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK'S COLUMN: The major changes resulting from the Revenue Act of 1964 as they effect you in filing your 1964 returns are continued below. Save it and last week's column for future reference:

(13) The restriction of combined business-pleasure trips which was imposed by the 1962 Act has been repealed retroactively with respect to trips within the United States.

(14) The rule that an accrual must await settlement of a contest is eliminated retroactively for all years. A contested expense is deducted when paid.

(15) The deduction for child care expenses have been liberalized. 1. The definition of dependent is slightly broadened; 2. ceiling raised for taxpayers with two or more dependents; 3. increase ceiling to $6,000 for working wives; and 4. husband can deduct cost incurred while his wife is incapacitated or institutionalized.

(16) The investment credit no longer reduces the basis of the asset and any past reductions will be added back to the basis. No rent deductions will be made for credits passed-through to a lessee and any past reductions will be permitted over future years.

(17) Lessees who were given a pass-through of the investment credit can base the credit on the fair market value whether leased from a manufacturer or distributor. Formerly, the credit has to be based on the distributor's cost.

(18) New or reconstructed elevators or escalators acquired after June 30, 1963 qualify for the investment credit. They were formerly considered part of the building not entitled to the 7 per cent credit.

(19) When a building is sold, gain allocable to elevators and escalators results in ordinary income and to the extent of the depreciation claimed after June 30, 1963 regardless of when they were acquired. They are now treated as personal property and not as real property entitled to a more generous treatment over the depreciation.

(20) If you omit making an interest charge on a deferred payment sale or an exchange contract for more than $3,000, you will arbitrarily be deemed to have charged interest at a specified figure.

(21) The amount of retirement income on which the retirement income is based has been enlarged for many husbands and wives.

The above list and that of last week is not conclusive of all changes but does cover the majority of the items for filing individual returns.

BERLIN (UPI) — The Jewish community Friday reported 300 Jews returned to Berlin during the past 12 months, bringing the total number here to 5,900. There were about 180,000 Jews living in Berlin when Adolf Hitler came into power in 1933.

Local Recruiter Receives Honor For His Work

Sgt. Raymond A. Sandberg, chief recruiter for the local Army Recruiting office, has been named Recruiter of the Year for the Denver Recruiting Main Station for the second consecutive year.

The Denver Main Station has 23 recruiters in an area which includes all of Colorado, Wyoming and portions of Nebraska and Kansas. Sgt. Sandberg is the first recruiter to be named recruiter of the year for two consecutive years.

The competition was based on total number of voluntary enlistments and percentage of quota assigned. He also was awarded trophies for highest average number of enlistments per month and for recruiting the most number of women for the Women's Army Corps. This is the fourth straight year for the most number of women in the WACs. The totals were; 133 males and 10 WACs. In five years on recruiting the sergeant has enlisted over 500 into the Army.

'Iliac Horns' Thorny Problem For Some People

A syndrome, little known but on the scene since the early 19th century, has been given an extensive review by two Indian radiologists.

Essentially, it concerns the iliac, or winglike portion of the hip bones, which become "horns" or protrusions. The iliac horns, report Drs. S. Chawla and K. Bery, occur as a manifestation of a more complex syndrome, characterized by abnormal growth of the fingernails and malformations of the knee and elbow joints.

Their report, published today in the June issue of the Journal of the Canadian Association of Radiologists, notes that the disease is transmitted as a non-sex-linked dominant character.

Recently, say the radiologist associated with the Lady Harding Medical College and Hospital in New Delhi, an extensive review of the disease turned up the fact that about 300 fully documented cases exist in the world literature.

"Nail dystrophy (abnormal development) is the commonest anomaly met with in the syndrome," their report notes, adding: "It was seen in 234 cases out of a total of 252 cases reported in detail . . . up to 1961." Knee and elbow abnormalities were seen in 201 and 143 cases respectively, while pelvic deformity was the least common, seen in only 75 cases.

Nail abnormalities, the authors said, varies from minor changes in the form of cracks and ridges to complete absence of the nails. In knee deformity, changes in the kneecap are commonest, while elbow deformity's essential feature is incomplete development of the rounded part of the elbow, lateral bone in the elbow and the forearm head, increasing the carrying angle of the elbow.

Local Postmen Receive Praise For Bond Sales

Postmaster R. H. Wardwell and the Colorado Springs Post Office staff were praised today in a letter from William H. Neal National Director of the U.S. Savings Bonds Division, for their efforts in promoting the sale of U. S. Savings Stamps through the Treasury's School Savings Program.

Neal's letter, announcing the start of a new season for the program, credited the nations post offices with helping to increase the number of participants in School Savings by five per cent during the past year.

The program will use Americas space program as its central theme again this year, Neal said. Children buying thier first Savings Stamps will receive a "Junior Astronaut membership card, and, upon turning in complete stamp albums for bonds, will be awarded a "Space Minute Man" certificate.

"This association of Savings Stamps and Bonds with our been a popular attraction for young savers," Neal said. "Yet we recognize that the real success of School Savings is due to a community partnership of parents educators, volunteer workers, and —very importantly — to the excellent service provided by Postmasters and the members of their staffs."

Commenting on Neals letter, Wardwell pledged the continued support of the post office in publicizing and servicing the school program, and said "It is good to know we have a part in developing thrift habits among our young people, and in reminding them of this practical opportunity to be better citizens.

The number of passengers using public transit systems declined by 58 per cent between World War 2 and 1961.

AMA Advises Americans Beware of Slumber Monger

CHICAGO — Beware the slumber mongers.

"While millions of Americans are tossing and turning in their beds, a growing legion of slumber mongers are making hay peddling pills, powders, drinks, and devices designed to wring cash from the sleepless," according to an article in the current (September) Today's Health magazine, published by the American Medical Association.

The problem of sleeplessness is genuine and serious with even the best adjusted person occasionally having difficulty falling asleep, the article points out.

"Unfortunately, many of those on the rack of insomnia clutch fantically for any promised relief," the article said. "This is especially true of the majority of those suffering from chronic insomnia where the sleeplessness is due to causes that are described as 'neurotic.'"

Not all sleep aids are utterly valueless, the article continued. A few may actually be helpful where the insomnia is not too severe.

"But most of them are of little, if any, value in severe chronic conditions; some of the non - prescription medications may be dangerous because of a human tendency to believe that a bigger dose might improve the result; and practically all but the home remedies cost far too much for the purpose."

The chronic insomniac ultimately will turn to drugs since he will probably find no sustained relief from homemade remedies such as reading a dull book or counting sheep, or from gadgets which range from ear plugs to stuffed chairs advertised as being able to massage the occupant into a state or relaxation.

"In this area, that of the over-the-counter sleep preparations the panacea peddlers find their Eldorado," according to the article.

Such products that may sell at a relatively low price when marketed for one purpose seem to leap in cost when packaged as a sleep promoter. For example, 30 pills containing mostly aspirin, some antihistamine and minute amounts of other sedatives cost $2 when sold as a sedative for sleeplessness while another antihistamine - aspirin preparation offered for relief of hay fever costs only about half as much.

A vastly more effective sedative, a prescription drug, can be had for about $1 for 30 tablets, the article pointed out.

Prescribed by a physician, barbiturates are usually effective in most sleeplessness and can be used for prolonged periods without ill effects unless the patient suffers from a severe personality disturbance, it said.

Over-the-counter preparations sold for sedation and relaxation, to ease tensions, or overcome insomnia generally contain one or more of three groups of drugs — atihistamines, hypnotics such as scopolamine, and sedatives of the bromide group, it was explained. Many also contain aspirin, vitamins and other substances not necessarily related to sleep.

With regard to the antihistamines, drowsiness is only a side effect produced by these drugs and does not always occur. In addition, the more effective antihistamines may not be sold without a prescription. Those that are sold without a prescriptios may be variable in effect.

The AMA Council on Drugs has said: "It is our opinion that it would not be a reliable remedy for a person suffering from insomnia. While certain persons do become drowsy when taking antihistamine preparations, such effect is not uniform and most persons will build up a tolerance for the drug."

Scopolamine is a toxic substance and can be included in non - prescription preparations only if the amount is so small as to be virtually inactive. Sedatives of the bromide group are generally sold over the counter in doses small enough to be harmless. However, there have been reports of serious symptoms resulting from overdoses of bromides and scopolamine sold in non-prescription products.

Author of the article is Bernard Seeman.

Italian Commie Party Calls for 'Independence'

By EUGENE LEVIN

ROME (AP) — The Italian Communist party published Friday what amounted to the last will and testament of its long-time leader, Palmiro Togliatti. In it, he called for an independent Italian Red policy free of both Moscow and Peking control.

The document, sure to rock the Red world, gained added impact from the fact that Togliatti wrote it in the Soviet Union hours before he died at Yalta two weeks ago.

Communist sources said Soviet ex-President Leonid Brezhnev, generally regarded as Premier Khrushchev's political heir, tried, during a visit here, to have the explosive document suppressed. New Italian Communist chief Luigi Longo refused and, instead, decided to give it maximum publicity through simultaneous publication in Italian, English, French and German.

The Italians agreed to attend a preliminary session in Moscow in December to draw up plans for a world Communist Congress. They expressed a doubtful view of the projected congress itself.

The publication of the 3,000-word document represented the establishment of an open, firm stand by the Italian Communist party, the biggest in the Western world.

Longo said in a preface that directors of the party had adopted Togliatti's views as their own and were publishing the document "as a precise expression of the position of the party on the problems of the international workers' and Communist movement and its unity."

Communist sources said Togliatti had planned to give the memorandum to Khrushchev before returning to Rome from a Crimea vacation.

Togliatti again called Peking's views "erroneous and ruinous," but gave Khrushchev little other comfort. The Italian Communist expressed new opposition to the summit meeting itself, suggested that the Soviet Communists were not free of guilt in the dispute with the Chinese, and declared: "Every Communist party must know how to act in an autonomous manner."

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

If Harriet were teaching a Sunday School Class or serving as a Girl Scout or Camp Fire Girl Leader, she would not have unused energy to fret about insanity. The churches are the best antidotes for our zooming tax rates for mental institutions

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
Ph.D., M. D.

CASE T-466: Harriet J., aged, 42, is typical of millions.

"Dr. Crane," she asked, pleadingly, "do you think I am losing my mind?

"My husband says I am crazy and three doctors have already examined me.

"They say I am a neurotic. Does that mean I am losing my mind?"

No, it is quite normal to be usually vaccinated against insanity.

For a neurosis is actually insurance against losing your mind.

People with too much unused I.Q (.or brain power) are thus likely to turn their brilliant mind back upon themselves.

This then throws a monkey wrench into the previous smooth functioning of their body.

So they may sprout all sorts of psychosomatic medical ailments, including phobias, obsessions, etc.

Reassure yourself by this simple psychiartic rule:
An insane person doesn't worry about insanity!

He thinks he is all right but the rest of the world is out of step.

The very fact that Harriet thus worries about losing her mind, is obvicous proof that she is NOT insane but simply a neurotic.

Insane patients don't shop around from one doctor to another to be pronounced psychotic.

Each week 20,000,000 Americans flood our medical offices.

Yet 10,000,000 (50 per cent have no diagnosable physical ailments at all!

They are medical neurotics! We also call them hypochondriacs or "Worry Warts."

When children have unused nervous energy, they often bite their fingernails or pick at their hangnails, or blink their eyes excessively or pull out their hair.

In school, they shoot paper wads or pull the curls of the little girls in the seats ahead of them.

To relieve this nervous tension, we schedule recess periods so they can run and romp for 15 minutes to drain off this pent-up energy in muscular action.

Adult neurotics also need a similar "recess" period of heavy muscular action to fatigue them.

Then they will not be so likely to have insomnia or phobias and imaginary medical aches and pains.

Go to church regularly and become active in its various organizations, for the churches are far superior to all of us psychiatrists!

And face your worries! Think back into your childhood so you can dig up the original cause of your guilt complexes that now express themselves indirectly through your fear of death or lightning or insanity.

People who dread insanity often think they have committed some unforgivable sin (usaully sexual, such as an abortion, etc.).

So learn to be your own psychiatrist. For our zooming tax rates can't stand the zooming costs of our state mental institutions much longer!

Send for my booklet "How to Stop Nervous Breakdowns," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

'64 Vacation Season About Ready to End

By The Colorado Visitors Bureau

Colorado's summer vacation season has sped away again — all too swiftly, it seems — but tnere is still a big, action-packed weekend ahead, with the three-day Labor Day holiday coming up.

The weekend will provide lots of entertainment—rodeos, fairs festivals, a circus, Jeep trips, auto racing, and fishing derbies. And a lot of people will just head for the hills.

It also will provide a chance for a lot of people to do some of the things they've been putting off all summer. For example:

This would be a good time to visit Durango, ride the narrow gauge train to Silverton, and take in the Gay Nineties fun in the colorful atmosphere of the Strater Hotel.

South Park City, the authentically-restored mining camp museum at Fairplay, is worth a visit any time.

The thoroughbreds at Littleton's Centennial Turf Club will provide some of the classiest racing of the season over the weekend, while the greyhounds will be in full swing at Loveland's Cloverleaf track and at Colorado Springs.

If you've missed out so far this summer, now would be a good time to take in the chuckwagon dinner and indoor rodeo at the Flying W. Ranch at Colorado Springs, or the Jaycee chuckwagon dinner at the Garden of the Gods.

A visit to Gunnison country and a look at the huge Curecanti Dam project, a side trip to the bustling new resort area at Crested Butte, and a swing up to Taylor Park would fill three wonderful days.

The whole vast new recreation area building up around Dillon Reservoir, Breckenridge, and Vail is a "must" for every true Coloradan.

A real fun trip would take one through Colorado Springs to Canon City for a look at the Royal Gorge, then on down through the Wet Mountain Valley, and thence to the Spanish Peaks country around Walsenburg and Trinidad. Monument Valley west of Trinidad and Harold Lathrop State Park at Walsenburg are real beauty spots in this area.

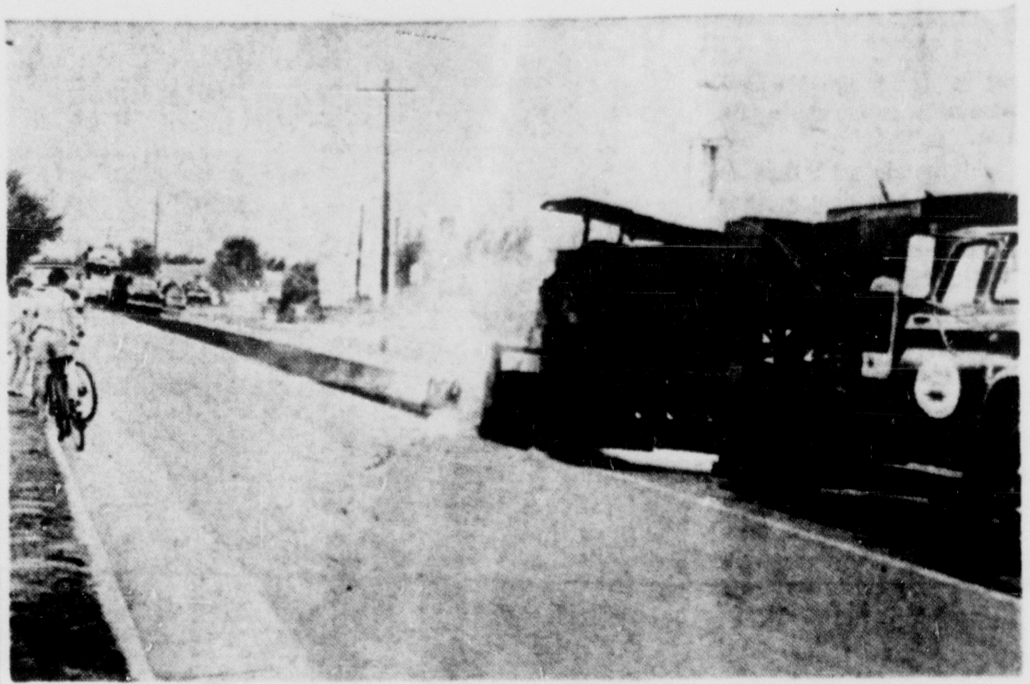
The Yampa Valley country around Craig and Steamboat Springs is always beautiful, and from there it would be fun to drop over to Meeker, drive up the White River, and cross the Flat Tops.

For those who like to get off the main highways, the road over Corona Pass from Tolland to Winter Park is a thriller, and from there to Granby, Grand Lake, Rocky Mountain National Park and Estes Park is a true motoring adventure.

It's peach time in Western Colorado, and chances are you could load up with fresh peaches and bing cherries by visiting the Grand Junction - Delta-Montrose - Paonia Cedaridge country.

Fishing's good in North Park, so they say, so why not swing up the Poudre River from Fort Collins, cross Cameron Pass, and visit Walden enroute to any one of dozens of great trout streams and lakes.

Or there are a thousand and one other things to see and do in Colorado this weekend. Lay out a highway map, blindfold yourself, stick a pencil in the map — wherever it touches in Colorado, you're bound to find fun, adventure, and beauty.



HEATER RE - MIXER MACHINE IN ACTION—This fire-belching heater remixing machine is playing a key part in the speedy resurfacing of several Colorado Springs streets. It is shown here in fiery action on East Uintah Street near the intersection of Logan Avenue. Owned by the G. J. Payne Company of Southern California, it evenly heats and remixes street surface to a depth of 0.05 to 0.07 feet; it is capable of heater remixing 100,000 square feet of paving every eight hours. The city street department then applies a three-quarter inch asphalt overlay. The Payne firm has a $15,680 contract to heater re-mix about 800,000 square feet of asphalt paving on various city streets. This method of resurfacing keeps the crown of the street about as is, and makes city paving money go further, according to Public Works Director M. R. Pearce. The machine was scheduled to be in action Wednesday on Weber Street between Boulder Street and Platte Avenue. Motorists are cautioned to be on the alert for detour signs in paving areas.

Broadmoor's Skate Program Opens Sept. 15

The Broadmoor's "Learn to Ice Skate" program will open its second season Sept. 15, Helen Maxson, executive secretary of the Broadmoor Skating Club, reported.

Classes for beginners, with a minimum age of four years, up through advance skaters will be scheduled throughout the school year. Evening classes are being scheduled for adults.

The classes are limited to 12 students and are arranged according to age and ability Mrs. Maxson said. The program runs in three 12 week series at a cost of $20 per 12 weeks. Lessons held after school are scheduled once a week plus one practice session each week.

Instructors in the "Learn to Skate" program are Ruby Maxson, a former Ice Follies star, and Christa Fassi, Italian Ladies Champion and wife of the Broadmoor's head professional skater, Carlo Fassi. Miss Maxson organized the "Learn to Skate" series along with her sister-in-law Helen and is in charge of the 'skating system.'

Mrs. Maxson estimated that 250 students would participate in the 1964-65 program. "Because the program does not start until Sept. 15, there is still time to register," she said.

Those interested in the skating sessions are requested to register at the Broadmoor World Arena. All lessons must be paid in advance.

Canon Resident Knows Ordnance, Steps to Take

Mrs. Joyce Ellis of Canon City and Ft. Carson knows ordnance when she sees it even while hunting arrowheads. Her alertness led to identification and removal of a live World War II mortar round by 41st Ordnance Detachment personnel.

The Carson civilian was on an arrowhead field trip recently in an isolated area between Salida and Guffey, 30 miles west of Canon City when she spotted what was identified as a 4.2 mortar round.

She recognized that the pin was still in the nose cone and realized that the round might be live and therefore dangerous. She called the 41st, one of two explosive disposal units at Carson and led disposal experts to the site.

There the mortar round was identified as World War II vintage. It was lying in a crater which it presumably dug on falling. The nose cone was shiny indicating that it had not been there for any extended period.

As far as is known by area residents, military exercises have never been held in that area and certainly not using live ammunition. How a World War II mortar round landed in that isolated area is a real mystery.

This type of mission is routine for Carsons explosive disposal experts although there is usually some logical explanation for the explosive being where it is found.

Discarded dynamite is common in the Pikes Peak region near abandoned mines, on ranches and near construction sites. Blasting caps are more common. Recent field trips have taken 41st personnel to the Seven Lakes area and to Avon, near Leadville, to dispose of old, deteriorated and dangerous dynamite.

The 41st and the 94th Ordance Detachments are on call, through civilian law enforcement agencies, to check war souvenirs which might still be explosive and to dispose them. These missions are in addition to military duties.

FUNDS ASKED

WASHINGTON (UPI)— President Johnson was asked Thursday to recommend appropriations totaling $155,000 to begin planning of water projects in Colorado. Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., asked that $80,000 be made available for the Bostwick Park Project and $75,000 for the Fruitland Mesa Project. The senator said the money could be voted in supplemental appropriation bills, even though regular appropriations for the Interior Department already have been passed by Congress.

Evans to Speak At Political Picnic Sunday

Democratic Congressional candidate Frank Evans of Pueblo is to be the featured speaker at an old-fashioned prairie political picnic at the Bab Maytag ranch near the Pueblo El Paso County line next Sunday, Sept. 13 beginning at 12 noon.

Third District Central Committee Chairman Paul Bechtol said this was one of the first joint gatherings of Pueblo and El Paso County Democrats and their candidates for offices at virtually all levels of government.

While Evans, the party's nominee to oppose Third District incumbent congressman J. Edgar Chenoweth in the November elections, is the primary speaker, the Demo's will have a chance to hear from every candidate at the picnic.

Refreshments will be free to all. Democrats in both counties are urged to reserve Sunday, Sept. 13 and to bring friends and family. Directional signs to the Maytag ranch may be followed to the picnic grounds.

16 AFA Buses Have Perfect Driving Record

Sixteen highway-type Air Force Academy buses rolled up 750,000 miles without a major accident in 1963. To keep that record intact, the 58 military and civilian drivers who "wheel" the giant vehicles this week sharpened their skills in the classroom.

The 58 took part in the third annaul bus drivers safety seminar conducted by the Academy Driver Education School. George W. Huber is ground safety director.

Don W. Winn, safety superintendent for Central Greyhound Lines, Kansas City, Mo., was guest lecturer.

Maj. Ward J. Cattron, Academy director of transportation, praised the drivers' safety record and said: "Driver education and training is our only means of combating the menace of highway accidents."

During his lecture, Winn explained the Greyhound safety program and outlined the 10 safety rules of the road his firm stresses in bus operations. He also showed a film "Anatomy of an Accident," prepared by the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Charles H. Jones, Academy driver training specialist, related local accident statistics to national figures.

10 Goodwill Emlpoyes Have Regular Jobs

Ten emotionally disturbed former employees at Goodwill Industries, 2307 W. Colorado Ave., are now employed in regular industry, Kenneth Olson, executive director, has reported to the Goodwill board of directors.

Beginning in 1961, Goodwill Industries has served 37 emotionally disturbed individuals, most of them patients released from the State Hospital at Pueblo and under the auspices of the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, Olson said.

Of the 37 served, nine were returned to the State Hospital; 10 are now employed in normal industry; six continue at the Goodwill Workshop, 2307 W. Colorado Ave.; three women are now married; seven are on public welfare; and one is deceased and no information is available on one, Olson's report continued.

Goodwill now employs 60 persons, an increase of 45 since the organization was established about eight years ago. The number includes the physically handicapped, the mentally retarded and the emotionally disturbed.

Olson, in an effort to give jobs to more handicapped persons is appealing to the generous citizens of the Pikes Peak area for more discards of repairable clothing and household appliances. Items can be deposited in any of the receptacles located at shopping centers throughout Colorado Springs, or a call can be made to Goodwill, 636-2316, and a truck will make the pickup.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

Miss Evallian and Ema Lewis have just returned home to Atlanta after visiting for a month in the city. Miss ETvallian Lewis spent five years in the local high school teaching dramatics and speech. Consequently she had many friends here with whom she visited so that it took one month for her to complete her visit. While here they stayed with Miss Bernhardina Johnson at her beautiful home in Rock Creek. This bit of history which has come down to us from the pages of United States history will be of interest to us all. This is a letter explaining her story:

"A certain Samuel Wilson was one of the inspectors of provisions during the war of 1812, at Troy, N. Y. and was known by his friends as "Uncle Sam" and since he stamped goods which passed his inspections with the initials "U. S.," standing for United States, and also the first letter of his nickname, the latter was jokingly used to designate the country.

The Misses Lewis claimed direct kinship to the old man with the tall hat and the striped pants and tell that their uncle often wore that kind of clothing.

I have just finished reading Clem Morris' new book bearing on its brown cover the title "When I Look Back." Its 141 pages are fairly crammed with exciting items of the local region. A region I have tried to portray in my feeble way in my two books. Both of which now are surpassed by Clem's book that I am ashamed that I ever put them out.

I knew Clem in high school but knew him only as a well dressed quiet boy of whom I supposed had come from the lap of luxury. He had a chum, Sadie Vux, and we all supposed that some day the couple would be married. But instead Clem chose a Manitou girl, Ema Rich, who had been also in high school with us. I remember Ema had the smallest waist line of any girl in school. At that time we girls wore webbing belts and tried very hard to bring the slides that held the buckle around us as far as we would towards our back waist, since that showed whether or not we were very slender.

I remember Ema, a blond pink cheeked girl who lived in Manitou and came down every day on the street car to school, could pull her belt slide farther back than any of us. Clem evidently became acquainted with her in Manitou after school days and after 40 years of marriage with her proved that we all knew nothing about him.

His father was Judge Morris and came often to the school to make speeches. He was a particular friend of the principal, George B. Turnbull. I somehow got the notion that Clem was all style and dress. Instead I find in reading his book that his life was full of a thousand interests. He seemed to be mixed up and in the middle of everything that went on in Colorado Springs. He was a reporer for the Gazette for a while and thus had all sorts of experiences which he now relates in his book. 8

You know I suppose that some of those experiences which Clem had after he left high school showed me that I did not know him at all. I had thought of him as one who would run away if he saw a bear. But, instead of running he and his family camepd several nights on the banks of Bear Creek in close proximity to a marauding bear and instead of moving on as I would have to a safer place in the mountains he and his two daughters Margaret and Helen seemed to have their father's adventuresome spirit and are following in his very footsteps.

At another time, so Clem tells us in his book, he and his wife Ema were driving through an isolated forest when he chanced to see a huge head on the other side of the woods, some little distance from the car. He left ETma while he went through the dense woods to have a closer look at the big hea which he saw on the top of the hill. He found the big head belonged to a female moose who showed fight and chased him for some distance in order to protect her baby. Clem ran some distance through the woods to get back to the car. He was glad to tell Ema that the moose had given up chasing him at the edge of the woods. If anybody had told me when I was in high school that Clem Morris would have dared to go so far in search of a thrill I should have certainly been surprised.

Clem and his family loved the out of doors and with one horse and a light wagon had many thrilling experiences. Anyone who wants a story of the wilds should read Clem's book. He has had but a few copies saying that they were for his friends and family only. But, if I should be a prophet I would tell that his book is the best record of the early days of Colorado Springs.

At the first of his book I was disappointed that he gave so few names but, as I read farther I found the book replete with names of prominent people in all walks of life. He seemed to be mixed up in all the important committees that were ever organized in Colorado Springs. He did not willfully seek such work but being a banker as he finally became he was asked dozens of times to take part of all sorts of work.

After I left high school and Clem had finished I came to know him in the Epworth League of the First Methodist Church as a fun maker of the first quality. If we could persuade him and Louis Newsome to be on our programs we were sure of a delightful entertainment, since their wit seemed to know no bounds.

I wonder if Clem ever knew how badly the town needed just such a book as he has put out. Anyone who has an opportunity to read this book will be very fortunate.

Long Arm of the Law Can Be Quick, Too

CHICAGO (AP) — The long arm of the law isn't only long, it's fast. Take Thomas Pinc, for example.

Pinc, 20, was stopped by the police 75 feet from the exchange. Police said he carried a pistol and a bag.

The pistol was a toy but the bag bulged with bills — $2,200 worth.

Pinc was arrested after an exchange clerk identified him as the robber.

AFA History Teachers Earn More Degrees

Two members of the Air Force Academy Department of History have completed requirements for advance degrees and a third has received a diploma from the Air War College.

Maj. W. J. Cline completed requirements for a Master of Science Degree in Public Administration through the Air University Center at George Washington University. His Thesis was "Eisenhower: His relation to William Knowland."

The major also prepared a thesis on "Mao and Guerrilla Warfare" for the Air Command and Staff College.

A second member of the Department, Capt. J. Schlight submitted his doctoral thesis "Medieval Mercenaries" to Princeton University.

Maj. B. E. Weathers was awarded a diploma for completing the Air War College Correspondence Program.

Pedestrians Feel Safer on Boardwalk

A boardwalk serves as main street for this southeastern Alaska village of 150 fishermen and natives. There are no roads.

It has, or had, three vehicles — a truck, automobile and motorbike.

Joe York, 65, tooled along on his motorbike Monday night. He lost control and veered into Billy Worrell's truck. He suffered minor injuries. The motorbike was a total loss.

10-Month-Old Boy Goes Rollerskating

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Roger Beutel is quite a sight when he goes rollicking along on his rollerskates. He's only 10 months old.

Roger, whose mother says he began walking with help at two weeks, tried out his older sister's skates Friday.

"We'll buy him a pair of his own pretty soon if he keeps on going this way," said his father, Stuart Beutel.

The Beutels, from Buena Park, Calif., are visiting relatives here.

WHY THE UNITED STATES IS RICH, By Wheeler McMillen, Caxton Printers, Caldwell, Ida., $1.00.

THE ATTACK ON OUR FREE CHOICE, By Merryle Stanley Rukeyser. Monarch Books, Derby, Conn., .75. — Reviewed by Howard E. Kessler.

These two recent paperbacks may be read profitable in tandem, inasmuch as they deal with two phases of the same subject. The first identifies the reason for America's greatness as the Right to Choose; while the second points out some of the ways in which we are losing this very Right to Choose in the United States today.

Wheeler McMillen, editor in chief of America's largest farm magazine, the Farm Journal, obviously is writing this one for young people, but it would serve as a good basic primer in American free enterprise economics for anyone. It's 68 large pages contain 23 pithy chapters on such subjects as "The Consumer is King," "The Competition for Competence," "Responsibility," "Corporations Attract Capital," and "Resources Plus Energy."

"The basic explanation for American progress can be expressed in four words," says McMillen: "THE RIGHT TO CHOOSE. With freedom of incentive and freedom of competition, freedom of choice has been the dynamic force of progress."

The little book which follows this prefatory note contains a series of illustrations to prove the author's assertion.

Having read and approved McMillen's thesis, read Rukeyser's book next to discover how we've been losing the Right To Choose.

Rukeyser, one of America's outstanding economic and business consultants, and a financial editor and columnist since 1920, maintains "The American system, based on an open market economy, lets the individual determine the national product mix. The antithesis of this is the Soviet police-state system in which commisars make the crucial decisions as to the utilization of national resources."

Yet he goes on to describe the many significant inroads that have been made in this system, abetted by the propaganda of such writers as J. Kenneth Galbraith, who attacks free choice in calling for ever greater expenditures by the "public sector" on things which Galbraith and other bureaucrats believe would be "good for the people."

Among the economist's comments: "A free society is weakened whenever office seekers bid for support on the ground that they can deliver great gifts to the people."

"Brainwashing in any form is inconsistent with American ideals. Managing the news is an affront to the concept of self-government. A prudent conclusion cannot be reached by a citizen unless he has ALL the facts."

"The custom of not crossing picket lines also thwarts free choice. In the prolonged newspaper strike in New York, nine other unions were kept from gainful employment because of a stoppage by the Typographical Union."

"Obviously freedom of decision on the part of responsible business executives and individuals is diluted by regulatory agencies, by competition of government-owned power projects, and such episodes as President Kennedy's intervention in the steel price-setting function."

"The typical American housewife needs no bureaucrat to step between her and the business world."

Throughout his 225 page book, Rukeyser uses to good advantage his extensive knowledge of business and free enterprise economics, and it is good to read a spirited defense of free choice. It is equally stimulating to read a vigorous expose of bureaucratic mis-management in America. And Rukeyser offers both.

PAYING MEN NOT TO WORK, by Oscar W. Cooley. Caxton Printers, Caldwell, Ida., $2.50. — Reviewed by Howard Kessler.

The thesis of this much-needed book is simply stated in its title, which the author, Associate Professor of Economics at Ohio Northern University, and a regular columnist for the Freedom Newspapers, then proceeds to document. His 200 pages of solid proof will provide crushing arguments for use against the welfare state planners.

"Idleness is being generated in the American economy and wealth production correspondingly reduced," maintains the author, "by public policies which make idleness more attractive than work." As the cover illustration implies, many men prefer to sit idly at home and collect their "rocking chair money" to expending energy in a search for work.

Taking the welfare economy apart, Professor Cooley demonstrates the fallacious reasoning behind such currently hallowed vote-getters as "depressed areas," "anti-poverty war," and "the right to unemployment compensation."

Recalling the basic economic truth that man's wants are unlimited, and that he tries to satisfy them with the least possible expenditure of energy, Cooley points out that men naturally prefer to accept government checks for not working, rather than bend their backs to hard labor, since they are able to conserve their energies by so doing.

The same axiom applies equally to communities. Rather than move away from a community suffering high unemployment, to an area of labor demand, men will stay where they are if jobs can be provided, at taxpayer expense, through urban renewal or other federal subsidization of industry. Thus labor mobility, which Cooley believes should be highly prized, is discouraged by government. Artificial roadblocks are being put in the way of natural economic movements, creating spurious and temporary economic health, and at the same time, sapping other areas from which the tax blood is taken.

In the field of labor surpluses, Professor Cooley believes this too has been exaggerated by the payment of unemployment benefits, and he cites example after example of cities where a shortage of labor is the problem, at the same time the federal government has declared the area "depressed," and is paying out vast sums to keep men from seeking jobs in earnest.

Faced with the complete illogic of government employment policies, as described so convincingly by Oscar Cooley, one wonders where this Alice-in-Wonderland economic jabberwocky will end . . . perhaps with the passage of legislation urged by Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers. Reuther thinks the law still in force in 28 states, specifying that a claimant for unemployment insurance benefits shall seek work on his own initiative should be repealed, and that employers should be forced to list all their job openings with the U. S. Employment Service. And Reuther also is on record as demanding "100 per cent guaranteed annual wages for all employees."

Cooley's research indicates that unemployment benefits do indeed encourage men not to seek work, for an analysis in several areas of unemployed who had exhausted their benefits disclosed that all save a negligible percentage of them shortly found work.

"As long as unemployment is compensated, there will be ever-increasing unemployment," Cooley declares. "Society gets from its members the behavior it pays for."

With respect to "relief," Professor Cooley is on solid ground when he recalls the experience of England with Poor Laws. He quotes observers of these laws in operation, who believed that "They tend to encourage the recipients to do nothing for themselves, but to depend on society to do everything for them." Certainly, repeal of the Poor Laws in the 19th century gave England a tremendous economic shot in the arm.

Yet "The American people's tendency to close their eyes to the fact that idleness is being fostered by subsidization is almost universal," Cooley concludes, citing such examples of welfare-induced idleness as the comment of D. H. Allen, a Corsicana, Texas, farmer: "I had 24 hands in the fields the day before the last hand-out. On 'Groceries Day' the number dropped to three and for the next three days the most I could get at any one time was nine."

Devoting much attention to legislative attempts to alleviate conditions in "depressed areas," the author describes the failures of a recently instituted program, the Area Redevelopment Administration, which has been in existence only since May 1, 1961. He quotes the president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to the effect that "this political arm of the New Frontier already has gone through $191 million to subsidize an incredible variety of local boondoggies."

"The basic reason why tax revenues raised at any level of government should not be used to revivify depressed areas," says the economist, "is that the process is bound to result in the misallocation of resources. Factories will be built where factories do not belong and would not be located if the location decision were made with impartial objectivity. Human resources will be induced to remain in areas where they will be partially wasted. Idleness will result, and this result is inevitable."

Professor Cooley, after presenting his staggering array of indictments against welfare state intervention, indulges in one optimistic chapter that comes like a fresh breeze at the close of a stifling day. It consists of a number of selected examples of underemployed people who have utilized that neglected commodity, self-reliance, to sell their resources more effectively.

Cooley points out "Every area has resources, some natural, some acquired. Often valuable resources go unrecognized and unexploited for years." Then he lists Vermont skiing developments, West Virginia hunting resorts, a "mining ghost town" for tourists, an outdoor pageant that draws thousands of visitors . . .and many more industrial achievements of people working without the false courage of federal handouts to solve their problems.

In the final chapter of this valuable source book for anti-welfare state students, the Ohio professor writes concerning "psychic reward," which has been ignored by government bureaucrats who focus all their attention upon monetary income. "Employment need not necessarily mean holding a job for which a wage is paid. Rather, it signifies the state of anyone who is doing what he most wants to do. Such a person is fully employed," says Cooley, adding that "In one respect psychic income is superior to monetary income. Money must be converted into consumable goods or services and the latter consumed before actual satisfactions are realized, but psychic income requires no conversion or consumption since it consists of the final satisfactions themselves."

Well, we're glad to hear it. Under any "poverty criterion" set by welfarist government today we would qualify as a "depressed area," but we're happy that way. We have the psychic reward of being able to read books such as Oscar Cooley's "Paying Men NOT to Work."

RED BLUEPRINT — A book so "red hot" that one publishing company fired an editor for considering it for publication — RED BLUEPRINT FOR THE CONQUEST OF AMERICA is being released! An eastern contact of the author wrote, "you have hit a nerve," after reading the manuscript.

A unique documentary based upon a secret and virtually unknown manual of the Communist Party, USA, this book is written by Joseph H. Wherry of Santa Rosa, California, and published by the Naylor Company of San Antonio.

Mr. Wherry is a recognized writer in such fields as popular science, the automotive industry (he was Detroit editor of the respected MOTOR TREND magazine in the late fifties), and travel and Indian lore. His six previous books have been read by automotive enthusiasts the world over.

The author's latest book is the result of twenty years of diligent research and personal investigation. Basic Marxist philosphy is explored in depth with reference to the various facets of Communism as influencing and affecting the daily lives of every man, woman, and child. Completely indexed, this 80,000 word volume is a must for today's reader who wishes to keep pace with the world in which we live.

Prominent personalities have recognized RED BLUEPRINT FOR THE CONQUEST OF AMERICA as a prestige publication. The foreword is written by Herbert A. Philbrick, author of I LED THREE LIVES, who spent eleven years in the Communist Party to expose the conspiracy. Philbrick says of this book, "the greatest un-tapped source of information on the communist international criminal conspiracy. . ."

United States Senator Strom Thurmond, South Carolina, adds, "RED BLUEPRINT FOR THE CONQUEST OF AMERICA is an outstanding work in exposing communist plans for word domination . . . only through an aroused and informed public supporting properly orientated and duly elected public officials can we hope to preserve our freedoms and form of government."

Representative Don H. Clausen from the First District of California, and Judge Hillard Comstock, member of the Executive Board and past President of the National Rifle Association are among others strongly endorsing this book.

The author has numerous friends in the political world, in church circles and in education. Not a "joiner," Mr. Wherry belongs to no political pressure organizations, and avoids labels as such because, in his own words, "labels mean little, for the average person has little understanding of the original or presently popular meanings of such labels as 'conservative' or 'liberal' — consequently such terms have little proper meaning."

The author relaxes in his spare time by building scale model airplanes and railroads, and boning up on Indian lore. He lives with his wife and two children in Santa Rosa and has two other children in college.

The first industrial plant built exclusively for the manufacture of internal combustion engines rose in Cologne in 1864. Three years later, N. A. Otto produced a four-stroke gas engine, which was one of the forerunners of modern internal combustion motors.

TO AF CONVENTION — Cadet Lt. Col. James H. Charlton of 724 LaSalle St. will leave Denver Tuesday for Washington, D.C. He is one of seven members of the Air Force ROTC at Colorado State University who will attend the Arnold Air Society's annual area commander's call. This is held in conjunction with the Air Force Association's convention. Charlton is the national comptroller for the air society.

Ancient Peruvian masons, working without mortar or cement, created buildings that have defied time and hundreds of earthquakes. So perfect are many joints that razor blades cannot penetrate them.

Motor Carriers To Help Drivers

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado Motor Carriers Association will lend a hand on major state hihway sudirng the Labor Day weekend.

A dozen cars carrying the association emblem will be on the road from 3 p.m. today to 10 p.m. Monday to work with the State Patrol in assisting motorists who run into difficulties.

The cars will be driven by employes of major Denver-based truck lines. Emil Zwiezen, safety supervisor for Navajo Freight Lines, said the drivers will not be deputized and will have no law enforcement power.

"Their only aim is to assist motorists and help the State Patrol and its officers in any way they can," he said.

King Henry I of England (1068 - 1135) established the length of a yard as the distance between the tip of his nose and the end of his thumb.

Lunchrooms in City's Schools Open Thursday

Lunchrooms in District 11 schools, with the exception of Washington Irving, will be in operation starting Thursday according to Miss Pluma Teeve, food service supervisor.

At the newly constructed Washington Irving Junior High, Miss Reeve does not expect the cafeteria to open until about Sept. 14. She advised pupils in the meantime to bring a lunch from home. They can purchase milk at school to supplement their lunch.

Service at East and Horace Mann junior highs will be faster this year. Both cafeterias have been remodeled and will operate two serving lines. Pupils in all three grades of the schools will have a regular lunch period this year.

Prices of plate lunches that include milks are unchanged. Elementary school lunchrooms at Lincoln, Franklin, and Queen Palmer will charge 30 cents; junior and senior high cafeterias will charge 35 cents. A school lunch provides at least one-third of a child's daily nutritional needs, Miss Reeve said.

Immunization Against Polio Census Question

Francis H. Wilmer, director of the Bureau of the Census in Denver announced Saturday that the current population survey, taken monthly will include questions this month on immunization against polio.

Census Bureau interviewers who will visit local families in September include Mrs. Donna M. Binkley, 1223 La Salle St.

Questions on immunization have been included in the Current Population Survey each year since 1957 at the request of the U. S. Public Health Service. Among other findings, the September 1963 survey revealed that 26 per cent of all persons under 50 had received three doses of oral polio vaccine and 38 per cent had the four doses of Salk vaccine considered necessary for full protection. Only 36 per cent of children from 1 to 4 years had received the four or more doses of diptheria, whooping cough, and tetanus vaccine recommended for complete immunization. And 28 per cent of all persons under 50 had received three doses of oral polio vaccine and 38 per cent had the four doses of Salk vaccine considered necessary for full protection. Only 36 per cent of children from 1 to 4 years had received the four or more doses of diptheria, whooping cough, and tetanus vaccine recommended for complete immunization. and 28 per cent of all persons under 65 had never been vaccinated against smallpox.

The questions on immunization are in addition to the regular monthly inquiries about employment and unemployment made for the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. Information will be obtained from selected households locally and in 356 other sample areas throughout the country during the week of September 13.

School Children, Drivers Urged To Play Safe

It's safety time for motorists as well as youngsters this month, and the Rocky Mountain AAA Club urges both groups to be especially carefull in and around school zones.

Many youngsters will be going to school for the first time this September and are unfamiliar with the dangers of traffic, the auto clubs warns. Motorists should remain alert for these children and proceed with extreme caution in those areas where they are likely to be playing or walking to and from school.

Some 15,000 members of the School Safety Patrols will be on duty at key intersections throughout Colorado this year, the club says. Parents of school-age children are urged to demonstrate "the safest way to school" by accompanying them the first few days. They also are urged to advise their children to follow the guidance of the School Safety Patrols whose job it is to protect them from traffic hazards.

Traffic accidents are the number one cause of death for school-age youngsters, the auto club says, pointing out that 14 per cent of all pedestrian deaths are school-age children.

It is up to the motorist to be alert around schools. During the motorists become accustomed to driving at regular speeds through school zones, the AAA club explains. Sometime it is difficult to remember that lower speed limits are in force during the school year. When driving in school zones, motorists are urged to remain alert for speed limit signs and obey them to the letter.

Remember, "Schools Open—Drive Carefully."

December's Heroes

It makes you wonder why each Saturday from now until nearly Christmas the Big Men On Campus parade their endomorphic bodies across the yard stripes when all seems settled before the race begins.

This is the impression from a look at any bookstand or a glimpse at practically any daily paper these days, as the gridiron gladiators mount their padded armor for another crack at fame and fortune for the ole alma mater.

Of course, there's the catch to the whole thing. You'll find just about as many opinions on the upcoming football season and how your favorite will finish as there are predictions. Everyone tries to get into the act, and it would seem that one guess is just about as good as another when it comes to seeing some three to four months into the future.

So no matter what's your cup of tea, if looking far enough you undoubtedly can find a favorite up among the expected winners. Some will try to specialize with either the college set or the pros, while others set themselves up as all-around experts and give the lowdown on the entire works.

Some of us have enough trouble attempting to stick pins in the right places in making unreliable predictions on the weekly games — much less naming the champions, top 10 teams, or the All-America squad. On the latter count, however, it might be just as well to pick this mythical team right now as it probably would be about as true as at the end of the season.

Anyway, as long as there will always be those who want to thumb through a thriller to see if the butler really did run off with the jewels, there's one publication that at least makes the whole thing more enjoyable.

That, of course, is our yearly delivery at mail call of the football edition of Playboy magazine. This time the rundown on how the collegians will win and lose comes somewhere between an action sequence of Elke Sommer in a sans-bikini Frenchie type movie and a section of yesteryear's Playmates of the Month. Needless to say, you must be alert to spot the masculine heroes.

Flesh measurements have long been a specialty of this widely distributed publication, and the author of said prognostications does his bit by expounding for several thousand words on the why and wherefore of his limb climbing.

We might be letting out a teeny-weeny secret by repeating his selections, but it's doubtful most of the regular readers (yes, there are stories, too) would suddenly cancel out because of this preview.

So here goes. . .

Here's the way scribe Anson Mount (Who?) so expertly thinks the top teams will line up come the end of November: 1. Mississippi 2. Oklahoma 3. Syracuse 4. Washington 5. Rice 6. Auburn 7. Arkansas 8. Duke 9. Kentucky 10. Georgia Tech 11. Indiana 12. Michigan 13. UCLA 14. California and 15. Texas.

If there aren't too many objections to that, we'll go on with the All-America squad, squad, which already has earned a trip to Chicago for a huddle with a couple of Bunny cheerleaders named Teddie and Lannie, who probably could score even without a ball.

The backs include quarterback Archie Roberts, Columbia; halfbacks Mike Barrett, Southern Cal, and Ken Willard, North Carolina; flanker Lawrence Elkins, Baylor; and fullback Jim Grisham, Oklahoma. Linemen are: ends Jerry Lamb, Arkansas, and Allen Brown, Mississippi; tackles Harry Schuh, Memphis State, and Ralph Neely, Oklahoma; guards Steve Ressler, Penn State, and linebacker Dick Butkus, Illinois.

That's got to be a winner — especially with 13 men on the team. The expert explains that by allowing a couple of specialists in a flanker and linebacker. We take it they all wouldn't play at the same time.

In case you take this thing seriously, they also sprinkled in the records for many of the nation's team, including 9-1 marks for the top two. The author didn't fiddle around with such details as who would beat who — merely how they would finish overall.

From this area, the once-a-year Playboy entrance into the world of outdoor sports anticipates a near reversal of last year's record for the Air Force Academy. They call for but four victories in 10 games for Coach Ben Martin's Falcons.

According to the above list of top teams, the AFA will encounter three from the best 15 — and that ain't countin' soft touches like Missouri and Notre Dame. The only way we can figure, wins will be over Colorado State University, Arizona, Wyoming and Colorado. . .at least by the way they have 'em lined up.

And by the way, they also think CSU will duplicate the AFA's total victories . . . but with one more try. The Aggies — who recommended this poll in the first place — will be playing into the first week of December with a trip to Honolulu for a probable visit to the western-most Playboy keyclub along with the game against the U. of Hawaii.

Chargers Dump Raiders

San DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Veteran quarterback Tobin Rote and end Don Norton teamed for two first-half touchdowns and the San Diego Chargers hung on for a 24-10 American Football League exhibition victory over the Oakland Raiders Saturday night.

Rote, who played a little more than half the game, directed the Chargers to a 21-3 halftime lead.

Orioles Lose AL Lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An error by Sam Bowens helped knock Baltimore out of the American League lead Saturday night as the Los Angeles Angels beat the Orioles 1-0 behind the five-hit pitching of George Brunet and Bob Lee.

The loss, combined with Chicago's 8-2 victory over Cleveland, dropped the Orioles one game behind the White Sox in the torrid pennant race.

The Angels scored an unearned run off Oriole starter and loser Steve Barber, 9-12, in the third inning after Jim Piersall beat out an infield hit with one out. Piersall raced toward third as rookie Paul Schaal followed with a single to right.

Browns Slip Past Green Bay, 20-17

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fancy-footed Jim Brown and golden-toed Lou Groza combined their talents Saturday night to give the Cleveland Browns a 20-17 victory over Green Bay in the closing National Football League exhibition for each team.

The thrilling contest in which the Browns staved off a closing surge by the Packers was the nightcap of a doubleheader played before 83,736 fans. In the opening game Detroit defeated the New York Giants 24-10.

The three annual doubleheaders here have attracted 244,637 customers.

Brown, the league's rushing leader who has been used sparingly this season, scored both Cleveland touchdowns, the first on a one-yard plunge and the second on a 38-yard masterpiece down the sidelines.

Groza, the 42-year-old veteran, booted field goals of 42 and 43 yards and kicked both extra points.

The Packers broke away in front with a 22 yard field goal by Paul Hornung at the start of the second session. But Green Bay failed to reach Brown territory again until the fourth quarter when the Packers came up with two touchdowns to almost close the gap.

Tom Moore plunged a yard for the first Green Bay touchdown. It was a fourth-down effort after Zeke Bratkowski had passed 18 yards to Ron Kramer.

Bucs Get Chances On Indian Fumbels

Fubleitis, an early season disease that frequently infects high school football teams, swept through Cheyenne Mountain's ranks Saturday afternoon and St. Mary's hustling Pirates reaped the benefits, converting two bobble recoveries into touchdowns and whipping last year's class AA State Champions, 12-6, before a full house at Cheyenne Stadium.

The local classic, which is threatening to become one of the highlights of the prep season in Colorado Springs, was a tense affair throughout. Cheyenne, which saw a 20-20 tie with the Pirates a year ago dull and otherwise perfect season, had visions of drawing a little revenge after a second quarter touchdown had apparently given the Indians the upper-hand.

But Chuck Haering's Pirates, who must take desire-pills before every contest, alertly used a pair of fumble recoveries to set up scores late in the second quarter and early in the fourth period and during the course of the game thwarted the Cheyenne offense by flopping on three other loose balls.

As if the miscues weren't enough, the Indians had the further misfortune of seeing an apparent 38 yard touchdown run by hulking Greg Cramblit called back late in the final quarter. The frosting was then added two plays later when the fifth bobble of the afternoon wiped out the Cheyenne hopes for good.

Cramblit, who has added still more bulk to a frame that carried him to all-state honors a year ago, was the leading rusher of the day with 91 yards in 13 trips. He had excellent assistance from 148-pound speedster, Jim McCurdy, who swept the flanks for an additional 61 yards.

Overall, Cheyenne had a slight edge in the statistical columns, netting 215 yards total offense to 179 for the Pirates. The Indians also had 11 first down to 9 for St. Mary's.

The contest was a defensive struggle for much of the first half and for spasms in the final two quarters. Both teams are noted for excellent fullbacks, Cramblit of Cheyenne and Sam Zavatti of St. Mary's. Thus, early in the battle both squads were keying on those individuals and it was not until the coaches began to go to their halfbacks that the offensive pace picked up.

Zavatti, who is accustomed to carrying the brunt of the St. Mary's attack, was welcomed at just about every turn Saturday by a Cheyenne defense that was zeroed in on his number. The Pirate star managed only 33 yards in 15 tries but halfbacks Gary Dobson and Chris White picked up the slack. They combined for 93 yards with Dobson amassing 51 on 10 carries.

Cheyenne had an early scoring opportunity after Cramblit powered his way through the right side of the Pirate line and swept down the sidelines an a 47 yard jaunt to the St. Mary's 13. There the Bucs stood firm, however, and eventually gained possession on downs.

The Indians launched their touchdown drive immediately after the second quarter got underway. After fielding a punt at their 45, a penalty moved the ball back five yards before quarterback Ted Garcia fired a completion to Bill Massarand that carried to the St. Mary's 35. Cramblit ripped off 10 more yards on the following play, then jerked forward for four before Doug Heylinger sped around the flank to the 11. From there Cramblit blasted across in two attempts and Garcia kicked the extra point.

St. Mary's retaliated quickly, moving into Cheyenne territory to the 31 before Chris White dropped back and spun a punt out of bounds at the Indians' seven. That strategy paid off quickly as LeRoy Eckoff came up with a Cheyenne fumble at the 14 yard line on the next play. Dobson wheeled to the two after the Pirates took over and Zavatti shoved his way over two downs later. The kick attempt was wide.

Cheyenne had an early third quarter drive stalled by a pass interception and then came up with the fatal miscue early in the final period when a contact fumble on a punt reception was recovered by the Pirates at the Indians' 28. From that point Jerry Knauf fired a pass to John Van Horn that carried to the three yard line and Zavatti shot through a gap to paydirt on the next play.

Even then, the Indians' miseries were not over. Cramblit pounced on a Pirate fumble at the St. Mary's 39 midway through the period and the momentum seemed to be shifting when the burly Indian back fled around end on a 38 yard trip to the endzone. The offsides penalty nullified that, however, but the Indians were still moving until a smashing tackle jarred the ball loose from McCurdy and Eckoff again was on the spot to claim it for the Bucs St. Mary's then rolled back upfield for the two first downs necessary to run out the clock.

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Chicago Bears got their defense clicking in the second half and defeated the Dallas Cowboys 21-6 in the final National Football League exhibition game for both clubs.

The Bears used the same formula with which they won the 1963 NFL title in downing the Cowboys — defense.

The deepest penetration Dallas made into Chicago territory was to the 21 early in the second quarter, only to have rookie quarterback John Jacob's pass intercepted by Richie Petitbon.

In the third quarter, Jacobs passed to Frank Clarke, who ran most of the way on a 75-yard play into the end zone—but the touchdown was nullified by a penalty.

For a while, it looked like the only thing the Cowboys had was the kicking of rookie Dick Van Raaphorst, but even he fell victim to the Bear defense.

Murphy, Wargo Star in AFA Scrimmage

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

The Falcons of the Air Force Academy capped their third week of practice toward a new football season (two at home) with a two and a half hour scrimmage session Saturday morning in Falcon Stadium against a combined team of Junior Varsity and Freshmen.

Two weeks remain before the season's opening game at the University of Washington in Seattle, but the Cadets will take a two-day break before resuming drills next Tuesday. Sunday and Monday (Labor Day) will be used to try and heal some of the minor injuries that have slightly hampered the workouts this week, according to Coach Ben Martin.

"We don't have any real serious injuries," Martin said after the controlled scrimmage in which the regulars ran up a 69-0 score against the reserves and Frosh in five quarters of play. "But there are a lot of bumps and bruises that keep players from going at full speed, and it slows down the entire squad to have a couple or so in there in that condition.

"For instance, we started the scrimmage (Saturday) with six ends and had to scrape to find just one able bodied one at the end," Martin said.

The AFA mentor also informally announced that from now on through the season senior left-hander Tim Murphy, a 6-0, 175-pounder from La Crosse, Wis., will be rated his No. 1 quarterback with the responsibility of engineering the Air Force offence.

"Yes, I guess you can consider Murphy our quarterback," Martin said after the port-sider went through another impressive practice. Murphy was the regular starter for the Junior Varsity under Coach Jim Bowman last year as a junior, and after recovering from a broken nose in an early drill this fall he has looked the class of the candidates bidding to take over for graduated Terry Isaacson.

Murphy scored one of the 10 touchdowns against the JVs and Frosh, passed for a high percentage (thanks considerably to some excellent receiving from ends and halfbacks), and ran the option series with good authority.

Unquestionably the most outstanding of the offensive players Saturday, as he had been since the Cadets returned from a week's conditioning in California two weeks ago, was halfback Paul Wargo. Wargo, a 192-pound junior from Whittier, Calif., scored three touchdowns, caught several passes on a variety of patterns, and ran both inside and around the terminals with tricky bursts of speed and crunching power.

Wargo also connected to end Bill Landes for a 24-yard half-bake option pass play, which should be a definite threat to opposition all season.

Other touchdowns in the runaway scrimmage were two by sophomore fullback John Ondrejko, a 204-pounder from Yukon, Pa., two more on short runs by scatback halfback Jeff Jarvis, a junior from Ft. Worth, and another on a 40-yard pass interception return by senior end John Puster.

Martin declined to single out any of the defensive players until viewing the films taken of Saturday's scrimmage, but from the sidelines strickouts were ends Joe O'Gorman, a senior from Dearborn, Mich., who has grown to a husky 214 pounds, and linebackers Wendy Harkleroad and Larry Tollstam.

Tollstam appears to be one of the most improved players on the squad so far this fall, playing for the most part on defense behind the line. As a sophomore, Tollstam was hailed as a candidate for future national honors for his power-packed running, but after slipping slightly last year as a junior he has shown a determination to get back as a regular with the defenders. Oddly enough, Tollstam never has played defense before this season, but has been causing some of the bruises Martin is now attempting to heal.

Also seeing extended duty with the defenders were end Puster, tackles Gerry Twardowski (234 pounds) and Gary Fausti (210), guards Mike Hanagan (212) and sophomore Don Heckert (204).

Martin has divided his squad into specialists with one unit working for the most part on offense and another on defense. However, he said he and his staff haven't settled on a system to get the most out of the new substitution rules. The rules permit exchange of an entire team when the clock is stopped, except when the ball changes hands. But there will always be times when it will not be able to sub a whole unit so they must be able to play both ways.

In the scrimmage on Saturday, as will be the case next Saturday as the Falcons run a dress rehearsal in the stadium, Martin had his regulars playing by offensive and defensive units, while the opposing Junior Varsity ran Washington plays and the Frosh played defense.

Quarterback Howie Burkart, a 178-pound senior from Coral Gables, Fla., was backing up Murphy with the offensive unit and showed poise and coolness, especially with his passing. The third quarterback bidding to take over the signal calling chores, Dave Backus of Denver, was running with the JVs.

FALCON FEATHERS—Placekicking specialist Bart (Doc) Holaday, who kicked 23 conversions and seven field goals last season to rate second to Isaacson in total points scored, split the posts on nine of 10 conversions Saturday. His only miss was because of a bad snap from center and the ball was never placed well. . .There was some excitement on the sidelines as an unauthorized cameraman with movie film was spotted in the stands — he was a Catholic priest from Elkhart, Ind., a few miles from Notre Dame's campus. . .For the first time this fall, top safetyman Paul Stein, a junior from Lansing, Mich., saw action in Saturday's scrimmage. He has been recovering from a cut on his foot — sustained this summer while surf boarding.

GIVES FALCONS SIZE — Sophomore tackle Gerry Twardowski, 234-pound, 6-3 native of Reading, Pa., will add plenty of size to the line this season for the Falcons of the Air Force Academy. Twardowski is slated for regular duty with the defensive unit, and showed will in Saturday's scrimmage against the Junior Varsity and Freshmen. The Falcons open their season in two weeks against the University of Washington at Seattle. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Injured Players to Return To Colorado College Lineup

A return from the injury list of a couple of key players and a scrimmage that had the Colorado College coaches talking, if not expecting, better things at the close of last week's workouts.

Mike Mestek, last year's start halfback, and tackle David Hays both hampered with bad knees, are due to be in shape for the Sept. 19 home opener with Concordia. Other injured personnel are in various states of repair and may rejoin the squad soon or late.

One top hope for the Tigers who will not return is quarterback Cubby Welch who suffered a blood clot on the brain. Head coach Jerry Carle said Welch may undergo an operation early this week.

Bill Cunningham and Dennis Pendleton, both ends, were praired freely after Saturday's scrimmage. "They really surprised us," beamed Carle. Others earning praise for hard work were safety Milt Franks and 165-pound tackle Jimmy Studholm.

"Our offense was disappointing," Carle summed up. "Without Welch, we had hardly any passing attack. On the whole, we lacked punch."

The staff seemed to expect that their charges would come around by the opening game. "We haven't been hitting hard," Carle noted. "But that's characteristic of our teams. We should improve by the time we play Concordia."

Injured players who will miss at least some of the games are center Roger Williams, fullback Ray Cool, halfbacks Bob Pollock and Bobby Richardson and guard-linebacker Ron Jackson.

Yankees Score Crucial Win Over Kansas City; Pepitone Homers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Joe Pepitone's three-run homer in the fourth inning snapped a 6-6 tie and carried the New York Yankees to a 9-7 triumph over Kansas City Saturday night.

Pepitone's 21st homer came off reliever Ken Sanders after Roger Maris singled and Mickey Mantle walked with two out.

Just moments before, in the third inning, the Athletics had rallied for five runs, tying the game. Kansas City was aided by five walks, two by starter Al Downing and three by reliever Stan Williams.

After Williams walked Nelson Mathews, forcing in the fourth run of the inning, Ralph Terry came on. Dick Green hit a sacrifice fly, knocking in Doc Edwards with the tying run, but Terry retired pinch hitter Manny Jimenez for the final out.

John (Blue Moon) Odum, a $75,000 bonus pitcher signed out of high school in June, made his major league debut for the Athletics, but the Yankees battered him mercilessly in the first two innings.

The 19-year-old Odum gave up a leadoff single to Tony Kubek in the first and walked Bobby Richardson before Mickey Mantle slammed his 30th homer.

Then in the second inning New York scored three more runs on run-producing singles by Downing and Maris and Odum's wild pitch. Jose Santiago replaced Odum at the beginning of the third inning.

Cincinnati Overpowers Milwaukee

CINCINNATI (AP) — Home runs by Vada Pinson and John Edwards in the fifth inning powered Cincinnati to a 5-1 triumph over Milwaukee Saturday night behind Bob Purkey's three-hit pitching.

The only hits off Purkey, 9-8, were singles by Gary Kolb in the second inning and Felipe Alou and Rico Carty in the sixth.

Alou's belt drove in the Brave's run.

Pinson led off the fifth with his 19th homer. One out later, Deron Johnson singled, bringing on Billy Hoeft for starter Bob Sadowski. Hoeft struck out Mel Queen, but Edwards slammed his sixth homer into the right field bleachers.

The Reds scored their first two runs with the help of Milwaukee errors. Frank Robinson singled in the first inning, moved to third as Denis Menke fumbled Johnson grounder and came across on Queen's single.

Vada Pinson started the third with a single stole second, advanced to third on Joe Torre's miscue and scored as Johnson singled.

Howells, Fullerton Capture Valley-Hi Jinx Golf Title

First round leaders Dan Howells and his guest Dale Fullerton of Lusk, Wyo., continued their top play in Saturday's final round of the first annual Valley-Hi Jinx Invitational Golf Tournament to win by seven strokes.

Coming in second was the team of Marty Beyer and Steve Schuck, both of Colorado Springs, who ended the tourney with an adjusted score of 291. Howells and Fullerton had a two-day total of 284.

A third place tie was settled in extra holes with Jerry Wagner and partner Warren Simmons of the Air Force Academy winning over fourth place finishers Jack Williams and Fate Hutchinson. Both teams had scores of 295 for the two days.

The tourney was played with gross scores minus their combined handicaps. Each player received a matching cap and jacket and a participation trophy, with the first two places each getting leather golf bags, third place two blazers and fourth sweaters.

The individual low net score of 132 was shot by Howells with a 132 (combined with his 18 handicap). Howells and his wife will receive an expense paid trip for five days to the Scottsdale Country Club in Scottsdale, Ariz. Individual low gross of 145 by Simmons won a pair of gold golf shoes.

There were 32 two-man teams in the tournament, with Valley Hi members inviting their partner guests.

Jets Rally in 4th Period To Slip Past Bills, 19-17

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Dick Wood threw a 17-yard touchdown pass to Don Maynard with less than three minutes to go, giving the New York Jets a 19-17 victory over the Buffalo Bills in an American Football League exhibition game Saturday night.

The Jets had gone ahead 12-3 in the third quarter on two field goals by Jim Turner and a seven-yard run by rookie Mike Taliaferro around left end.

The Bills scored first on a 43-yard field goal by rookie Pete Gogolak in the first period. Buffalo put together two TD's on passes from sophomore Quarterback Daryle Lamonica to lead 17-12. Ed Rutkowski took the first toss 20 yards in the third quarter and Cookie Gilchrist carried the second for a 12-yard touchdown in the fourth quarter.

The Jets, last in the Eastern Conference last season, now are 4-1 in the exhibition season and the Bills 2-3.

Phillies Top Struggling Giants, 9-3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gus Triandos smashed a grand slam homer and Frank Thomas drove in three runs, powering National League-leading Philadelphia to a 9-3 victory over San Francisco Saturday night.

Jim Bunning scattered nine hits, winning his 16th game against four defeats. Two of the hits were bases-empty home runs by Jim Hart in the third inning and Orland Cepeda in the sixth.

The Phillies scored all of their runs in two bursts. They jumped on starter Bob Bolin in the first inning, erupting for four runs before he could retire a batter.

Broncos Down Patriots

DENVER (AP) — Quarterback Jackie Lee's first appearance before hometown fans helped Denver defeat Boston 28-17 in an American Football League exhibition Saturday.

The victory was Denver's second in five pre-season games and the 12th straight exhibition loss for the Patriots, Eastern Division champions a year ago.

The Bronco defense gave up two touchdowns, one running and one passing — the latter with six minutes to play as Boston quartback Babe Parilli hit Gino Cappelletti on a 28-yard.

Charley Mitchell danced his way for 76 yards for the game's opening score on Lee's first pass of the first period.

A fumble by Boston quarterback Tom Yewcic was recovered by Denver tackle Harold Olson on the Patriots' 22, and a minute later Mitchell swept left to score.

On a quick pitch out from Parilli, Jim Crawford ran 2 yards to score for Boston. The Pats added a 20-yard fielder late in the third period.

Lee hit Lionel Taylor for 14 yards in the third Denver TD drive, and Odell Barry sped over from the 11. Willie Brown, Bronco defensive back, stole his fourth pass of the exhibition season, taking a Parilli toss for 69 yards and a score.

Vikings Defeat Eagles

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Quarterback Fran Tarkenton capped a 78-yard drive with a four yard scoring pass to Bill Brown, and Fred Cox kicked his third extra point with 16 seconds remaining as the Minnesota Vikings defeated the Philadelphia Eagles 21-20 in a National Football League exhibition game here Saturday night.

It was Minnesota's fifth victory in as many exhibition games and spoiled the debut of Eagles' rookie quarterback Jack Concannon, who ran for 110 yards. He set up two field goals and a touchdown that had given the Eagles a 20-14 lead before the final scoring drive by the Vikings.

Ron VanderKelen's passing accounted for the other two Viking scores. He hit Hal Bedsole with a 15-yarder and Jerry Reichow with a 12-yarder.

The Vikings held a 14-13 lead when Concannon made a third period 60-yard run that put the ball on the Viking 15. On the next play rookie fullback Israel Lang bolted into the end zone. Sam Baker, who had kicked field goals of 39 and 15 yards, added the extra point, thus setting the stage for the game-winning Viking drive.

Eagle quarterback King Hill, whose pass on the second play of the game was intercepted on the Eagles' 19 by Roy Winston to set up the first Viking score, connected on a 41-yard TD pass to Pete Retzlaff for the other Eagle touchdown.

Tough Lion's Defense Stifles Giants Enroute to 24-10 NFL Exhibition Win

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) —The Detroit Lions defeated New York's eastern Conference champion Giants 24-10 Saturday night in their final exhibition game of the season. The game was the first half of a doubleheader before more than 83,000 fans.

It was a loosely played game in which the rival coaches took their long last look at some budding talent before settling down to the National Football League title chase beginning next weekend.

Giant quarterback Y.A. Tittle played only a few minutes at the start and steered the New Yorkers 72 yards in 10 plays for their only touchdown — a three-yard toss to Aaron Thomas.

Gary Wood, the Giant rookie from Cornell, went the rest of the way at quarterback, and viewed much of the proceedings from the seat of his pants as he was spilled many times by the charging Detroit forward wall led by 300-pound Roger Brown.

Milt Plum played the first half for Detroit at the signal-calling post and got the Lions out in front with a 24-yard pass to Gail Cogdill. Detroit's Tom Watkins put the Lions ahead to stay with a two-yard touchdown run, climaxing an 80-yard drive at the start of the second period, and after that substitutes played most of the contest.

Don Chandler booted a 45-yard place kick for New York in the second quarter. Detroit's Wayne Walker matched it from the 16 and then big Jim Gibbons took a 36-yard pass from Earl Morrall to wind up the scoring. Morrall played the entire last half at quarterback.

The loss wound up a disappointing exhibition season for the Giants, who lost the four of the five pre-season contests. Detroit's victory was its third against one loss and a tie.

Cleveland met Green Bay in the second half of the doubleheader.

Plum completed nine of 14 passes for 133 yards and Morrell four of five for 64, but they were tossed for 41 yards in losses as the Giants broke through five times.

Wood, who completed eight of 19 for 60 yards, lost 45 yards.

Don Chandler of the Giants came up with a mid-season punting performance. He averaged 57.3 yards on three kicks. The Giants had the edge in first downs 18 to 17, but picked up four on penalties.

Over-all the Lions had a 261 to 202 advantage in net yards gained.

SHORT GIANT GAIN—Joe Morrison (No. 40), New York Giants' halfback, is brought down on the one-yard line by an unidentified Detroit Lions' tackler after racing from the three yard line in the first quarter of the opener of Saturday's National Football League Doubleheader exhibition game. The Detroit defenders are Sam Williams (No. 88), an end, and halfback Yale Lary (No. 28). On the next play, the Giants tied the score 7-7 on Y. A. Tittle's pass to Frank Gifford. (AP Wirephoto)

Lee Traub Paces City Golf Tourney

Lee Traub fired a three-under par 69 to take the lead in the championship flight of the City Golf Championship Saturday at the Municipal Patty Jewett golf course.

Traub's 69 was tops among the 60 entries in the championship flight. Bob DeWitt fired a 72 along with Maury Gose, while Less Williams and Jim Popovich are tied for fourth place with 73 each.

In the junior flight, for 14-17 year olds, Tom Connel fired an 80 to take the lead in that division. Don Astley and Mike Borkowski were deadlocked for second place with 82 and John Reeves was in fourth position with an 83. There are 17 entries in the junior division.

Rocky Whitworth shot an 89 to take the leadership in the pee-wee flight, for boys 11-13 years old, with Terry Taylor in the second spot via a 91. Mike Rothe is third with 94, followed Mark MacFarland with 96.

The tournament is scheduled to resume today with 18-holes of competition and concludes Sunday with another 18-holes.

Dodgers Tumble Mets, 6-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Home runs by Tommy Davis and Wes Parker and the air-tight relief pitching of Ron Perranoski carried the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 6-2 victory over the New York Mets Saturday night.

Perranoski replaced starter Phil Ortega in the fourth inning, after the Mets scored both their runs. The left-hander came on with runners on first and third and no one out. He retired the side and blanked New York on one hit the rest of the way for his fifth victory.

Willie Davis singled in the first inning and Tommy Davis followed with his ninth homer for a 2-0 lead. Parker hit his second homer of the year, a solo shot, in the fourth. Both circuits came off loser Ron Locke.

Jurgenson Engineers 'Skins Win

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Sonny Jurgensen made his first appearance in a Washington uniform Saturday night and kept the Redskins in command all the way in a 17-10 National Football League exhibition victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Jurgenson, who had been sidelined with a shoulder injury, went all the way for the Skins and received top flight help from rookie Charley Taylor, who gained 94 yards in 17 carries, caught three passes, and scored a touchdown that sealed Washington's triumph.

The Redskins took a 10-0 lead in the opening period on a 29-yard field goal by rookie John Seedborg and on a 29-yard touchdown run by defensive halfback Lonnie Sanders after he intercepted a pass by Cardinal quarterback Buddy Humphrey.

Youthful 'Channel' 'Tanker' Ambitious

By RONALD L. SOBLE

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — La Nell Modell says her 14-year-old daughter wanted to make a name for herself to further her swimming career.

Leonore Modell did just that Thursday, battling adverse tides for 15½ hours to become the youngest person ever to swim the English Channel.

The young swimmer, a junior high school student in Sacramento, stands 5 feet, 5 inches and weighs 135 pounds.

Her mother says Leonore wants to teach physical education or perhaps go into social work.

"She's a creative girl and makes all of her own clothes," says Mrs. Modell. "Leonore doesn't have too many hobbies. Swimming takes up most of her time."

Leonore has been in training since she was six. Coached by Paul Herron of the Sacramento YMCA, she's been training especially for the 22-mile channel swim for two years.

As an eighth grader, she was a teen-age swimming phenomenon, cutting through the length of the cold mountain water of Lake Tahoe, a 25-mile distance, in a record 14 hours, 34 minutes. Before Leonore's feat, few had ever attempted to swim the length of the 6,000-foot-high lake.

"I'd like to break records in different countries around the world, I guess," she said last year after breaking the Tahoe.

Born and raised in Sacramento, Leonore says she's loved swimming ever since her father, George, 42, a carpenter, taught her how when she was five.

Her first taste of competition came five years later when she joined the swim team Herron coaches at the YMCA.

Herron said at the time he picked Leonore for his special "stressing" program "not because she was a particularly good swimmer, but because she had the right mental attitude, and because her folks were behind me 100 per cent."

Mr. Modell says "we feel this puts her in the class with some great swimmers like Florence Chadwick and Gretta Anderson."

Rawls Tourney Leader

SEATTLE (AP) — Par finally yielded Saturday on the fog-dampened Inglewood Golf Course as Betsy Rawls took over the lead in the $11,500 Inglewood Women's Open Golf tournament.

Miss Rawls, who has won two previous tournaments in Seattle, carded a one-under-par 71 for a two-day total of 144.

The only other pro in the field to better par on the 6,379-yard course was Sandra Haynie, who matched Miss Rawls' 71. This brought Sandra from well back into a seven-way tie for fourth place.

Kathy Whitworth, adding a 74 to her first-day 73, held second place. Judy Kimball, with a 75, moved into third with 149.

In the deadlock with Miss Haynie at 150 were Patty Berg, second-ranking money winner Ruth Jessen, Sandra McClinton, Mary Mills, Claudia Lindor and Shirley Englehorn.

Miss Rawls, who won women's open tourneys here in 1952 and 1959, was inconsistent off the tees, but her putting was deadly. She had a eight-one-putt greens and sank putts of 30 feet, 12 feet and 15 feet for three of her birdies.

U.S. Racer Earns Grand Prix Berth

MONZA, Italy (AP) — Dan Gurney of Riverside, Calif., has earned the No. 2 starting position for Sunday's Grand Prix of Italy Formula One race on the basis of time trials.

Gurney, driving a Brabham, was the only American to gain a front row position in the race, which will be the eighth counting toward the world driving championship.

Gurney's best clocking over the 2.6-mile circuit was 1:38.2 on Friday.

Other drivers starting from the front row will be Britain's John Surtees, in a Ferrari, who recorded the fastest time in the trials — 1:37.4 — and earned the No. 1 spot; Britain's Graham Hill, 1:38.7, third; and Jim Clark of Scotland, 1:39.1, fourth.

Other Americans in the 20-man field are Richie Ginther of Granada Hills, Calif., Ronny Bucknum of La Canada, Calif., and Peter Revson of White Plains, N.Y.

Coody Leads Dallas Tourney

By HAROLD V.RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP) — Charles Coody led a charge of Texans in the $40,000 Dallas Open Golf Tournament Saturday when he shot a three-under-par 67 to take the lead at 36 holes.

His 134 was only one stroke better than fellow Texans Rocky Thompson and Don Cherry, who played in the same threesome with Coody. Thompson shot a 64, the low round of the tournament to date.

The top four places had only one out-of-state member — Tommy Bolt, from Kennega, Fla., who came in with a four-under-par 66 to tie Cherry and Thompson for second place.

Chuck Courtney, the rookie from LaJolla, Calif., who led the first round with a 65, ran into out-of-bound trouble and fell well down the list.

Cherry, the 40-year-old professional singer now a professional golfer, shot a 68 and had 135 for 36 holes, the same as Bolt and Thompson, who like Cherry is from Wichita Falls, Tex.

The hot and dusty 6,716-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course proved easy and more than 30 cracked par in the race to make the cutoff that will trim the field to the low 70 and ties.

Bolt finished in threatening rain and a high wind. The former National Open champion tried for a 20-foot bird putt on 18 that would have tied him for the lead but missed by six inches.

Cheyenne Netters Win Match

The Cheyenne Mountain tennis team scored its first victory in five years over visiting Pueblo Central Saturday afternoon at the Indians home courts, 4-3.

This was the season's opener for Cheyenne coach Bob Grive's netters and it was sweet revenge; last season the Wildcat's tennis squad presented the Tribe with its only two defeats. The Cheyenne club compiled a 13-2 won-loss record last year.

In the singles play, Davis Francis of Central topped Cheyenne's top seeded player, sophomore Bill Pearce in three sets — 1-6, 6-3, 6-3. Other singles results: Dick Miller (Cheyenne) defeated Jim Galton, 6-4, 1-6, 9-7; Fred Ritchie (Cheyenne) defeated John Tetz, 6-4, 11-9; and Don Trujillo (Central) defeated Scott Lewis, 8-6, 8-6.

In the doubles competition, the duo of Francis and Bollinger (Central) topped Ritchie and Miller, 6-2, 6-4; and Cheyenne's Waldrod and Pearce defeated Galton and Tetz, 6-4, 6-1.

Versalles Paces Twins 10-4 Win

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Zoilo Versalles capped an eight-run Minnesota third inning by smacking a three-run homer, and the outburst carried the Twins to a 10-4 triumph over Boston Saturday.

Versalles, who broke his own club record for homers by a shortstop with his 19th clout, had struck out leading off the inning.

The Twins paraded 11 men to score the eight runs on only five hits, but they also benefitted from three walks an Carl Yastrzemski's error.

Jim Katt who doubled in two runs in the third, recorded his 16th victory against seven losses although he departed in the seventh inning after Felix Mantilla doubled and came home on a single by Al Smith. Jim Perry finished up for the Twins.

Jimmie Hall hit his 21st homer in the second inning for Minnesota's first run. Boston tied with a run on Dick Stuart's single in the top of the third before Minnesota exploded.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The time for the 6½ furlongs race, richest event in the world for fillies, was 1:18 compared to the track record at Arlington Park of 1:15 1-5.

Mr. B's Sister, supplemented for $15,000, was third and another supplementary entrant, Money to Burn, was fourth in the field of 13 2-year-olds.

Admiring, daughter of Hail to Reason and owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs of New York, paid $13.40, $9.40 and $6 to backers in a crowd of 29,439.

Sovereign Selected For America's Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Sovereign, newly-selected British challenger, went sailing Saturday.

Constellation, the United States defender for the America's Cup, was being measured.

Sovereign was selected Friday to represent England in the 19th series, dating back to 1856, which begins off this port Sept. 15. The U.S. is undefeated.

Following a celebration, the Sovereign crew went back to work with a practice sail. The Britons had defeated Kurrewa V for the sixth time in eight races of the English final trials Friday before the Royal Thames Yacht Club selection committee made known its choice.

Constellation was being measured to make sure she complied to the 12-meter yatch standards. Her crew scattered for a few days off and was not expected back until Monday night.

Sovereign is scheduled to be measured Sunday. Then both craft will undergo flotation tests to make certain there are right at their water lines, signifying they are neither over-weight nor under.

Browns Counter Graham's Attack

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Otto Graham to the contrary, the Cleveland Browns once more are building their title hopes on Jim Brown, the fullback who has gained about seven miles in seven years.

Graham, former Cleveland quarterback, recently commented, "The Browns will not win anything as long as Brown is there. He is a great athlete, but he doesn't block."

Blanton Collier, who once coached Graham and now coaches the Browns, becomes indignant about any raps on Jim Brown.

"It was an unfair thing to say," said Collier at the Browns' camp at Hiram College. "Jim does everything I ask him to do. He is primarily a ball carrier. It is not fair to criticize him. I never asked him to do anything that he hasn't done."

Inasmuch as Brown set a new NFL record last year by gaining 1,863 yards rushing and scored 15 touchdowns, Collier obviously isn't about to blast his super star.

"I think we will have more speed to the outside this year," said Collier. "We feel that will put a little more pressure on the defense.

"I think this will be the closest race in history in the Eastern Conference. The Giants are the team to beat. They have been champions for a long time.

"I think Washington is the most improved team. Philadelphia will be better and St. Louis is one of the tough ones. I think it will take an 11-3 record to win."

Jim Ninowski has been taking advantage of a chance to play while Frank Ryan has been out with injuries. Ninowski, the No. 2 quarterback, hit with five touchdown passes in an exhibition with Pittsburgh.

Cassius Clay Befuddled by Uproar Over Liston Bout He's Buttoned Up

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI (AP) — Cassius Clay is so befuddled by the uproar over his return match with Sonny Liston he is keeping the Louisville Lip buttoned these days—well, almost.

"Controversies are raging all around me," the heavyweight champion said Saturday. "All kinds of strange things are coming up. I don't know what they're gonna do. I don't know what's gonna happen.

"All I can do is fight. I don't care who I fight. The promoters put up their money for me to fight Liston, all I can do is fight him."

Even before Clay took the crown from Liston on a Technical knockout at Miami Beach on Feb. 25, he signed with Inter-Continental Promotions to handle his next fight. Liston then was half owner of the firm.

Inter-Continental has announced that it will ignore the WBA and stage the rematch in November.

As far as the legal technicalities are concerned, Clay is letting his handlers do all the talking, which is a monumental switch. Heretofore, they were lucky to get a word in edgewise.

Cassius fails to see why Liston isn't the logical man for him to fight next.

"He went six good rounds with me," Clay said. "He's the big challenger. He has a good chance.

"Don't they think Liston will put up a good fight? If so, they could have Floyd Patterson at the ringside and put him in there if I get Liston too quick.

"They let Patterson have a rematch after Liston knocked him out in the first round. They let Ingemar Johannson knock Patterson down seven times and let Ingemar Johannson knock Patterson down seven times and then they blew that up to be a big rematch.

"What's so bad about me fighting Liston again? Why would they take my title for that?

"But my managers can do all the talking about that. There's nothing I can do. I'm just training, gradually building up for the fight.

America's Curtis Cup Golf Team Stranded in Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — America's Curtis Cup golf team spent Saturday night in Ireland after an incident-packed plane journey from New York.

The United States and Britian meet in the Curtis Cup matches at Prothcawl, Wales, Friday and Saturday. And it was in Wales that the American girls should have been Saturday night.

Then bad visibility kept their plane from landing at Dublin. So the plane returned to Shannon. When it did finally land at Dublin, the girls had missed their connection to Cardiff, Wales.

From Sept. 2, 1962, until July 2, 1963, Detroit outfielder Rocky Colavito played 99 straight games without committing an error.

Grappler Gets Berth in Finals

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Two members of the 1960 United States Olympic wrestling team were eliminated Saturday in competition to determine the makeup of the freestyle team for the 1964 Games in Tokyo.

Northrup was pinned by Greg Ruth of Bethlehem, Pa., in the 154-pound class. Camilleri lost a 4-0 decision to Leonard Kaufmann of Lebanon, Ore., in the 171.5-pound division.

In the unlimited heavyweight class, 260-pound Bob Pickens of Evanston, Ill., scored his second straight fall by pinning Jim Raschke in 5 minutes, 56 seconds.

Pickens is a former University of Wisconsin football player, who transferred this year to Oklahoma State University. Raschke, a 1964 graduate of the University of Nebraska, is now with the Army in Omaha.

By winning Saturday, Pickens and three other wrestlers advanced to the finals, where a best-of-three series will determine th U.S. representative for Tokyo.

In the only one of eight weight classes already in the finals, Dave Auble of Ithaca, N.Y., decisioned Carmon Molino, also of Ithaca, 2-1 in the 125.5-pound class. The former teammates at Cornell will meet again Monday in their second match.

Lehigh's football team won the first Lambert Cup, emblematic of Eastern gridiron supremacy, in 1957 and was first to win second in 1961. Athletic Director William B. Leckonby coached both teams.

McKinley, Emerson Score Second Round National Tennis Tourney Wins

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia and America's bounding Chuck McKinley smashed into the second round but it remained for a self- exiled Czech, fat and 42, to steal the hearts of the gallery Saturday in the National Tennis Championships.

Jaroslav Drobny, a bespectacled, left-hand veteran who won tne Wimbledon title in 1954 at the age of 32 brought 7,000 fans in the West Side Stadium roaring to their feet when he took the opening set from Emerson, rated the world's best amateur.

It is immaterial that Drobny's aging legs wilted under the hot sun and Emerson, the nut-brown Queenslander, went on to score a 7-9, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4 victory. For nearly an hour the old man of world tennis had given the crowd a thrill.

Once he blunted the ferocity of Drobny's early attack, Emerson played superbly and added a note of uneasiness to U.S. Davis Cup hopes.

These hopes were further dampened when McKinley, the nation's No. 1 ranked player but seeded fourth in this event, loocked less than overpowering in an 8-6, 6-3, 8-6 triumph over left-handed Francois Godbout of Canada.

McKinley had his cannonball service sizzling, losing it only once, and he bounced around the court like a berserk billiard ball, but errors came too frequently.

It was obvious he would need to sharpen his game in the next three weeks if he is to help save the Davis Cup from the challenging Aussies at Cleveland Sept. 25-27.

Drobny was an outstanding hockey and tennis player for his country, winning the Czech national tennis championship 10 times. But when the Communists moved in he moved out and became a world citizen, first taking up residence in Egypt and finally in England.

Twice he went to the finals at Wimbledon—in 1949 and 1952—before he finally crashed through to a victory over Ken Rosewall in 1954.

Flabby now and 10 years older, the former Czech showed the same sort of racket-swinging magic against Emerson until he tired.

Down 1-4 and 2-5 after losing his service in the fourth game, Drobny broke Emerson in the ninth game and leveled the set. Then, with the crowd cheering every shot, he broke again in the 15th game and ran out the set on his own service.

Tne crowd was pulling so hard for Drobny that it was yelling at the balls to go out or stay in. Emerson had to ask the umpire to request that the gallery remain quiet.

For a set, Drobny was serving and volleying magnificently. But age caught him in the second set and then Emerson made it quick and merciful.

Carole Caldwell Graebner of Santa Monica, Calif., seeded ninth in the women's division, survived a scare and a marathon match before finally beating a plucky colleen from Ireland, Geraldine Houlihan, 11-9, 5-7, 8-6.

Mrs. Graebner was joined in the third round by Julie Heldman of New York, Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, and Maria Teresa Riedl of Italy.

Tigers Shut Out Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mickey Lolich handed the Washington Senators their fourth straight shutout Saturday, a scoreless streak that ties major league record, as the Detroit Tigers breeze to a 4-0 victory.

Lolich won his 15th and posted his fifth shutout in extending the Senators' string of scoreless innings to 37, 11 short of the major league record. It is the ninth time a club has been shut out four straight times.

The Tigers wrapped it up early with a three-run third inning off loser Buster Narum, and Bill Freehan added his 17th homer in the fourth.

Dick McAuliffe walked in the Tigers' third and scored on Don Wert's double. Billy Bruton followed with another double and scored on Jerry Lumpe's single.

Friend Sets Down Colts, 4-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Veteran Bob Friend, backed by Jerry Lynch's 16th home run and Bill Mazeroski's run-scoring triple and helped by shoddy Houston fielding, set down the Colts with six hits Saturday for a 4-1 Pittsburgh victory.

Mazeroski got the Pirates off in front in the second inning when his triple scored Lynch, who had singled.

Two plays which backfired in the fifth inning led to another Pirate run. Losing pitcher Ken Johnson had nobody to blame but himself.

White Sox Topple Indians, 8-2

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Joel Horlen pitched a six-hitter as the Chicago White Sox moved into the American League lead with an 8-2 victory over Cleveland Saturday.

The triumph boosted the White Sox one-half game and one percentage point ahead of the Baltimore Orioles, who played a night game at Los Angeles.

Horlen, winning his 11th game against eight defeats, extended his scoreless string over the Indians to 24 2-3 innings until Cleveland struck for two runs in the eighth.

The only hit off Horlen until the eighth was a leadoff single by pitcher Sonny Siebert in the third inning. Siebert, however, was erased immediately on a double play.

Ward, whose four clutch hits enabled the Sox to edge the Indians 6-5 in 10 innings Friday night, started the scoring with his 20th home run in the second inning. He singled across another tally in a three-run seventh inning.

The wind helped the White Sox in the fourth. With two out, Bill Skowron singled to right, and Ron Hansen doubled him to third. Stephens then hit a fly ball that the wind pulled out of the grasp of right fielder Salmon. It went for a double, knocking in both runners.

The Sox added two more in the fifth when center fielder Vic Davalillo lost Tom McCraw's fly ball in the sun for a triple. Al Weis followed with a run-scoring single, stole second, went to third on catcher Joe Azcue's wild throw and scored on a single by Floyd Robinson.

The Indians threatened in the ninth inning, loading the bases on singles by Leon Wagner and Max Alvis and an error with one out by Weis. But Horlen fanned pinch hitter Bob Chance and Francona for his ninth and 10th strikeouts, ending the game.

PGA Cancels Florida Winter Golf Program

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—The Professional Golfers Association cancelled its Florida winter program for members Saturday pending settlement of its legal fight with John D. MacArthur over the golf club at Palm Beach Gardens.

Biggest and oldest of the tournaments suspended was the PGA Seniors, a fixture on the winter program for 25 years.

Others canceled were the National Golf Club championship, National Golf Club match play championship, Quarter-Century Club championship, and Senior-Junior best ball championship.

MacArthur built the Palm Beach Gardens Club in a deal under which the PGA would take it over as its national headquarters.

The PGA, charging that the work was not completed, later attempted to pull out of the arrangement.

A circuit court order prohibited the PGA from vacating the premises but an appeals court reversed this ruling.

Still pending is a suit by MacArthur against the PGA demanding performance of contract. This case is expected to come up in Palm Beach County Circuit Court in November.

The tournaments cancelled this year were held last winter at Palm Beach Gardens. Saturday's announcement does not affect the PGA tour tournaments scheduled in Florida.

Three Japanese Track Records Fall in Trials

TOKYO (AP) — Three Japanese records were broken at the final Olympic track and field Olympic tryouts Saturday.

Teruo Itokawa smashed his own mark for the shot put with a toss of 53 feet, 1 inch on the opening day of the two-day meet. He old record was 51-8.

Yoshihisa Ishida also bettered Itokawa's old mark by hurling the iron ball 52-10 at the National Stadium where the Olympic track events will be held next month.

Kiyoko Ogawa won the women's 400-meter in 56.8 seconds, improving the existing women's mark by one-tenth of a second.

MAD SCRAMBLE — Chicago Cub Jim Stewart grabs the plate as Cardinal catcher Tim McCarver reaches for an elusive baseball Saturday in the second inning in St. Louis. Stewart scored from second base on Billy Williams' single to right field. McCarver blocked Stewart from the plate as he waited for outfielder Mike Shannon's throw. However, Stewart crawled around the Cardinal catcher as McCarver momentarily lost the ball. (AP Wirephoto)

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ernie Banks ignited an eight-run second inning with a homer and later doubled across two runs in the uprising, leading Chicago to an 8-5 triumph ovcr St. Louis as Larry Jackson posted his 18th victory.

Jackson, however, needed relief help from Lindy McDaniel when the Cardinals erupted for four runs in the eighth inning. Only Sandy Koufax, with 19, has won more games in the majors this season. Jackson has lost 10 times.

Banks' leadoff homer, his 19th, tied the score. Then, with two out, Chicago put together a string of five singles, two walks and Banks' double for seven more runs off Cardinal starter Mike Ceullar and reliever Bob Humphrey.

Banks drove in three runs in the inning, and singles by Jim Stewart, Billy Williams and Billy Cowan accounted for the rest. Williams and Cowan each knocked in two runs.

Lou Brock's bases-loaded single and Cowan's error on the play accounted for three runs in the eighth. Brock then scored as Bill White grounded out.

PUMPKIN PEEKERS — Willis Paul Fisher, president of the Western National Bank, now operating in a trailer at North Circle Drive and Uintah Street, squints at the pumpkin which will block construction of a new bank building. Bank officials, melted by a little girl's tears, (Judy Kinder) agreed to hold up building the bank until the pumpkin matures. Judy, who appears in the picture, had previously planted the vine on the lot at 1200 N. Circle Dr., the site later purchased by the bank for its new location. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Little Girl Uses Pumpkin To Hold Up Western Bank

EDITOR'S NOTE — A poet once said that inevitably a pause comes in the day's occupations that is known as the Children's Hour." The poet, as illustrated by this charming story of a little girl who has discovered the secret of successfully holding up a bank is quite right. The days in this story refer to the plural rather than the possessive, but let's let the bank tell the tale in its own words.

Judy Kinder, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kinder, 1200 N. Circle Dr., had quite a problem arise in her young life recently.

It all started in June of this year when she did some trading with her pal and playmate, Jimmy Dicken.

She gave Jimmy a few snails and in return he gave her three tiny pumpkin plants.

She planted the plants close to her home, in her front yard, and cared for the frowing seedlings tenderly, watering and watching over them each day.

Two of the plants grew rapidly and before she knew it, she had a pumpkin on her vine that seemed to grow by the minute.

Then came Judy's problem. A new bank had bought the property where she and her family reside and her parents informed her they would be moving shortly to allow the bank to construct a new building.

The only thing on Judy's mind at that instant was the thought of her precious pumpkin plants — what would happen to them?

Tears began to fall down her cheeks. Her mother and father tried to comfort her and tell her she could grow more pumpkins next year and that she just couldn't take her pumpkin plants with her for transplanting because they would die.

Judy just couldn't understand why the bank wouldn't wait until her pumpkins were ripe before starting the building construction.

The Western National Bank, which has bought the property where the pumpkins reside, has come to Judy's rescue.

Construction of the new bank building will hold still until the pumpkin ripens. Thanks to the bank it looks like Judy's pumpkin will have a big smile come Halloween nite.

But, it seems more problems arise, Judy's pumpkin has grown a family — we now have papa and mama and big brother and sis and quite a few babies— even twins. If this keeps up — well?

The Western National Bank sure has a big heart and Judy will always be grateful. She may not have the biggest pumpkins in the world but her particular pumpkin will always be number one in her life — the pumpkin that could hold up an entire bank.

Judy is entering the fifth grade at Franklin Elementary School, this year. She is a member of tne Maizeland 4-H Club and is enrolled in knitting and associate foods number one. She entered her knitting and baking in the El Paso County 4-H exhibition held this July, and was presented with a blue ribbon for her knitting project and a red ribbon for her baking.

Off-the-Job Accidents Prove Most Costly

Workers suffer more accidental deaths and injuries off the job than they do on the job, according to the National Safety Council.

In 1963, nearly seven out of 10 deaths and more than half of the injuries occurred off the job.

Off-job deaths and injuries cause loss of production time, too. The council reported that in 1963, workers injured off the job lost a total of 50,000 000 man-ddays compared with 000 man-days compared with workers injured on the job.

Off-job injuries seldom cause any indirect losses of time though, in contrast with on-job injuries which caused a loss of about 190,000,000 man-days in 1963.

New Social Security Benefits to Hike Costs

To pay the bill for proposed increased Social Security benefits, Congress is considering amendments which will cost employers, employees and the self-employed about $1.2 billion in extra contributions beginning next Jan. 1, says Commerce Clearing House, national reporting authority on tax and business law.

These groups will be paying more Social Security taxes on a bigger annual taxable wage base under this legislation.

The amendments call for an extension of the annual wage base from its current $4,800 level to $5,400 beginning next year. They also call for a hike in the current combined employer-payroll tax rates.

Where presently the employer and the employee are each taxed at 3.625 per cent of the worker's first $4,800 earned in a year, they would be taxed at 3.8 per cent each of the employee's first $5,400 beginning next year.

And the self-employed person, now taxed at 5.4 per cent of his first $4,800, would be taxed 5.7 per cent of his first $5,400 as his annual contribution to the Federal Old-Aige, Survivors and Disability Insurance System.

Further, these proposed rates would generally rise in ensuing years, CCH said.

For instance, the separate employer-employee rate would rise in 1966 and 1967 to 4 per cent from the proposed 1965 rate of 3.8 per cent, while the self-employed rate would climb to 6 per cent these years.

For the years 1968, 1969 and 1970, the amendments call for a reduction from the existing rates allocated for these years by the law. Where now the employer-employee rate for these years is 4.625 per cent and the self-employed rate is 6.9 per cent, these rates would be respectively 4.5 per cent and 6.8 per cent under the bill.

But in 1971 the rates would rise again — to 4.8 per cent for employers and employees, and 7.2 per cent for the self-employed. The present law specifies that the 1971 rate for employers and employees shall be 4.625 per cent and for the self-employed, 6.9 per cent.

A comparison of today's financing figures with those when Social Security first went into effect in 1937 reveals that with growth in the benefits came increased costs, CCH said.

Where initially the employer and employee each paid a 1 per cent Social Security tax on wages up to $3,000, each now pays 3⅝ per cent on the worker's wages up to $4,800 with the possibility of both a bigger taxable wage base and a higher tax rate. The initial rate prevailed through 1949.

Between the "then" and "now" of Social Security lie increases in both the wage base and the tax rate. In 1950, the rate rose to 1.5 per cent and was made to apply to all wages up to $3,600 beginning in 1951. In 1954, the rate rose to 2 per cent to apply on wages up to $4,200 after 1954, and in 1959, the rate rose to 2.5 per cent with the wage tax base rising to $4,800, CCH said.

This broadening of the taxable wage base and gradual rise in Social Security tax rates is to finance a 5 per cent increase in benefits — now amounting to about $16.6 billion going to the millions of beneficiaries on the Act's rolls. In 1940 about 200,000 beneficiaries received slightly more than $20 million in benefits.

As an illustration of the 29-year-old law's growth, the average worker benefit in 1939 was slightly more than $20 a month while today it is about $77. Families got about $85; today they are averaging more than $250 each month, CCH said.

If Social Security amendments pending in Congress become law, total benefit payouts would be increased by about $1.6 billion beginning next year.

This figure includes the following estimated amounts:

—about $925 million resulting from the 5 per cent across-the-board benefit increase.

—some $175 million from the increased benefit payments to children aged 18-21 who are in full-time attendance.

121 Million Gas Units Are Now in U.S. Service

More than 121 million gas appliances are now in daily service in homes throughout the United States, according to an analysis by the American Gas Association.

If these appliances were placed side by side, there would be enough to circle the world three times. The nation's 42 million gas using families average nearly three gas appliances each.

Gas ranges are still the most popular of the gas appliance line, with 35.8 million in use.

He spent 13 years with General Motors Acceptance Corporation after finishing at Kansas University. He was sales manager for GMAC.

He spent four years in the Air Force during World War II being discharged with the rank of lieutenant colonel. After the war he was general sales manager for Butts Buick Cadillac Olds Company in Wichita and later sales manager for Butts Buick.

Seidl went into business for himself at Great Bend, Kan. Later, coming to Colorado Springs he joined the Fitzgerald Ross company where he held the position of sales manager.

Harold (Hal) Wilson, has had many years in the automobile business. After three years in military service he was associated with the adjusting of auto claims, selling auto insurance and working four years with Ford Motor Factory sales.

He came to Colorado Springs from California and worked with TV and musical instrument sales before being employed with the Faricy company.

Richard H. Pearson (Dick) retired from military service with the rank of captain. He is a native of Enid, Okla., and came to Colorado Springs with the 31st signal company.

Labor Day Safety Patrol Set Up by CMCA Group

The Colorado Motor Carriers Assn. (CMCA) joined forces with state highway safety officials Friday in a drive to help reduce Colorado's highway traffic toll during the long Labor Day weekend ahead.

Starting at 3 p.m. MST a dozen CMCA Safety Road Patrol cruisers wheeled onto major highway routes fanning out from the greater Denver area. At the wheel were volunteer safety supervisors and other personnel from major Denver-based truck lines and allied industries.

The special trucking industry safety patrol, sponsored by the CMCA Council of Safety Supervisors will be on the road from 3 p.m. Friday through 10 p.m. Monday. Well-marked CMCA safety patrol cars will be covering major routes at peak traffic periods, lending assistance to motorists with mechanical troubles, flat-tires, out-of-gas, and other problems, in addition to any assistance needed in case of accidents.

Bob Drumond, chairman of the CMCA Council of Safety Supervisors, said that Emil Zwiezen, safety supervisor for Navajo Freight Lines, Denver, is directing the CMCA Safety Road Patrol operation during the holiday weekend. The special patrol is being fully coordinated with the Colorado State Patrol.

State Patrol Chief Gib Carrel, in approving the special patrol, commended the trucking industry safety council officials for establishing the operation as a "helpful adjunct" to the State Patrol's own widespread surveillance throughout the holiday weekend.

Zwiezen said that the CMCA "patrolmen" will not be deputized for the holiday road patrol operation, nor will they have any enforcement powers.

"Their only aim is to assist motorists and help the State Patrol and its officers in any way that they can," he said.

Safety officials manning the special CMCA Road Safety Patrol cars represent Navajo, Denver-Chicago, Transport Indemnity, the Ringsby System, P. I. E., Ward Transport, IML, Consolidated, ICX, Curtis Scott and several others.

West — U. S. 6 & 40; North— U. S. 85 & 87; South — U. S. 85-87; East — U. S. 6, and Southwest — U. S. 285.

The CMCA Patrol will range as far north as Greeley, as far south as Colorado Springs, west to Loveland and Berthoud passes, southwest through Turkey Creek Canyon to Shaffers Crossing, and east to Fort Morgan.

During the holiday weekend, the CMCA safety patrol will be cruising all routes from 3 p.m. to midnight on Friday; all routes from 8 a.m. to 12 noon Satuday; all day today on west, north and south patrol routes; and, all routes on Monday, from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. when homeward-bound traffic is expected to reach the weekend high.

A minumum for family camping is tent, sleeping bags, air mattresses, wool blankets ground cloth, flashlight, lantern, campstove, cooking equipment, plastic or paper plates, water jug, matches, toilet tissue, paper towels, soap and a can opener.

Junior College Installs Computer Storage Drive

To keep its data processing training program up to date, Otero Junior College has installed an IBM 1311 Disk Storage Drive for its 1620 Computer. Data processing is the newest of Otero's technical education programs.

This random access storage has a place in every type of business and is rapidly being adopted by all tyes of data processing installations according to Martin F. Beyer, IBM Data Processing Representative from Colorado Springs.

Even more important, any single record in disk storage can be selected randomly and made available for processing in mili-seconds. The older type of sequential access was much slower.

On the market for only 90 days, the 1311 is already revolutionizing data processing installations all over the country by greatly increasing the speed, storage capacity, size of problem capabilities and by providing random access to stored information. All previous access was sequential only.

The new disk storage drive uses lightweight, removal disk packs only 14 inches in diameter and four inches high to store data. For a specific job, the disk pack containing information relating to that job is used. A quick change to another disk pack and an entirely different job is ready to be processed. Changeover time is approximately one minute.

Up to two million characters of information can be stored in each disk pack, and as many disk packs as are needed can be used to store pertinent records and information. This virtually unlimits the storage capacity of a data processing system.

With the drive's data transfer rate of 77,000 characters per second, all information stored on a disk pack can be completely read and rewritten in about three minutes.

It provides speedy access to important information and decreases processing time. Banks are moving towards random storage processing to increase customer service and keep information readily available for management's use in decision making.

Distribution firms requiring large inventories have found it invaluable in inventory control. Public utilities, food processing companies, hotels, manufacturers and others have found it almost indispensable in solving mass data storage problems.

NEW COMPUTER DRIVE—Martin F. Beyer, left, IBM Data Processing Representative from Colorado Springs, explains the operational advantages of the new 1311 Disk Storage Drive to Sam Schauerman. Otero Junior College admissions and records director. The college recently added the Disk Storage Drive to its 1620 Data Processing Installation. The drive is a highly flexible storage device that increases the speed of the computer from five to ten times, adds almost unlimited data storage capacity, and provides random access to stored records and information. Beyer is holding one of the removable disk packs.

Site Work Is Complete at Florence

Site work has been completed and placing of concrete is scheduled to begin this week on the new bulk loading facilities and storage silos at the Ideal cement company plant located five miles east of Florence, it was announced this week by Jack Haeger, Ideal's project engineer.

The preliminary work, which includes excavating, earth moving and general clearing of the area, was being completed over the weekend.

The first concrete used on the job will be the eight foot thick concrete base on which the entire facility will rest. Haeger noted that the project is on schedule.

Actual construction of the silos is scheduled to begin the second week in October. The slip-form method of construction will be used — movable forms are filled with concrete and "slipped" upward as the concrete sets. Once the slip forming of the silos begins it will not stop until the structure reaches full height. It will table about three weeks to complete the walls of these huge 140-ft high structures, the project engineer stated.

At the peak of this phase of the project, about 200 construction workers will be employed at Portland.

Several pieces of the major equipment have been delivered. Those include the thre 10-foot wide by 100-foot long, 50-ton capacity scales, and 50-ft long, 150-ton rail scales.

It has been estimated by Ideal that about 14,000 cubic yards of concrete will be used on the project. This is enough concrete to place a standard four-foot wide by four-inch thick sidewalk from the Portland plant to Pueblo and back.

When completed, the new facilities will increase total storage capacity at the Portland plant by 150,000 barrels. Coupled with the present storage of 170,000 barrels, Ideal will have atorage capacity in excess of 320,000 barrels at Portland.

In adition to the increased storage, the faculty will provide high-speed bulk truck and rail loading facilities. It will be possible to load, weigh and certify, and have on its way in less than 10 minutes a standard 145-barrel bulk cement carrier. Standard 450-barrel bulk cement railcars will be loaded in less than 30 minutes.

Airlines File Applications For New Routes

Major airlines filed new applications and amended applications this week for routes between the Pacific Northwest and the Southwest.

A number of cities also have filed applications for new services, and both airlines and cities have urged the CAB to modify various rules which it has proposed to apply to the important new proceeding.

The route applications include:

Continental - Between Portland-Seattle, Spokane, Boise, Salt Lake City, Denver and Colorado Springs.

Braniff has learned of the Civil Aeronautics Board Examiner's ruling which would enable Braniff to extend its routes from Dallas and Fort Worth to Miami and Fort Lauderdale, Florida via New Orleans and St. Petersburg, Clearwater and Tampa.

National Airlines has filed for an amendment of its Route 39 to extend its service beyond New Orleans and Houston to Seattle - Tacoma, via the intermediate points of San Antonio, Ft. Worth, Dallas, Denver, Salt Lake City and Portland.

In accordance with the Pacific Northwest-Southwest service investigation instituted by the Civil Aeronautics Board, National today applied for this route extension.

The airlines simultaneously dismissed a previous application which had included service to various other cities now beyond the scope of the case, with respect to long haul service.

Nationals application would not only provide single plane service between Texas and Washington, which the board has stated is "The one remaining major service area within the country seeking substantial needed single carrier service," but with its (Nationals) existing routes, the airline could provide the first one-carrier single plane service between the northwest and southwest states and Florida.

L. B. Maytag, Jr., Nationals president said, "This expansion would fit into our present route patterns. In providing service between the points applied for, we would use DC-8 and B-727 jets and Electra II Prop-jets and such other modern equipment as may be needed."

National is presently operating thirteen DC-8's, 17 Electra II's, and has on order 10 B-727's with an option for three more such aircraft.

Missouri Pacific Orders New Engines, Cars

Orders for 1,750 new freight cars and 50 locomotives, at a cost of more than $36,000,000 have been placed by the Missouri Pacific System, Downing B. Jenks, president, announced today.

Delivery of the new cars is to begin next month and be completed by next August, Jenks said. They are part of the road's 1965 improvement program, he added.

This is the fifth consecutive year of heavy purchases of new freight cars and locomotives to improve service and modernize the MoPac, Jenks pointed out. In this time, the system has bought more than 8,000 new cars and 206 locomotives at a cost of over $156,644,000, he said.

"We are building a modern, balanced fleet of cars to meet the needs of our shippers and receivers of freight in the rapidly-expanding 12-state area served by Mo-Pac," Jenks said. "We have invested heavily in the new type of special purpose cars today's products and distribution methods require for most efficient and economical handling. At the same time we have added to our supply of standard freight cars — the traditional work horses of the railroads.

"We have also concentrated on maintaining the freight cars we own in top condition, keeping about 97 per cent of our cars in good repair, available for service. MoPac has more than 56,000 freight cars."

State Insurance Growth Vital In Two Ways

Continiung growth of the insurance business in Colorado, with attainment of new records in calendar 1963 and fiscal 1963-1964, reflects both substantial population gains and a commendable increase in the public's appreciation of insurance protection in the economic structure.

This is emphasized in the 82nd annual report of the Commissioner of Insurance, just off the press and based upon compilation of statistics from the yearly statements of the more than 800 insurance corporations licensed to do business in the State of Colorado.

State Insurance Commissioner J. Richard Barnes, C.L.U. in his report to Gov. John A. Love, calls attention to a 5.9 per cent increase in total premiums from $333,590,528 in calendar year 1962 to $353,410,410 in 1963, with 1963 claims of $191,079,093 representing an 8.2 per cent increase over 1962 payments totaling $176,601,150.

Insurance Department receipts turned over to Colorado's general fund reached a new high of $7,694,866.45 during fiscal 1963-1964, a 5.9 per cent increase over $7,266,671.08 collected during the comparable period of 1962-1963. Such receipts reprsent taxes, liscenses and fees collected from insurance companies, agents and brokers.

"The Department of Insurance is particularly proud that such increased business was handled most economically," said Commissioner Barnes, in directing attention to how greatly recipts exceeded the Department's appropriated budget of $330,608 for fiscal 1964-1965 and $318,434 for 1963-1964.

Despite the Department's need of increased personel, Commissioner Barnes was enthusiastic over his staff's record of efficiently administering the State's insurance laws and regulations for fair and proper supervision of insurance companies and protection of policyholders.

Securities deposited for benefit and protection of policyholders and under joint control of the Insurance Department and the companies totaled $93,083,843 the past fiscal year, representing an increase of more than 5½million.

The Department assisted with approximately 6,000 claims the past year — a service available, incidentally, only to owners of polies with insurance companies duly lisenced in compliance with Colorado statures. Such important service is not legally available to persons holding policies with companies which, unlicensed, give no evidence of complying with this State's laws.

The Department gave detailed triennial examinations to 23 domestic insurance companies and participated in out-of-state examination of four companies during the year.

During the 1963 - 1964 fiscal year, the licensing division gave examinations to 2,723 agents and brokers, and issued or renewed 42,496 agents' liscenses, 1,586 resident and non-resident brokers' liscenses, and 426 personal employees' liscenses.

Of the 801 insurance corporations liscensed by Colorado as of December 31, 1963, some 55 were Colorado-based. Heading premium income were the 320 life, accident and health companies with a total of $191,331,433, others being: 348 multiple line companies ,$131,640,969; -117 casualty and miscellaneous companies, $27,229,290, and 16 fire companies, $3,208,718.

Aslo indicative of Colorado's insurance growth is the $7,935,259,621 insurance that Legal Reserve Life companies had in force as of December 31, 1963, a commendable increase of 8.2 per cent over the $7,336,480,516 the year before.

The Insurace Department reports effective operation of the 1963 legislative act revising upward the capital, surplus and or guaranty fund requirements of certain insurance companies, thereby affording additional protection to the insurer and insured.

Colorado's new bail bond law which became effective July 1, 1963, under administration of the Insurance Department, provides protection through proof of character and financial responsibility of individuals posting bonds and by supervision of their activites. Thirty-eight Colorado bondsmen and 14 solicting agents were licensed as of June 30, 1964.

To further the progress of the insurance industry, the Colorado Insurance Department will continue its co-operation with the National Association of Insurance Commissioners in sponsorship of just and uniform laws among the states. High standards of the Colo. Department were again recognized when this State's new Commissioner was named one of six regional members on the N.A.I.C. executive committee.

Copies of the 82nd annual report of the Commissioner of Insurance of Colorado are available at $2 each, payable in advance, from the Department of Insurance, State Office Building, Colfax at Sherman, Denver Colorado 80203.

Rock Island Realigns Labor Relations

A realignment of the Rock Island Lines' labor relations and personnel administration activities was announced by R. Ellis Johnson, president of the railroad.

Under the new arrangement, effective immediately, Fred J. Meyer has been appointed to the position of director of personnel and will head up a separate department handling solely personnel matters.

Contract negotiations and other relations with the labor organizations representing employees on the Rock Island will continue to be administered by a department headed by Guy E. Mallery, vice president — labor relations, Johnson said.

Previously, Mallery's title was vice president—personnel.

"We propose to expand our activities in the area of inventorying and evaluating our personnel for purposes of filling supervisory position vacancies" Mr. Johnson said. "Training and management development work will also be stepped up," he added.

Meyer began his Rock Island career in February, 1953, as assistant to the division engineer in Chicago. Subsequently he was assigned as an assistant trainmaster at Little Rock, Arkansas, and Fairbury Nebraska.

In November, 1954, he was assigned to the personnel and labor relations department in Chicago as a personnel officer. He served in that department until his appointment as director of sales training and management development in the traffic department in May, 1963.

He has a bachelor of education degree from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Illinois, and an M.A. degree from the State University of Iowa.

Duckwall Store To Open in Venetian Village

Dave Anderson, district manager of the Duckwall store chain in the Rocky Mountain Region, has announced the opening of a Duckwall store in the Venetian Shopping Center in the near future.

The store, to be located at 3029 N. Hancock Ave., has been completely remodeled and will afford 5,000 square feet of space. The interior has been repainted, decorated and new fixtures have been added.

Plans are to open the store in late September, Anderson said.

The store, the sixth to be opened in the local region, will carry the basic Duckwall lines such as lingerie, hosiery for ladies, women's and children's wearing apparel, small household items, toys and hardware.

Manager of the new store will be Robert Karlin, a native of Kansas, with many years experience in this selling line.

Karlin will come to Colorado Springs from the Duckwall store in Pueblo.

In addition to his store experience, he is a graduate of Ft. Hays College and holder of a BS degree in business administration.

Reynolds Company Has New 'Foil-Fabric' Product

Archer Aluminum Division of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company has announced a new "foil - fabric" product, to be known as Foylon .Production is scheduled to begin this coming fall.

Foylon is a laminate of aluminum foil and textile fabric. The process provides a final product that retains the porosity, flexibility, and other properties of the fabric, yet has the metallic properties of aluminum, including reflectivity and conductivity. J. W. McDowell, Jr., general manager of Archer, says, "It is a unique material in that it possesses the combination of these two properties to a much greater degree than any other commerciall available material.

The manufacturing process forces the foil into the spaces between the individual textile threads, breaking the foil and wrapping it part way around each thread, thus creating an excellent bond between foil and fabric. The foil is visible from one side only and the opposite face of the fabric retains its original appearance.

Archer will manufacture and market Foylon in the United States under an exclusive license arrangement with Shirley Institute of Manchester, England. Both the product and the process are patented.

Foylon lends itself to a large range of end uses, since it combines thermal insulation with the permeability to air and water - vapor of a woven textile fabric. As McDowell puts it, "In effect, it is a reflective material that will breathe. It can be produced in a number of different types, depending on the fiber and weave of the basic fabric.

Present plans envisage quantity production by Arch Aluminum for a variety of markets, conceivably ranging from consumer goods such as drapery linings and sleeping bags to industrial products such as automobile headliners and protective clothing for fire fighters. There are possible applications for the armed services and space exploration.

One of Foylons more important properties is its high reflectivity of radiant heat (about 90 per cent). Up to a 20 per cent reduction in air conditioning loads can be effected through proper utilization of this material in air conditioned buildings and automobiles. Its reflectivity of direct sunlight also very vividly suggests such end uses as drapery linings, awnings, window roller shades, beach and garden umbrellas, tents and caps for sportswear (golf, fishing, baseball, etc.). It should also prove useful in helping to shield a wearer in protective garments from furnace radiation, making it suitable for workers in the metal industries.

W. L. Morrison, Jr., Archer special projects manager, states that, "Foylon does not give a bright, dazzling reflection, but rather, a pleasant diffusion of reflected light. Its distinctive appearance should interest the fashion industry for such items as shoes, handbags and evening coats as well as the home furnishings industry for decorative wall coverings."

Foylon should be uniquely suited for use in sleeping bags and winter sportswear such as ski clothes and hunting jackets, because it substantially reduces body heat loss with no appreciable increase in the weight of the garment. These same factors would indicate its use in ladies suit jackets and coats, as well as in other cool weather apparel.

The coating of Foylon is an electrical conductor providing protection from high voltage "corona discharge and is a reflector of radar waves, two attributes which suggest uses for the Electronics Industry and at radar installations.

Nuclear Ship Docks, Ends 10,000 Mile Trip

The world's first and only nuclear-powered merchant ship, the U. S. S. Savannah, docked in New York after a 42 day journey of 10,000 miles, having used two pounds of uranium oxide for fuel.

A comparable vessel, conventionally powered, would have used an estimated two million pounds of fuel.

Beset by union jurisdictional squables for several years after its completion, the Savannah was tied up for many months at Galveston.

New Law Sets Up Easier FHA Home Buying Terms

Easier mortgage terms for buyers of homes in medium and higher price ranges are provided in a new law enacted by Congress just before it recessed for the Democratic Convention. It is now signed into law and effective immediately.

The new law raises from $25,000 to $30,000 the limit on mortgages insured by FHA. This extends the FHA terms on minimum down payments, previously limited to homes valued at $28,000 or less, to homes valued at up to $35,000. In the table that follows you can see how down payments are reduced and the effect on monthly payments.

The benefit of the raised limit ON AN FHA-insured mortgage diminishes rapidly on purchases of home costing more than $35,000. Amounts in excess of $35,000 are simply added to your cash-down payment. Thus, for a home costing $40,000 or more, you might find that your customer could get as good or better terms on a conventional mortgage, not backed by the government.

Only limited effects are expected from two other changes made by the new housing law. One allows national banks to grant mortgages with down payments as low as 20 per cent, instead of 25 per cent as in the past. The other permits federal savings and loan associations to make home loans within a 100-mile radius, instead of a 50-mile radius.

Fremont Enrollment Expected to Top 1,400

School enrollment in District Re-2(J) will top the 1,400 mark this fall to set a new enrollment record, it was indicated by Superintendent of Schools Barto Babitz.

With students still registering for classes Wednesday, the total enrollment mark had reached 1,392 in the three schools of eastern Fremont County.

After the first day of school Tuesday, Florence high principal, Jack Brown, reported a total enrollment of 397 students but anticipated at least 15 late registrations.

Lynn Lancaster, reporting for the Fremont Elementary School and the Penrose School, noted that Fremont elementary signed up 768 the fist day, while Penrose enrolled 227.

Fremont Elementary School — Kindergarten, 84; first grade, 89; second grade, 77; third, 82; fourth, 85; fifth, 86 sixth, 88; special education, 19; seventh grade, 78; eighth grade, 82.

Penrose School — Kindergarten, 21; first, 31; second, 25; third, 33; fourth, 17; fifth, 23; sixth, 32; seventh, 25; eighth, 20.

As a matter of comparison, Florence High School registration for the 1963 school year was 64 seniors, 82 juniors, 98 sophomores, and 106 freshmen for a total of 350. Opening enrollment last yeat at Penrose was 224 with a closing figure of 233 in the spring, while Fremont Elementary started the year with 612 students and ended the year with 591.

As school opened Tuesday, the district's transportation system moved into high gear to transport some 727 students to their classes in the three schools from outlaying areas.

School buses in the district travel about 740 miles a day or 133,200 miles during the nine-month school period.

Drivers assigned to the school buses this year include the following:

Youth Admits Killing Minister's Daughter

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A neighbor found the choked body of Margaret Ruth Battle, 6, in a box near her home Friday night. Police said a teenage admitted killing her during a sex attack.

Homicide Lt. Merle Wells said Reginald D. Spiller, 15, told of taking the girl to his home to "see my pictures," clipped from what the officer described as girlie magazines.

Wells said the youth first denied, then admitted trying to molest her sexually. Spiller told of throttling her with his hands and then knotting two lengths of electrical cord about the child's neck, the officer said.

EYE PROTECTION FROM FLASH

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The Air Force reports promising results in experiments to develop a chemical which can be spread on airplane and spacecraft windows to protect the eyes of pilots and astronauts from the potentially damaging flash of a nuclear explosion.

Maj. Gen. Marvin D. Demler of the Research and Technology Division said the material under study is "an optical shutter based on an enzyme-dye combination which can repeatedly change from colorless to colored in less than 50 micro seconds under the influence of ultra-violet light, and rapidly revert to the colorless state when the light source is removed."

ALL ABOUT SCOUTING —Scott Kenton III, 8, explains one of the Cub Scout handbooks to Paul Jones, member of the Admissions and Allocations committee of the Pikes Peak United Fund. Scott belongs to Pack 13 at Longfellow School. Jones is senior member of a liaison team which is studying the Boy Scouts prior to deciding the most equitable distribution of the funds raised in the United Fund campaign for $484,800.

Scouts Explain Scouting to UF Representative

A word of mouth campaign designed to "get out the vote" is being conducted in Colorado Springs by one of the most non-political groups around, . .the Boy Scouts.

Paul Jones, member of the admissions and allocations committee of the Pikes Peak United Fund learned about this phase of activity in the local council during a visit to the Boy Scout Headquarters recently.

Young Scott Kenton, III, wolf, going on bear in the Cub Scouts, spent awhile explaining scouting to Jones, chairman of the department of business and economics at Colorado College.

It seems that if all 8,500 Boy, Cub or Explorer Scouts did nothing more than give their own parents a patriotic push to the polls about 15,000 voters could be accounted for . . .That's figuring that some of those cubs, scouts and explorers are brothers so there aren't two parents per boy.

In addition each boy is asked to call five other adults and remind them to vote. It's possible that some adults who know quite a few Scouts may get more than one call but the boys figure they won't mind too much considering that its for such a good cause.

This is just part of the American Heritage program that is this year's major scouting project. Understanding the meaning of their heritage, why this country was founded and its famous documents, such as the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution should make todays Scout tomorrow's good citizens, the Scout leaders believe.

For Paul Jones and other members of the United Fund admissions and allocations committee, a study of the Boy Scouts is extremely complicated. Troop activities, camping, merit badge counseling, Cub Scout soft ball, Scout-o-Rama and leadership courses, among other things are included.

The financial picture is equally complicated. Scouts pay dues which are set by the national scouting organizatiin and which underwrite a portion of the cost of the program. The United Fund enters the picture because all other sources of income do not cover the entire cost of the program which is constantly being extended to reach more and more boys. It is up to Jones and the other members of the committee to determine just how much the scouts and all the other agencies in the United Fund will receive when the campaign to raise $484,800 ends.

Receipts From City's Smoking Tax Increase

Gross receipts from the city's 2 cent per package cigaret tax are running slightly ahead of last year.

Deputy City Treasurer James O'Leary said August receipts amounted to $17,065 as compared with $10,546 for August of last year.

For the first eight months of the year, he added, the tax has brought in $93,584, which compares with $89,920 for the same period in 1963.

Forestry Crew Trims 2,438 Trees in City

A forestry crew from the City Parks and Recreation Department trimmed 2,438 trees on side and center parkings in the city last month.

The crew is currently working in the northeastern section of the city, according to Gene German, parks superintendent.

Since all trees were trimmed by contract following a disastrous snowstorm in the fall of 1959, the 29,000 to 30,000 trees on side and center parkings have been trimmed twice by city crews and they are now working on the third go-round.

Also, German reported, all of the 6,000 or so ash trees in the city and Evergreen Cemetery have been sprayed this year in order to keep them free of scale. Elm trees will be sprayed next year.

Quake-Proof Hotel Opened in Skopje

SKOPJE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A new quake-resistant hotel, nine stories high and with 200 beds, was opened this week in this quake-wrecked capital of Yugoslav Macedonia.

All the city's hotels were destroyed in the July 26, 1963, earthquake. Since then there have been only small prefabricated hotels.

Evening College At Pueblo May Enroll 2,000

Enrollment in Southern Colorado State Evening College may reach 2,000, an increase over last year's 1,964 students, according to Harold A. Hoeglund, Director of Adult Education at SCSC. The estimate is based on the large number of early inquiries concerning evening college courses for fall quarter.

Fall quarter enrollment for evening classes at the college is scheduled for the evenings of Sept. 14 and 15, and classes will begin Sept. 21. Early enrollment, however, may be accomplished any time after Sept. 1, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 9 to 12 a. m. on Saturdays. Students may enroll for academic subjects in the arts building; for trade and technical courses in the vocational technical building.

SCSC provides, in its evening college program, the opportunity to earn credit toward any one of the four degrees offered by the college. Credit earned in the evening college, because it meets the same standards as courses offered in day classes, is of equal quality and value.

Some of the courses offered in the evening college do not apply toward a degree and are more practical courses emphasizing skills, community service, and a vocational enrichment.

Region Artists May Submit Works for Show

Artists of the Colorado Springs area are being invited to submit art works for the Fine Arts Center's bienneal "Artists of Colorado Springs and Vicinity" exhibition which opens Sept. 23.

All artists living within a 20-mile radius of Colorado Springs are eligible to participate in the popular exhibition which is held every other year to acquaint residents with the fine caliber art and artists living and working in our own area.

Any artist interested in submitting painting, sculpture, prints, ceramics, jewelry, weaving or other crafts may obtain an entry blank at the Fine Arts Center.

All works must be in to the Fine Arts Center by Wednesday. Jurying will be done the next day by Robert L. Shalkop, new Curator of the Taylor Museum and former Director of the Brooks Memorial Art Gallery in Memphis.

Shalkop will select works for showing, only two by any one artist will be shown with the exception of crafts. Artists may submit as many as five works for jurying, however.

A Trustees' Purchase Prize of $250 will be awarded for the best art piece.

This will be awarded at a reception Sept. 23 fro 8 to 10 p.m. for all artists of the area and Fine Arts Center members and guests.

Fine Arts Center Director Fred S. Bartlett stresses that any artists, including newcomers and those who have never exhibited before, to pick up an entry blank and bring their work to the Fine Arts Center by Wednesday.

Lost Soldiers Found Thursday In Canon City

Three lost soldiers were found in Canon City Thursday afternoon.

Sgt. Neal McGee of the Canon City police department, said an infantry officer, identified as a Lt. Conti of Ft. Carson, reported Thursday afternoon that three soldiers on manuevers in the San Isabel National forest were on patrol Wednesday evening and became lost.

The lieutenant said all men had been instructed to head for level country if they became lost in the mountains, and it was thought they were in the Canon City area.

McGee and Conti looked about the area for the lost soldiers, and about 5 p.m. an Army truck stopped at the city police station and three weary uniformed men climbed out of the back.

McGee said the men reported that they had wandered and got lost during Wednesday night, and early Thursday morning found themselves in Florence.

They attempted to call collect to Ft. Carson, but the Army post would not accept the call, they reported. After sleeping Thursday morning at the Florence jail, they said, they got a ride with the Army truck into Canon City.

Park Department To Install Pump For North End

Arrangements are being made by the City Parks and Recreation Department and the Department of Public Utilities so that a pump can be installed in Pikeview Reservoir in order that irrigation can be resumed on center parkings in the north end of the city.

Gene German, city parks superintendent, said the water level in the reservoir had dropped below the outlet gate which sends irrigation water through a covered ditch so that center parkings on parts of Cascade, Nevada and Wahsatch Avenues can be flooded.

The covered ditch or irrigation canal runs down North Cascade Avenue to Willamette Avenue, but a "Y" permits the water to go over to Nevada Avenue at Van Buren Street. It then goes south on Nevada to Caramillo Street, then east to Wahsatch and south on Wahsatch to Cache la Poudre Street.

German said it was necessary to install the pump and get irrigation water flowing because brown spots are beginning to show in the affected center parkings.

One of the city's non-potable water lines runs from the sewage disposal plant north along the freeway to Pikeview Reservoir.

The line is tapped enroute, especially for sale of water to Colorado College for irrigation purposes, but most of the water is dumped into the reservoir, which also gets some water from Monument Creek.

There is one pump at the reservoir but this is used to pump water up to the Kissing Camels Golf Club area.

The city's other non-potable water line runs from the disposal plant northeasterly to a reservoir in Knob Hill. Water from this line is now being used for irrigation purposes in Memorial Park.

Fall Training Session at CD Now Under Way

The fall training program is under way at the City-County Civil Defense Agency, according to C. W. Willoughby, director.

He said that classes in radiological monitoring are now being taught, and that classes in Medical Self Help will start at the emergency control center, 230 E. Kiowa St., at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 14.

The Medical Self Help course will be conducted over a five-week period, with two-hour sessions starting at 7:30 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays. Mrs. Luella Elstun will be the instructor.

Classes in Adult Education and Shelter Management will start in the near future.

Anyone wishing more information about these classes or wanting to register for them should contact the Civil Defense Agency by calling 632-1180.

Pioneer Museum Attendance Ahead of 1963

Miss Dorothy Smith, curator, said the August attendance of 2,855 pushed the visitor mark for the first eight months of the year to 16,000.

This compares with 2,826 visitors in August, 1963, and an eight-month total for that year of 15,812. Average daily attendance in August of this year was 110; it was only 90 in July.

Last year an all-time attendance record of 18,500 was established, and this year should come close to that mark or exceed it, Miss Smith feels.

The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday thru Friday and from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m Sunday, It is closed on Mondays. It is a free attraction located just across West Kiowa Street from St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Local Adults Return to Class This Month

The arrival of September — officially Adult Education Month in Colorado — will see hundreds of adults of the Pikes Peak Region returning to public school evening classes as School District No. 11 re-opens its evening school for the 1964-65 school year.

In observation of Adult Education Month all first term evening classes will begin during September, according to John L. Cameron, director of Adult Education for the Colorado Springs Public Schools.

Twenty-two different courses will be available to the general public and classes will begin during the weeks of Sept. 14, Sept. 21, and Sept. 28.

Many courses, including Welding, Knitting, Machine Shop, and Lapidary are limited in size and require advanced reservation by telephone to be assured of a place in class. Others require no advance reservation.

All classes meet at William J. Palmer High School and official registration for any class is held at 7 p.m. at 406 N. Weber St. on the night of the first class meeting. Classes meet either once or twice each week and vary in length from two to three hours. Fee charge is on the basis of 30 cents per clock hour and the average course length is 40 hours.

Conover Zone Change Request Due for Hearing

Due to action by the Colorado Springs City Council at its last meeting, requests for zone changes by Paul M. Conover will be considered by the Planning Commission when it meets at 4 p.m. Thursday in council chambers in City Hall.

Conover has been asking that 1705 thru 1815 Eagleview Drive be changed from R-2 to R-4, the west side of the 1700 and 1800 blocks of Eagleview Drive and both sides of the 1700 and 1800 blocks of Prairie Road be changed from the R-2 to the R-5 zone.

This had been turned down previously by the commission because it was felt a master plan for the Conover area was *needed. This decision was ap*pealed by Conover and the matter came before council at its last meeting.

Council, however, sent it right back to the commission for further study and a recommendation that Conover "work out a master plan for the area."

There have been several requests for zone changes by the Conovers in the past few years in that general area, and the current request, without some master plan, would still leave areas in the undecided status.

In any event, both the Planning Commission and City Council have now said that a master plan should be presented.

City Installs 1,900 New Electric Meters

More than 1,900 new electric meters have been installed so far this year, according to the last count by the Department of Public Utilities.

This brings the total number of electric meters in service in the Colorado Springs service area to 46,147.

Water meters, meanwhile, have increased 952 during the year to bring that meter total to 30,323.

There have been an increase of 891 gas meters during the year and the gas meter total now stands at 41,338. This should increase sharply, however, as cooler weather occurs.

SOBRIETY AWARD — District Judge Hunter D. Hardeman, left, presents Don Herbst with a silver medalion signifying a full year of sobriety for Herbst, who has been a beneficiary of the Men's Social Service Center Program of the Salvation Army. Herbst, a graduate of the program and now an employe of the Center, was invited by the judge to his office for the presentation. Major Charles W. Griffin, who watched the presentation is manager of the Center. Judge Hardeman is a member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board and chairman of the Men's Social Service Center Committee.

Springs Man Tells of Rehabilitation From Harmful Affects of Alcohol

Don Herbst of Colorado Springs was recently presented a one year sobriety medalion by District Judge Hunter D. Hardeman on behalf of the Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center.

By his own admission this past 14 months of sobriety is the longest period Herbst has been without alcohol since repeal of prohibition 31 years ago.

In accepting the medalion, Herbst told Judge Hardeman, "I feel my problem has been licked and I'm looking forward to extending the 14 months to 14 years and forever."

His sobriety award has been hard earned. Before entering the Men's Social Service Center program, Herbst had been institutionalized on four separate occasions in psychiatric hospitals. He had been sent to the Colorado Rehabilitation Center in Denver. Alcohol was the cause of the break-up of his family. He is the father of two sons.

Innumerable drunk charge entries of his name on the Colorado Springs Police blotter made it difficult for him to find jobs.

According to Herbst, at first he was a week-end drinker and usually "tapered off" Sundays so he was able to be on the job on Monday. He said "It finally got so I hated to have Monday roll around because I was hardly in any shape to go to work." Eventually he became unable to hold a regular job.

Even during World War II, when he served in the 3rd Division and, incidentally, earned the Purple Heart and Good Conduct Medals, he drank excessively. "Only on payday, of course," he remarked, "And we had some good ones."

He rationalized his run-ins with the Police Department during his drinking bouts. "I used to tell myself and my friends that anybody who likes to have a few drinks and have a little fun is bound to bump into the law now and then."

In retrospect he said, "I just wasn't counting the number of times."

Herbst reported a previous period of abstinence for eight months during 1962 and 1963. This was during his second stay at the State Hospital in Pueblo.

"They put me on pills that make you sick when you drink anything with alcohol in it," he said. "It worked as long as I took the pills, but they didn't really stop my wanting a drink."

The truth of this statement was confirmed when Herbst was sent from the State Hospital to the Veteran's Hospital in Denver for a physical examination. "I never got to the Veteran's Hospital," Herbst said, "until I'd wrapped myself around a bottle."

After this incident, state officials refused Herbst re-admittance to the State Hospital. He was referred to the Salvation Army's Men's Social Service Center program in Denver.

Herbst was a resident of Colorado Springs and asked if he could be transferred to the Colorado Springs Center. He stated his reason as wanting to prove himself to the people who knew him in Colorado Springs.

He was admitted to the Colorado Springs Center early last August as a beneficiary in the program. According to Major Charles W. Griffin, manager of the Center, he responded well to the Center's program of treatment. A major part of the program is work therapy.

Herbst joined the Alcoholics Anonymous group at the Center, attended the psychiatric sessions available, and worked. By the first of the year he was able to take over the responsibility of foreman of the shop. By the end of March he was given employe status as foreman.

On Aug. 1, Herbst was made resident manager of the Center's housing and dining hall facilities located at 132 S. Cascade in Colorado Springs, which is headquarters for the rehabilitation program for Southern Colorado.

Herbst said he is now confident that he'll never take another alcoholic drink. "I've finally faced up to the fact that I am an alcoholic," he said, "and can't ever take that first drink."

Asked if it had been difficult to stay away from liquor, Herbst said, "Sure it was. I think a man has to stay dry for at least three months before the regular urge quits him some." Even after that time Herbst said he'd find himself walking on week-ends and wanting to head for a bar for sociability or a drink.

"At times like that," he said, "I'd use the Center as a sanctuary. I'd come back and if nobody was around to talk to, I'd go to the Chapel or up to the AA clubroom and read about the experiences of others who had licked the same problem."

Asked if any particular phase of the program had a greater effect on his rehabilitation, Herbst replied, "I guess it was the faith that the Major had in me." He referred to Major Griffin.

Thoughtful for a moment, he added, "I guess it's all of them. I told Judge Hardeman when he gave me the medalion, 'It's through the grace of God and Alcoholics Anonymous and the Salvation Army that I can accept this'."

Major Griffin said, "It is gratifying that we can bring men like Don through our program with such success. We only wish that every man admitted to the Center could do as well. Though we can't report 100 per cent success, we help a great many men back to a useful existence in society each year."

Griffin reported that during the past year awards for sobriety for periods of three months to a year and a half have been given to five men. Before the year is out he said he is certain that three or four others will have received their one year sobriety medalions.

The work of the Men's Social Service Center which admits homeless men from Southern Colorado, is supported entirely by contributions of usable discards from the community in the Southern Colorado area.

Major Griffin said that anything usable is accepted, such as repairable household articles, clothing, toys, furniture, bedding, etc.

Collecting, sorting, painting, cleaning and repairing the items provides work for the men, which is one of the best forms of therapy. The sale of these items in Salvation Army Thrift Stores such as the one at 17 W. Colorado Ave., provides the funds for the program.

Those wishing to contribute discards to the program can call 633-4697 in Colorado Springs for at-the-door pickup. Drop boxes are also conveniently located at local shopping areas.

8th at Cimarron Signals Being Changed by City

Work is currently under way in improving the signalization at Cimarron and 8th Streets, according to City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith.

After repeated observations, Smith said, it has been found advisable to immediately provide for northbound vehicles to turn left (west) onto the new east-west expressway, and also to provide for southbound vehicles wishing to make a left or eastbound movement off 8th Street onto Cimarron Street.

This is being done by providing a lead (advance) green light, thus permitting both left turns to move simultaneously and without conflict, Smith said. "These movements will be vehicle activated as are other movements at this intersection."

The traffic engineer said it will also be necessary to restripe the intersection to designate the proper lanes for the various movements.

It is also intended to change the present single signal head mounting method to the side-by-side arrangement, as has been done in the central business district, and to change the existing 8-inch red lens to a 12-inch red lens.

In addition, Smith said, the third three-section head will be mounted to the left of the side-by-side installation, and this will have an 8-inch red lens, an 8-inch amber lens and a 12-inch right arrow lens.

Grand Larceny Charge Filed Here Friday

He is alleged to have stolen a diamond ring worth $245 from Mrs. Corinne Lutz, 1008 Jupiter Dr. Aug. 20.

According to the sheriff's department Mrs. Lutz had a number of men in her home Aug. 20 laying some new carpeting and it was after they had gone that she noticed the ring was missing.

District Judge William M. Calvert set Brenneman's bond at $1,500.

County Valuation For '64 Over $250 Million

The 1964 Abstract of Assessment filed with the Colorado Tax Commission by County assessor W. Field Phelps shows a gain of $13,200,000 over the 1963 valuation of real and personal property located within the County's boundaries. This compares with the 1954 assessed valuation of $126,259,510, a 10-year increase of $123,805,960.

Real estate, which is land and improvements, totals $199,364,000. Grand total of personal property valuation is $30,644,080, which is a drop of $2.5 million from 1963. This was brought about by the fact that the Colorado Assessor's Association this placed a lower percentage of assessment upon this class of property, primarily stocks of merchandise, store furniture and fixtures and machinery and equipment, Phelps said.

Livestock, and particularly cattle, also was assessed at a lower value for 1964 due to the price condition of cattle, he stated. Public Utilities which are assessed by the State Tax Commission show a $1.5 million gain, and this was practically entirely brought about by the increased telephone lines within the county, Phelps stated.

The greater portion of the $13 million increase will go to School District 11 and the City of Colorado Springs, Phelps said. However, these exact figures are not yet known, but will be certified to, as well as all the other 80 odd taxing districts, prior to the Oct 1 deadline. Following that he said, the taxing jurisdictions, after working up their budgets and receiving their total valuations from the assessor, will determine the mill levy rates.

Phelps pointed out that taxes are made up from spending on mill levies set by school distors of special districts, and that in each instance it is the responsibility of these governing units to hold down on spending as much as possible. Property valuations are unable to keep up with spending.

Limited Number Of Adults Can Attend Classes

The number of adults who can be accommodated at one time in certain evening courses to be operated this fall by the Colorado Springs Public Schools will be limited, advises John L. Cameron, Director of Adult Education.

In some cases limited equipment and facilities make this control necessary, while in others the need for a great deal of individual instruction dictates class sizes, Cameron said.

In such cases it becomes necessary to require an advance reservation to assure in interested person of a place in class, he said.

Courses included in this category for the first term of the 1964-65 school year will be knitting, lapidary, machine shop and welding.

Knitting covers instruction in hand processes with beginners and advanced students alike being accommodated in the same class. The 20 hour course meets for two hours one night each week and students have their choice of Monday or Thursday nights. The fee is $6 and students furnish their own materials.

Lapidary is a hobby course which covers cutting, shaping and polishing of rocks using modern equipment. This 39 hour course meets two nights week for 3 hours, and students have their choice of Monday and Wednesday or Tuesday and Thursday. Registration fee is $19.

Knitting and lapidary begins during the week of Sept. 14.

The machine shop course is 39 hours in length and covers instruction in the use of the common hand tools, instruments, and power equipment which are standard for most machine processes. Classes meet for 3 hours each Monday and Wednesday evening and the fee is $12 plus materials.

Welding is a general course covering Oxy-acetylene DC Arc and AC Arc. Instruction is predominantly individual, making possible the accommodation of beginners and advanced students alike in the same class. Fee for the 39 hour course is $22 which includes standard materials. Students are required to furnish their own helmet and goggles which may be purchased at the school. Students have their choice of a Monday — Wednesday or a Tuesday — Thursday class.

Persons desiring to enroll in any one of these courses should call the Adult Education Office, 633-7797 at their earliest opportunity to reserve a space in a class.

Scientist Studies His Nails, Reports Growth Figures

By LYNN POOLE

Dr. William A. Bean studied the growth of his own thumb nails for more than 20 years and his records indicate that with advancing age his thumb nails growth slowed down.

Since 1942 the research scientist, on the first day of each month, filed a groove in the nail at its base. Slowly, but steadily, as his thumb nail grew this groove moved outward toward the tip of his nail.

When he began his study in 1942, at the age of 33, it took about 117 days for his new nail to grow from the grooved base to the outer edge. This regular and patterned growth - time slowly changed until it took the nail from 122 to 126 days to grow from groove to tip.

In the past three years Dr. Bean's thumb nail growth-rate has slowed down until the nail takes approximately 133 days to grow. In the past, by cutting a groove at the base of his nail each month, he would have four grooves extending from base to tip. Now there are five grooves, and his age is 53.

Throughout the 20 years the scientist's nail grew at about the same rate in the summer as in the winter, which is in dierct contradiction to the idea that nails grow faster in warm weather. Nevertheless, Dr. Bean admits that he spent much of his time during the twenty years of the winter seasons in well-heated buildings.

During the summer he has traveled to many foreign countries, changed his diet during travel and this climate and diet change had no effect on the growth of his thumb nail. At different times during the 20 years he has had periods of heavy physical exercises, and period of complete relaxation. The nail grew at the same rate.

He found that in 1950 there was a sudedn slowing of thumb nail growth which produced an almost temporary stoppage of growth. It happened when he contracted a bad case of mumps. Because of this he is now investigating the effects of certain diseases on the growth of nails.

Dr. Bean stated, "This objective of a slowing in the process of nail growth has occurred at a time when I was not conscious of the general encroachment of old age in terms of the activities in which I engage."

He plays tennis in the spring, summer and fall, and squash in the winters. His travelling is done in all seasons. His diet changes from month to month while he travels. In his studies he has tried to take into account every facet of his changing environment, activity and health. Except for the case of mumps which slowed down his thumb nail growth, he finds no difference in the rate of growth — except that of the slowing down with advancing age.

Although Dr. Bean's study is the first precise study of nail growth over a long period of time, other scientists throughout the world have studied the same phenomena, and other factors of nail growth of shorter periods. Several investigators have used tiny drills to cut through the thickness of nails, and with ultra-sensitive instruments measured the rate of thickness-growth. Robert Boyle made studies on nail growth in 1684, which in no way were definitive, but did start people thinking about the potential of the field.

In 1899 Dr. E. Blake in London published the results of his studies in a book titled: "On the Study of the Hand for Indication of Local and General Diseases." Blake called attention to the fact that there was a great individual variation not only in different people but that the nail growth was influenced by many external and internal conditions. On the whole, Blake's views, from his quick studies, are not particularly vital to contemporary scientists, but he did take the trouble to find out a good deal about the growth of nails and probably started others to carry on more precise investigations, using modern techniques.

Medical scientists agree that the rate of growth of the nails on the hands is important to the study of the aging process in men and women. Who knows — maybe some non-scientist will study his or her fingernails and add to scientific knowledge.

Latvian Composer Returned to Grave

MOSCOW (AP) — The ashes of Teodor Reuter, Latvian composer-conductor who died in 1956, have been taken home from Sweden and buried with honors in Riga, the Soviet news agency Tass reports.

It said he took political asylum in Sweden after World War II because he "failed to evaluate properly the situation."

OCS Program Open to U.S. College Grads

Although the normal requirements for attendance at an Army Officer Candidate School are a high school diploma, a special program has been introduced that permits the college graduate to be guaranteed attendance at an Officer Candidate program before enlistment.

This program has been introduced to meet the Army's current need for junior officers and at the same time offer the college graduate who was unable to attend ROTC at college a chance to serve in a more challenging manner while fulfilling his military obligation.

The program is open to college graduates who attended where there was not ROTC available. If there was ROTC at the college and the student could not attend, through no fault of his own, he is eligible.

In order to get into this program an applicant must qualify mentally and physically. He takes the Armed Forces Qualification test and a complete enlistment physical at an Armed Forces examining station while still in a civilian status.

He then takes the Army Qualification Battery of tests to indicate his basic qualifications after which he takes the Army Officer Candidate test. If he then is basically qualified he is interviewed by a board of officers.

The paperwork is then forwarded to the Department of Army. If he is selected for attendance at OCS he is instructed that he has been selected and is given a date he should be enlisted in order to complete basic combat training prior to reporting date at school.

Before enlistment he is guaranteed by the U. S. Army that he is qualified for and will attend OCS if he enlists. For further information about this program contact Sgt. Raymond A. Sandberg, Chief Recruiter of the local Army Recruiting Office, Rm. 220, Post Office Building. Call 633-0632.

HOLE IN ONE—Col. Max E. Billingsley of Army Air Defense Command headquarters receives a certificate from Maj. Gen. D. B. Johnson, deputy commanding general, recognizing the colonel's feat of Aug. 15 in which Billingsley scored a hole in one at the Broadmoor Golf Course. He cupped the ball in one stroke on the 12th hole. The ball covered a distance of 220 yards over a well-trapped area, hit the front of the green, and rolled into the cup at the back. It was the colonel's first hole in one in 30 years of golfing. With him in the foursome were Brig. Gen. Howard E. Michelet, Brig. Gen. Kenneth I. Curtis, and Col. George E. Hughes, all of ARADCOM. Data Processing Relates Individual to Technology

It seemed that a machine — a man made thing — was capable of determining the outcome of an election long before the polls were closed. In other words, the machine appeared to "thingk" about materials presented to it for analysis and came up with an answer. Sometimes people are made to feel that man may become obsolete but machines will get bigger and better! Man needs to know more about the world of the machine in which he lives.

At Southern Colorado State College, Pueblo, attempts are being made to provide a philosophy which can relate the needs of the student to the advanced technology of our times. While the Data Processing Laboratory has been designed for use with business, economics, engineering and mathematics majors, other disciplines can and do take advantage of courses offered in this area

According to William Hammond, chairman of the Division of business and economics, the basic program involving the Data Processing Laboratory comprises two major areas of concentration. The introductory program is capable of producing people trained in the actual use of data processing methods and equipment. They are involved with the key punch machine, collator, reproducer, sorter, accounting machines, the IBM 1620 computer and the IBM 1620 computer and the IBM 1622 CARD READ PUNCH. They learn the mechanics and use of all elements of the system. The advanced program is primarily concerned with developing an understanding of the capabilities and limitations of data processing equipment. Here the student is more involved with the logical processes of computer programming and learns the language of the system. The machine can only respond to numerical components so words have to be translated into a numerical system and the language becomes highly specialized. The business student, for example, learns the symbolic programming system (SPS) which relates words used in business language to a numerical system which can be communicated to the machine.

Wilbur M. Richardson, assistant professor of mathematics, suggests that people must be educated to the uses of the machines involved in data processing. Thus we can accept the equipment and create sew uses for it rather than being fearful that the machine ultimately will control us. He answers the question, "what can the computer do for man?" this way:

1. The machine can be programmed to calculate at electronic speeds. The machine can do the work of many people in a fraction of the time and eliminate the possibility of human error. For example, some department stores use IBM Computers to maintain a constant inventory. The machine alerts management whenever stocks of goods fall below a predetermined level.

2. The machine can be programmed to control other machinery, thus freeing manpower for other work.

3. The machine can be programmed to simulate real-life situations. For instance, the astronaut's mock flight in space was established through problems related to a computer system.

4. The machine can be programmed to make logical decisions for man. (Logical in the sense of finite rather than infinite reasoning.)

The computer system can be used in a world of automation to free man for more creative labor which ultimately produces more jobs, more goods and services which can be used for the betterment of all mankind.

More and more technicians are going to be required to operate, maintain, and program data processing equipment of all types. These people must be capable of translating executive thinking into data processing terms for ultimate machine analysis and decisions. The technician must be academically orinted in order to converse effectively with the scientist, the engineer, the businessman and work out their thinking relative to the capabilities of the machine.

At SCSC the students involved in the data processing courses are required to use the resources of the data processing laboratory as related to problems in their fields of study. Two senior students at SCSC are currently attempting to program the computer to simulate actual laboratory experiments. The students are Al Ford, a New Yorker, and Howard Kellog, a native of Pueblo. They believe that their effort is the first attempt to use a computer in this fashion.

Dr. Benita Carter Jackson, a biologist at the University of Syracuse has discovered the RH Hapten (part of RH negative factor in blood groupings.) She has developed an extract from blood serum which may be extremely useful in treating expectant mothers whose blood groupings indicate the presence of RH negative factors. Clinical studies are presently being conducted to determine the validity of RH Hampten. An unknown molecule is involved in this process. The Pure Food and Drug Laws requre a model of molecules related to food and drug derivatives before they will approve the use of the drug in question.

Ford and Kellog are attempting to contribute to this research by building a model of the molecule bases on the quantitative and qualitative properties of the molecule. They are attempting to use the speed and accuracy of the computer system in simulating laboratory conditiins to test these properties. The unknown molecule can be tested by the computer in relation to the thousands of tests involved in the study of the particular molecule in question.

Kellog and Ford are attempting to set up a logical system of information which can be communicated to the computer thus saving thousands of man hours involved in each test. The final computer analysis will have to be checked and rechecked against actual conditions established in a chemical laboratory. If they are successful, other problems involving laboratory research in chemistry and physics can be proprogrammed for computer analysis.

The machine cannot think for itself. Man builds it — man controls it — but man has to live with it and the problems created by its use. SCSC is providing the experience and knowledge to equip man to respond favorably to the conditions imposed by automation.

No Changes for Johnson Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told retiring Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy he plans no changes in the Cabiet if he is elected in November, an informed sources said Friday.

Kennedy related the President's disclosure to his fellow Cabinet members at a farewell luncheon in his honor Thursday, it was learned.

The luncheon followed Kennedy's visit to the White House, where he turned in his resignation to Johnson prior to launching his campaign for a U.S. Senate seat from New York. Johnson presumably discussed his Cabinet intentions with Kennedy in that meeting.

Supply Handlers Finish Eight Weeks Training

Eight weeks of general and specialized studies led to the recent graduation of 18 new supply handlers from A Company, 5th Supply and Transport Battalion, in the Cheyenne Shadows Service Club at Ft. Carson.

Pvt. Julio Rodriguez Maldonaldo received a plaque commending him as the "Outstanding and Honor Graduate."

Advanced Individual Training for the 18 soldiers consisted of packaging, cargo loading, classification, disposal, storage operations and material handling. The storage and handling phase was composed of Petroleum materials, horse and mule packing and all Army transport vehicles.

Maj. Gen. Autry J. Maroun, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) and Carson commander, visited the class on horse and mule packing and observed as the trainees demonstrated their proficiency in packing procedures.

Col. C. S. Johnson, Support Command commander, and Lt. Col. L. Gellnicht, 5th Supply and Transport Battalion commander, were present for the ceremony.

In recent wars it was a toss-up as to whether the Paratroopers or Rangers was considered to be the most rugged combat outfit going. Even then it was pretty much an academic question as to which was most rugged, but now, it is a completely outdated question; outdated by the most rugged, well trained and elite unit ever conceived in the history of warfare. They are Neanderthal men physically and the most highly trained military men of our time. Their training includes Airborne, Ranger and guerilla.

Only the very finest need even give the eventuality of entering this outfit the slightest thought. If you are a little boy hoping to achieve the status of manhood by trying for this outfit — forget it! MRS. LEO LOUIS BESERRIA
—Nee Elizabeth Jean Hoebel

Elizabeth Jean Hoebel Is Bride of Leo Louis Beserra

Arrangements of white gladioli and white phlox on the altar of Grace Epsicopal Church formed the background for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Jean Hoebel and Leo Louis Beserra at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 30. The Rev. John C. Mott officiated at the candlelight ceremony, and Trent Eillis at the organ played traditional selections. George Garriques was soloist.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Carl Hoebel of 31 Lake Ave., Broadmoor, and the late Dr. Frederick Carl Hoebel, was given in marriage by her brother, Frederick C. Hoebel III. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Beserra of 5660 Rawlings Ave., Woodland Hills, Calif.

The bride's floor length gown of candlelight French silk organza over taffeta was styled with traditional envelope sleeves and scoop neckline. The A-line skirt flowed into a cathedral train. Italian cut lace insertions outlined in pearls formed a yoke and accented the sleeves, and the bouffant veil fell from a matching bandeau of lace and pearls. Her flowers were gardenias and white roses.

Miss Leise Hoebel was maid of honor for her sister, and bridesmaids were Miss LeNore Beserra, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Diana Barrett of Colorado Springs and Mrs. Donald Yunker of Taft, Calif. All wore floor length gowns of coral crepe. Burnt orange ribbon accented the empire waistlines and formed a bow at the top of the floor length panels of coral crepe. They wore matching headdresses of burnt orange velvet bows. All carried nosegays of zarina roses.

Richard A. Beserra attended his brother as best man and ushers were Rudolph Beserra of Fresno, Calif., Mark Frykman and Donald Strait of Colorado Springs, Robert Perschlacher of Denver and Carl Fetters of Alamosa.

Assisting at the reception which was held in the garden of the Chapel of Our Saviour in Broadmoor were: Miss Julie Green, Miss Diane Russell, Miss Jill Penkhus, Miss Sally Watson and Miss Mimi Riegel, all of Colorado Springs; Miss Caroline Ver Duft, Denver; and Miss Lucille Roybal of Los Angeles.

Following their wedding trip to Western Canada, the couple will live in Denver. The bride chose for traveling a royal blue knit suit with blouse in emerald green and royal blue. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Both young people are graduates of Cheyenne Mountain High School. The bride attended DePauw University and was graduated from the University of Colorado in June, 1964. The bridegroom was also graduated from CU, class '64 after attending the College of the Pacific.

Guests from other cities were Mr. and Mrs. William Hoebel aunt and uncle of the bride, and son Stuart of Long Grove, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. G.R. Blakeslee, grandparents of the bride from River Forest, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Evans and son Ken, relatives of the bride from Regine, Sask, Canada. Mrs. Murray Cooke, aunt of the bride from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada; and Miss Lucille Roybal, cousin of the bridegroom from Los Angeles.

PLAN GOURMET DINNER—Mrs. Winston Whitney and Mrs. Albert Daniels of the Colorado Springs Junior League are shown in the grand ballroom of The Broadmoor discussing arrangements for the elaborate gourmet dinner to be served there preceding the showing of fashions by the French Haute Couture designers on September 23. Mrs. Whitney is in charge of reservations for the gala affair.

Haute Couture Fashion Revue Will Be Preceded by Reception and Dinner

French champagne, Paris fashions modeled by French mannequins, and decorative themes provided by the French Exhibitions Services and Air France will transform the Broadmoor into the Champs Elysees on Sept. 23!

On that date the "Chambre Syndicale de la Haute Couture Parisienne," an organization made up of the leading fashion houses of Paris, will present the fall collections of twelve of the world's top designers in the Broadmoor Ballroom. The original creations, some 75 of them, will be modeled by a group of 10 Paris mannequins from the salons to be represented.

Announcement made last week by the Junior League of Colorado Springs that the fabulous Haute Couture was returning to The Broadmoor has caused considerable excitement throughout the state and the showing is marked as the outstanding social event of the year.

The League is sponsoring the affair in conjunction with the Broadmoor and the French Government. Mrs. W. A. Wills Jr. is Junior League general chairman and she is being assisted by Mrs. James May. Mrs. Winston Whitney is reservations chairman. Mrs. Victor A. Gares, Consul General of France in Denver, will come to Colorado Springs for the occasion.

This gala evening of elegance will begin at 6 p.m. with a champagne reception served in the Pompeiian Room of the Hotel with the finest French vintages being provided by Gottlieb and Associates of New York City. A gourmet dinner, including brandy and aperitifs, will follow at 7 p.m. in the ballroom, and the evening will conclude with the dazzling display of fashion.

Coloradoans will be among the select few in the United States to see this showing of the French fall collections. Paris, the undisputed fashion capital of the world, influences the styles every woman wears and nothing is more glamorous and of greater interest than a glimpse of what the famous salons have decreed for the future.

Patrons of the Haute Couture showing at the Broadmoor will have the rare opportunity to see pace setting selections from the collections of the following great fashion authorities: Pierre Cardin, Nina Ricci, Guy Laroche, Carven, Ferreras, Jacques Heim, Hermes, Jacque Griffe, Madeleine De Rauch, Maggy Rouff, Jean Patou and Philippe Venet.

Reservations for the elaborate international affair, which are being handled by Mrs. Winston Whitney, must necessarily be limited to 250 persons and admission is $25.00. Proceeds will benefit the Junior League's Community Trust Fund for support of such projects as libraries at the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind.

Breakfast Club Meets At Chalet

The Pikes Peak Chapter of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club will meet at noon Tuesday in the Heidi Room of the Swiss Chalet. President Anne Barrett of the First National Bank will preside.

Special business includes the election and installation of new officers whose terms will begin with the first meeting in October. Mrs. E. Bland Cresap of the Credit Bureau will install the officers.

The meeting is open to women employed in credit whose business, firm or professional office holds membership in the local Credit bureau, affiliated with the associated credit bureaus of America and the Intersational Consmuers Credit Association.

At the International Consumer Credit Conference and the International Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs of North American held recently in Denver, Anne Barrett was elected corresponding secretary for District 9, including Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. She has been actively engaged in credit for the past fifteen years, has held every office in the local chapter of the Breakfast Club and has served on numerous committees. She is presently employed in the installment loan department of the First National Bank.

Great Books Group to Discuss Stendhal Novel

The Wednesday evening Great Books group will meet from 8 to 10 p.m., at the public library in Mrs. Reid's office, for a discussion of "The Charterhouse of Parma," a novel by Stendhal (Marie Henri Beyle).

Richard and Martha Gobble will conduct the questioning, to bring out points of view on three levels. This technique or leadership is recommended by the Great Books Foundation of Chicago; and although this group has used the nine years of suggested reading lists and must again prepare its own, the program still will include questions on (1) what the author says, (2) what the author means, and (3) how that meaning may have significance in present-day affairs.

Anyone may participate who reads the text as assigned for any single session or for the regular meetings on the 2nd and 4th Wednesdays of each month throughout the winter. Future readings will be recommended at this week's session. Other information will be given to visitors who attend or who may wish to call Myrtly Allen at 635-8540, or Margaret Gibson at 633-3397.

Here's one way to remove mildew from bathroom shower curtains. Fill your automatic washer as usual with warm water. Put in about ¼ cup bleach. Mix well and add two tablespoons of your regular washing product. Place the shower curtains in this solution for 30 minutes, then turn on the washer and run two minutes. Take out the curtains, rinse, hang on a line and let the sun shine on them. The mildew will all be gone and the curtains will look like new.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

My refrigerator has a small freezer. For about a year now I have been taping a piece of paper on the freezer door, with a list of the contents of the freezer.

I add to the list after I have shopped, and cross off items as they are used. In this way I always know what foods I have without rummaging through the entire freezer. I also know what to buy each week after consulting the list.

When steaks are on sale, and I don't have any, I stock up on them. If I see that I have a sufficient supply, I pass up that sale. This applies to all frozen foods.

After defrosting, I list the contents on a fresh piece of paper and attach it to the door with the tape.

This hint can be applied to any type freezer. Just put the list where it is not seen by others unless the refrigerator or freezer is opened. —Loramae Begun

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever had a beautiful head scarf or neck scarf and dreaded washing it because you were afraid it might come out limp as a rag?

I wash and rinse mine carefully (do not squeeze) then roll the scarf in a terry cloth towel and pat to remove as much moisture as possible.

Then I press them "with" the grain of the material with a "warm" iron.

When they are in shape, lift them from the ironing board and cover the ironing board with waxed paper. Lay the scarf on it and give a final press.

Try it, gals. It's fabulous. Makes it sorta rainproof, too. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Painting a three-by-five file index card with your wall paint is a handy way of carrying a color sample with you when shopping for draperies, etc.

Measurements and other pertinent data can be written on the back. —A. S. B.

Dear Heloise:

When wrapping gift packages, I use the pretty plastic flowers found in any dime store rather than the conventional bows.

Just a sprig of tiny flowers or a single large bloom tied with a simple shoe-lace bow makes an especially nice package.

If you fold the stems under, rather than cutting them off, the recipient has an added memento to display in a vase.

Recently, I wrapped a bridal shower gift and used a sprig of tiny white roses as a miniature bridal bouquet, right down to the satin streamers formed by the tying ribbon. You never heard so many nice comments. —Mrs. D. H. H.

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away an old rubber glove until you cut the fingers off. They can be used on your thumb when cutting fruits and vegetables so that you won't cut your thumb into slices! —Cecelia

Dear Heloise:

I have discovered a way to save a package of bologna once it has been opened.

I remove the slices from the package and place each slice between pieces of waxed paper. Then I put them all in a plastic bag and freeze them. Whenever I want to make a sandwich, I just remove one frozen slice.

The sandwich is prepared as usual and the meat is defrosted by lunch time. —Housewife

Dear Heloise:

Tell the gals not to throw away daughter's old bouffant slips!

They contain scads of scouring cloths. Just launder the slips, cut them to desired sizes and use.

They are generally topped with a fancy nylon lace panel . . . cut it to size and put in a drawstring. Bingo! A soap chip bag. Fancy, too!

So don't throw those old piles of fluff into the rag bag. Use them! —Mrs. G. Rockhold

SALABLE JUNK

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — Most people call it junk, but Mrs. Dorris Storey is finding that scrap metal from junk yards is providing her with an art career.

In 1961 she was searching for something to enter in a local art show. She picked up some pieces of scrap metal from her backyard and welded them into a statue. Since that day, she has entered six art shows and sold everything she's created.

Her husband, an accomplished ornamental iron worker, helps her weld the parts together. An automobile piston becomes a football helmet, a long bolt is turned into a flower stem and a gear turns up in a turtle's shell. Pipe scraps may become vicious looking crabs under her skillful fingers.

Mrs. Storey habitually referred to her creations as "junk" until the metals association insisted that the proper term be "metal sculptures."

When a boy's new trousers have to be shortened, save the piece of material that is cut off. If the need for a patch arises, cut a piece from your extra material and place it over the hole, on the wrong side, matching the weave in the material. Then iron a piece of mending tape over it all. It might even pay the mother of active boys to buy these trousers too long so that she can cut off a portion to save for such patches.

OXEN HAULED SHIP

ROWLEY, Mass. (UPI) — It took 100 yoke of oxen to haul a newly-built ship from this village to the sea back in 1814.

Cap'n Nathaniel M. Perley built the ship, a 110 - ton schooner, on Rowley Common. The oxen transported the vessel on a set of tracks a mile and a half to the ocean where it was launched. The feat was performed, according to the Boston Sentinel of May 7, 1814, "to the amazement of the entire world" without injury to man, beast or property.

Add Party Note to Veal With Parmesan Cheese

When you add a pizza-like flavor to veal, exciting things can happen! A mild, delicately-flavored meat takes on enough zesty, spicy flavor to become a party favorite with a young age group.

Veal Parmesan is easy to prepare for a party because it's breaded, browned and baked in the oven, thus leaving the hostess free for other last minute preparations.

Thus cut of meat is similar in appearance to beef round steak except that it's smaller and the color is a pinkish gray, says meat expert, Reba Staggs.

A party menu could include Honeydew Melon, the Veal Parmesan, Lattice Potatoes, Herb-Buttered Peas, Tossed Salad, French Bread and Blueberry Crisp for dessert.

Veal Parmesan

2 pounds veal round steak, cut ½ inch thick
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
6 slices Mozzarella cheese, 2½ x 3½ x ⅛ inches
1 envelope (1½ ounces) Spaghetti Sauce Mix
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1½ cups water
2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese

Cut veal round steak into 6 servings. Combine egg, milk and salt. Combine crumbs and 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese. Dip meat into egg mixture, then in crumb mixture. Brown in lard or drippings. Place meat in a 13 x 9-inch baking pan. Top each piece of meat with a slice of Mozzarella cheese. Blend Spaghetti Sauce Mix, tomato paste and water in a saucepan. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Pour sauce over meat and cheese. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese over sauce. Cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 45 to 60 minutes or until done. 6 servings.

Opening lead: Five of ◇

The experienced declarer tries to avoid the type of approach which, if it fails, leads to sudden death. The ideal plan of attack is to try first a method which, if unsuccessful, still leaves open to declarer another line of play for his contract.

The contract of six no trump in today's hand is rather on the enterprising side and was reached because South was right in there bidding them up. On the basis of a mere opening bid by partner and a simple raise, he was willing to contract for slam, though he had only 17 high card points himself and without knowledge that partner had any excess values in high cards. He was lucky, indeed, to find North with 15.

West led the five of diamonds. Declarer was unale to read whether it was a fourth best or a mere exit lead through dummy's fruit. With the exposure of dummy, only 10 cashable tricks were in view. A hope for the 11th appeared in the chance that the jack of spades would fall. Further resources were the possible drop of the queen of clubs and the chance that the taking of two diamond finesses would produce another trick.

The ten of diamonds was accordingly played from dummy. This was taken with the queen by East, who returned a heart to North's ace. Declarer tested the spades and, when the jack fell, he had 11 in the bag. Declarer's hope for the 12th trick now rested with the diamond finesse or the drop of the club queen. But he must be careful of the sequence in which he avails himself of his opportunities. His chances are in succession rather than in the alternative. If he tries the diamond and it loses, all is over. But if he tries the club first and the queen fails to drop, he is still alive to try the diamond finesse. The queen, of course, dropped and the contract was in.

Nature's helper is a water flow inducer called the Aqua-Guard. Its function-to decontaminate the lake-is performed by stepping up the natural circulation of water when hot weather and heavy usage combine to form a breeding place for bacteria.

Utilizing a 10 - horsepower submersible motor, the device has a displacement capacity of 2 million gallons per hour.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Face Facts, Man!

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I had an affair with a woman who left her husband and children to live with me. I left my wife and children, too, but I couldn't stay away from them so I finally broke up with this woman. After I left her, she claimed the last child she had was mine. It could be, so I have been giving her money. I've been hiding all this from my wife, but we've been having so many arguments over money lately that she suspects me of keeping this woman. If I stop giving her money, I'm afraid she'll take me to court and the mess will be known. If I keep giving her money, I'll lose my wife. I want to save my marriage because I could never be happy with this other woman. I've already hurt my wife so much, I don't want to hurt her any more. Please answer in your column. I can't get mail at home. Thank you. —TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: You need a lawyer. To submit to blackmail for the rest of your life is unnecessary. If she does take you to court and the mess "becomes known," it shouldn't shock your wife too much because she knew you left her to live with another woman. Let the law decide how much, if anything, the other woman is entitled to. And pay up like a man, if you must.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were at our club recently, and while dancing with an eligible bachelor who has been a hunting friend of my husband's for years, something he said left me with mixed emotions. He said, "If anything ever happens to your husband, I want you." I confess I was both flattered and disturbed. How would you have taken that remark? —OVERWHELMED

DEAR OVERWHELMED: As a warning. Don't let your husband go hunting with this "friend" any more.

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 16 and my problem is a mother who won't let me have a girl friend over unless the house is in perfect order. She's afraid the girl might go home and tell her mother that she's a poor housekeeper. Abby, my girl friends don't go to people's homes to see what kind of housekeeper the mother is. I know when I am at someone's house, I never notice the housekeeping unless it is horribly messed up, and even then I wouldn't care, or say anything about it. Can't you explain this to my mother, Abby? She reads your column, and I can't seem to make her understand. —WANTS COMPANY

DEAR WANTS: I'll try:

Dear Mother: There is nothing more comforting to a mother than knowing where her daughter is, and with whom. You can insure this feeling by encouraging your daughter to bring her friends home, and letting them know they are welcome any time. Youngsters take little notice of housekeeping. In fact, a little disarray is strangely inviting.

DEAR ABBY: I started trying to remember the last time my husband gave me a compliment or told me that he loved me and, Abby, it had been so many years ago I couldn't remember.

Then one day last week I heard you say on the radio that the way to get love was to give it. So that night when my husband was helping me dry dishes, I suddenly put my arms around his neck and said, "Darling, do you know that I love you?"

He was so overcome, he almost dropped the cup he was drying. Then he kissed me like I hadn't been kissed in years! I just can't tell you how much it meant to both of us, Abby. I am 62 and he is 64. —THANKS FROM BOTH OF US

Cook's Tour

Spread white or rye bread with butter or margarine which has been seasoned with mustard. Top with bologna or salami slices, then with pickle slices or fans. Serve open-face or top with another slice of mustard-buttered bread.

Have you tried a rye bread sandwich made with liver sausage and crisp slices of salted cucumber? It's lip-smacking good!

A hearty sandwich uses heated sauerkraut on a bun with thin slices of hot corned beef. Pass the mustard, please!

Prepackaged, self-service meats may be frozen in their original store packages for a short period in the freezer. Short period means no longer than one or two weeks. It's important that such packages have no breaks in them or the meat will get "freezer burn."

If you want to freeze the meat for a longer period, it must be wrapped in special moisture-vapor-proof paper or package.

A frozen roast can be cooked in the same way as a fresh roast but plan on its taking one third to one half longer cooking time.

An ounce of cream cheese blended with 6 slices of cooked bacon, crumbled, makes a delightful celery stuffing when it's made zippy with a teaspoon or less of horseradish.

Blend 1 can (4½ ounces) of deviled ham with 1 cup cottage cheese and season with ½ teaspoon dill seed, ¼ teaspoon basil and ⅛ teaspoon garlic salt. Use as a topping for crackers.

Keep the temperature low to moderate (300 degrees F. to 325 degrees F.) and roast the lamb until internal temperature reaches 175 degrees F. to 180 degrees F.

These rolled legs of lamb weigh between 3 to 5 pounds, and will reach this degree of doneness, at a low temperature, at 40 to 45 minutes per pound.

Roast beef fanciers who like their beef rare should remove it from the oven when the meat thermometer registers about 135 degrees F. By the time the roast has "set," 15 to 20 minutes, it will register 140 degrees F. which is the temperature for "rare" in beef.

All roasts will carve better when they are allowed to "set" after roasting is finished.

KEEP FISHING

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (UPI)—Fish ponds need 300 to 500 man-hours of fishing each year to keep the fish production at a maximum, according to Texas A&M University. Overcrowding of ponds results in stunted fish, the university reports.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD G. MANION

Donald G. Manion Weds Miss Carol Jean Sengbeil

Lehmberg Chapel of the First Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Carol Jean Sengbeil and Donald G. Manion, at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 15. Baskets of white gladioli flanked the altar, and nuptial music included "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Miss Judy Corder. Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sengbeil of Calhan. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Manion of Los Angeles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of imported lace, styled with petal neckline and bell skirt trimmed with inset poufs of organza. Pearls and sequins trimmed the neckline and the hemline. Her flowers were white carnations tied with pink streamers.

Ruth Kobilan as maid of honor wore a street length dress of pale pink satin, and shoulder length veil held by an organdy bow. Her accessories were white and her flowers were white mums with pink backing. Billie Rae Stevens and Patricia Rydstrom as bridesmaids were similarly attired, but in coral pink, and wore a similar veil and accessories.

Fracture the Language

By PATRICIA PLATT
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A few months after the U.S. Supreme Court's historic decision banning prayers in tax-supported public schools, a Newton, Mass., high school teacher discovered with some shock that Jesus Christ spoke in "parodies" not parables.

Some of the students also believed that Sodom and Gomorrah were lovers, that the Four Horsemen were something on the Grecian Acropolis, and that the Gospels were written by Matthew, Mark Luther and John.

To the teacher, Thayer S. Warshaw, the only answer was a course in Bible reading—not for religious purposes but to broaden the students' background in the humanities. They students themselves asked for the lessons because they said they were mystified by biblical allusions in literature and everyday conversation and stumped by political cartoons with references to the court's decision.

Two English classes were assigned a nine-week Bible course. This provided a significant, though small, theater for testing one section of the high court's majority opinion, which accompanied its 1963 ruling that religious exercises in the public school program were unconstitutional.

In the words of Justice Tom C. Clark, who wrote the opinion: "Nothing we have said here indicates that . . study of the Bible or of religion, when presented objectively as part of a secular program of education, may not be effected consistent with the first amendment."

A description of Warshaw's course—and its ultimate success—was reported in "The Shape of Education for 1964-65," a semi annual publication on school affairs.

"It was understood from the beginning that there would be no discussion of meaning or interpretation (of the Bible), and that the King James version would be employed, because that is the version from which most the quotations encountered in every-day life are taken," the report said.

The students were given assignments in "The Holy Bible in Brief," a paperback book containing excerpts from the King James version. They also could choose additional study, such as reading Bible stories from the complete Bible or Sunday School books, or looking up quoations in Bartlett.

Warshaw said he "linked as many passages as I could with literature music and art." Among the works the students "heard about" were Melville's "Moby Dick," with its Ishamel, Ahab and Elijah; Thomas Mann's "Joseph and His Brothers," Faulkner's "Absalom! Absalom!;" Verdi's "Nabucco," and da Vinci's ""Last Supper."

Warshaw said, "They learned the origin of such expressions as the patience of Job, a doubting Thomas, a Nimrod, a Jonah, a Lazar, an Ananias, and the Adam's apple."

The English teacher reported that the two classes scored 22 per cent on a test of general Bible knowledge before the course. At the end of the course they made 86.5 per cent on a test involving 267 questions from the Old Testament and 92.3 per cent on one with 310 questions from the New Testament.

Warshaw said he fully supports the idea that the Bible should be taught in the public schools—the way he did it, using the Bible as a "source book" in the humanities.

"Should the public schools teach the Bible?" he asked. "In the sectarian clamor over that question, the voice that pleads the case of the humanities cannot be heard. The Bible is indeed a religious book, but it is also a part of our secular cultural heritage

"To keep it out of the public schools because it is controversial and because the public cannot trust the good sense of both the teacher and the pupil to treat it as part of the humanities is a simple but questionable judgement, he said.

He added: "A knowledge of the Bible is essential to the pupil's understanding of the allusions in literature, in music, and in the fine arts; in news media, in entertaiment, and in cultured conversation.

". . . . is it important for him to learn what it means when a man is called an Adonis or a Romeo, yet unimportant for him to be able to tell of Jonah from a Judas?"

Warshaw said the students' parents approved the course with "enthusiastic comment." And the students, regardless of religion, did well in the lessons and the major tests, he said.

"The names were Cohen and O'Connell," Warshaw said.

Colorado Family Finds Easy Life in Underground House

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)—Pick up a shovel and dig a great big hole. Make it big enough for a family dwelling topped by a few yards of mud.

That's one way to start yourself an underground domicile and cash in on the advantages of living down under.

A man who has such a house here pays just one-eighth the regular premium on house insurance—to name on savings.

The house is so well protected from burglars, fire, tornadoes, hurricans and such that the insurance company gave him a discount.

But that's not all. G. B. Henderson, master of the underground home, says the ground provides such superb insulation that his heating and cooling bills are only one — third of the bills for a topside house in the same area, where summers and winters are intense.

Out the east window, there's a wide picture of New York's skyline and the Hudson river.

The house also has a swimming pool and patio.

The Henderson's are old hands at underground living. In Las Vegas, he built a house that was half-underground. The latest one is his pride and joy.

Henderson also is responsible for the underground house at the New York World's Fair. There, a complete 10 - room home is built under three yards of earth. It incorporates many of the features found in the Henderson's Colorado home.

The General Electric central air - conditiong system keeps the house cool and comfortable, despite the traffic load of some 40,000 persons daily.

Mrs. Henderson says the ease of housekeeping is one of the strongest points in favor of the underground house. No dirt enters unless it is tracked in. Thus, there is no lint or loose dirt.

Carpets wear longer and the floors seldom need waxing. Furniture and curtains last longer because they don't require frequent cleaning. Furthermore, sun doesn't fade drapes or upholstery.

Mrs. Henderson has worked out light color schemes through most of the house, concentrting on autumnal, earthy tones with pale gold, sunshiny carpeting and plenty of plants. The decor is contemporary and comfortable; the plants thrive on special artificial lighting.

Henderson said the underground home also has easy outside maintenance. There's no lawn to now; no storm or screen windows to cope with; no outside painting.

The Hendersons even have cookouts down under. The grill is vented through the ground to the outside so there's no smoke. And rain can't spoil the cookout.

The underground yard, extending 25 feet away from the house on all sides, is air conditioned. The yard eliminates the closed-in feeling.

Henderson maintains the underground house has a great future—especially in desert areas where there are such extremes of heat and cold, and in crowded areas where land space is at a premium.

He is designing a desert country club with 151 dwellings spotted underneath the golf course.

"Build a big one," he said, "It costs nearly as much to dig a hole for a little house as for one your family can grow into."

REV. AND MRS. WALTER L. JAEGER

Observe 50th Anniversary

The Rev. and Mrs. Walter L. Jaeger of 718 E. High St. observed their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday, Sept. 1.

The Rev. Walter L. Jaeger was born in Albany, N.Y. on Aug. 2, 1885. In January, 1906 he came to Denver, and entered the University of Denver. In 1909 he was called to Colorado Springs to pastor a mission sponsored by the First Baptist Church, in which capacity he also served as Assistant Pastor of that Church. He entered Colorado College for his final year, graduating in the Spring of 1910.

In 1913 he was called to pastor the First Baptist Church of Pagosa Springs, where he met Miss Elsie Hatcher, a native of that town, as she returned from the University of Denver. On Sept. 1, 1914 they were married.

The Jaegers have five daughters and three sons, and there are now nineteen grand children. All of the children are college graduates, four of them having advanced degrees. The children are residing in various states from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

On Aug. 15 a family reunion was held with a daughter in Wichita, Kan., at which 33 members of the family were present, including all but a grandson and a married grand daughter. The occasion was saddened by the death of the youngest daughter who had passed away, in Stockton, Calif. five weeks before.

The Rev. Mr. Jaeger served for fifty years in the Baptist ministry, pastoring churches in various parts of Colorado. He served on the state convention board, as recording secretary, for fifteen years and for two years as state executive secretary.

In 1956, upon retiring, he and his wife moved to Colorado Springs. Mrs. Jaeger has been active, with her husband, in the work of the churches and at present is serving in the First Baptist Church in the women's missionary groups, and as teacher of the Loyal Mothers Class of the Sunday School.

Girl Scouts Tell Of Quest for Quality

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Take 210 Girl Scouts from 43 states.

Put them in a sedate college setting and ask them to think and talk abut the quest for quality — also called the pursuit of excellence.

Listen to them during 12 days of brainstorming and you reach this conclusion:

If today's teen-age thinking is reflected in the goals of the 210 young women, the nation's tomorrow promises to be in very good hands.

The girls met recently at Cazenovia College, Cazenovia, N.Y. A survey indicated that they are making the kinds of plans for the future that are exciting because they are so sensible.

The survey, released by national headquarters of the Girl Scouts, showed that the mahority of the 210 senior scouts, 15 to 17 years of age, believe in:

—Higher education and careers. All but two girls plan to attend college. All but six plan a career. The careers range from policewoman to anthropologist, from airline hostess to micro-biologist.

—Marriage at t median age of 25. Why? Mary Nishita, of Culver City, Calif., answered the question this way: "After reading abut the rising rate of American divorces and their causes, I do not believe people are mature enough to get married and raise a family until age 25."

—An average of four children. One girl didn't want any and another intends to aim for 13. Karen Marie Anderson, of Oak Park, Ill., wants seven chldren. "I like a large family," she said. The child profits greatly from being one of seven or more. He learns patience, humility, unselfishness, charity, and respect in a far better atmosphere than an only child."

—Combining marriage and a career. But most had some reservations. Jan Jurgens, of Davenport, Iowa, put it this way: "I think you can have a career and marriage until you begin having children, and then I think a woman's place should be in the home."

While "averages" can be struck in the answers of the scouts, their individual reasoning behind the answers ranged far and wide. In some cases, they sharply disagreed.

Take the opinions on age at marriage. Shephanie O'Mara, of Cupertine, Calif., said 21 years of age is the "ideal of society" because society cannot seem to accept an individual as mature until the legal age.

"Realistically," she said, "two people are ready for marriage when they can reason with each other on the many phases of marriage, when they realize and accept the responsibilities of marriage, when they love each other and know that marriage is for keeps and forever."

Suzi Griswold, of St. Paul, Minn., said 23 is a good age for marriage. "By then," she said, "you've had a chance to go to college, to travel some, meet many different men, and become more mature as a result of new experiences."

Mary Ellen Garatoni, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, set 30 as the ideal age for marriage. "Everyone should have a career before marriage," she said.

"Every woman should be able to support herself. Being independent broadens a person, makes her more whole. Personally, I couldn't bear to leave home only to immediately limit my freedom with the responsibilities of a family."

On careers after marriage, the differences of opinion continued. Jennifer Licht, of Elmhurst, Ill., believes combining work with marriage can be okay if it is necessary.

"But to have two careers operating out of the same household sounds like too much," she said.

Nancy Kutzner, of Bensenville, Ill., noted that every woman should have a career or something to do after her children are grown, but the home should come first.

Peggy Peterson, of Fort Collins, Colo., said a woman's prime responsibility is toward her family, but she should not allow herself to decay mentally.

Individual views on the number of children wanted included the following:

—Laurel A. Stoller, of Roanoke, Va.: "If your husband does not want children or only wants a few children, his wishes should be respected. The wife should also have her say so. But there is no reason to have a family that you neither want nor can support."

—Josine Ann Kister, of Albany, Calif.: "I want as many as I can support, but none after I am 30 because I don't want teenagers on my hands in my 50's."

—Sheila M. Shaw, of Pasadena, Calif.: "I want a number that would be sensible in consideration of my family conditions such as financial status and my capability of bringing up each one to be the best kind of person I can raise without neglecting any responsibility to my marriage or any other family member."

The young women had varied ideas on the amount of income a couple should have, too. Average income desired at the time of marriage was $5,000, although one girl was willing to start out on $1,000.

After five years of marriage, most of the girls hoped their family income would be around $8,000, and after 10 years, an average of $10,000, but with some aiming as high as $20,000.

Iowa, Nebraska Go to Court in Boundary Fight

By BILL DEAN

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The thalweg is the scalawag that has set two neighbors scrapping again.

The normally congenial breadbasket states of Iowa and Nebraska have gone to the U.S. Supreme Court for the second time in their long and sometimes bitter boundary hassle.

The boundary, in a less precise way than most maps show, is the Missouri River. And the Missouri is as unpredictable and rambunctious a stream as ever plagued an engineer, farmer or lawyer.

The thalweg is the deepest point of the river. It is the lawyer's name for the channel. On the still restless Missouri the thalweg — or channel — is a wandering troublemaker.

In 1888 a sudden channel shift sliced the town of Carter Lake from Iowa and left it on the Nebraska shore adjoining Omaha. In a decision that would continue to gall Nebraskans for three-quarters of a century, the Supreme Court declared the town still belonged to Iowa.

By 1943, Army Engineers felt they were getting the Missouri pretty well in hand. So Iowa and Nebraska drew a boundary line down the middle of the river and signed a border compact. Iowa, however, retained Carter Lake.

But the thalweg continued to meander and a few months ago boundary commissioners of both states agreed on a new center-of-the-river boundary. Iowa commissioners even conceded conditionally that Carter Lake should go to Nebraska.

But as politicians began to talk peace lawyers suddenly went to war.

Iowa pressed its claims in court to land it said had been formed on the Iowa side by a gradual deposit of silt over the years. Iowa law holds that such land belongs to the state which wants to use the tracts in question for recreational purposes.

"As far as I can see," William J. Yost, Iowa assistant attorney general, observed, "the only points of jurisdictional difference pertain to avulsion (sudden cutoffs as in the case of Carter Lake) or the location of the thalweg."

Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Two Interpretations Of Freedom

We have many good friends interested in freedom. And the discussions we have on the subject, and the differences in emphasis placed in various parts of the philosophy of liberty, are many and challenging.

One of the principal areas of difference which arises with great frequency, relates to the reasons why a person is attracted to the concept of liberty in the first place.

An enormous number of people, we find, seek liberty because they want to "be themselves." They are the rebels. They want a chance to do whatever it is that may occur to them to do, without let or hindrance. They are not interested in capitalism. They take little concern over our economy.

The idea of being especially productive, or owning a business, or finally of making sizable sums of money, is actually abhorrent to them. They want to be let alone.

They are quite fierce in this desire and one can sympathize with them. We live in an age when it isn't easy to "be yourself." On every hand there are strictures and prohibitions, many of them arising out of the law, but many more arising out of custom and usage.

In their state of rebellion, they simply are tired to death of being told what to do and they do not intend to do what they are told, if they can help it. Rebellion for its own sake, is sweet to them.

They will defend vigorously their right to be non-productive. If they want to exist marginally, to simply bum their way through life, that is their right, they assure us. And, of course this is so. There is nothing in the philosophy of freedom which says you have to produce. All that the philosophy says is that you are responsible for your choices and you have a right only to that which you can honestly acquire for yourself.

But there is something almost pathetic about these good folks. For they invariably find themselves caught short. They fail to make provision for a rainy day. They live marginally, and then when a problem strikes them, were it not for the kindness and generosity of friends who are more productive, they would suffer actual privation if not death itself.

So they tend toward the irresponsible. Again and again, someone comes forward to bail them out when difficulties beset them to the point of overwhelming them.

Obviously, the cure to this irresponsibility would be to permit them to experience the full burden of their improvidence. When they knock at your door in the rain and cold, seeking shelter which their lack of foresight has failed to provide, were one to take a similar attitude, one would laugh merrily and suggest that they had "made their bed, now they could lie it it."

But, philosophically, one cannot quarrel with this choice. The very essence of freedom is freedom to choose.

There is another school of freedom which, quite frankly, is more interesting and challenging so far as we are concerned. This is the school of freedom which places emphasis upon personal responsibility, personal well-being and independence that is not at the expense of others.

This is the study of freedom that is based upon a knowledge of a free market. It is a larger and a more productive area than that reserved for the point of view, "Freedom, I won't." It is the area which says: "Freedom, I will."

And when we find someone willing and capable of exercising his full energy in productive pursuits within a context of freedom, then indeed do we rejoice. These are not the rebels. These are the workers.

Granted that work which is compelled by others is slavery. But this is not to condemn work; it is to condemn the control exercised upon us by others.

The philosophy of libertarian rebellion is actually based upon this thought, which, so far as it goes, is factual. It is always to the interest of a state that the most productive be enslaved. No slave master in history has ever cared a snap about the non-productive. So, the syllogistic reasoning of the rebel is that he can defeat the state by making himself non-productive. He can refuse to produce and thus the state will lose interest in him.

This is not strictly true. In our own time the state will come to the rescue of the non-productive. And it will tax and oppress the productive so that the non-productive can be protected and helped.

The non-producer may claim that he will reject all assistance from the state when it is proffered. But the state is not altruistic. It will use his non-productivity as a statistic to justify increasing exactions from the productive in order to have the assistance available, whether the non-producer will accept it or not.

To Scale the Heights

Out of this philosophy of freedom to rebel comes an escapist literature and an escapist procedure. This is, in essence, the philosophy of that great rebel, David Thoreau, who fled the civilization of his time to take up residence at Walden Pond, and while there to pen some of the most inspiring passages of individualism.

But Thoreau never did understand the market place, nor economic truths. He spelled out great individualistic truths which appeal to the heart and soul of any man. He created the vision of the joy of simple living, of single blessedness, of unattached and unadorned life for the sake of one's own self. But from this escapist thinking and procedure comes a rebellion, not only against organized evil, but against any kind of organized procedure however worthy.

What Thoreau failed to see was that had it not been for the civilization to which he finally returned, he could never have managed the solitude and the well-being that came to him when organized men took his writings and by reason of their investment of capital, by reason of their skill as managers, by reason of their willingness to work and to work hard under self-imposed disciplines, they provided him with the means to live a simple life.

Thus, we are not attracted to the philosophy of freedom FROM responsibilities, FROM work, FROM cooperation with other men. To be a mendicant, a wandering buddhist with his beggar's bowl, this is not attractive to us.

And we will grant at once that the government will take little interest in the person (save as an object to be rescued) who produces nothing.

The challenge we face from the state is not the kind of a challenge which says to us that we can whip the state any time we stop producing. This kind of procedure cannot whip the state. To reduce one's economic status to the point of nonproductivity where the state will no longer attack us, is, in our view, to take the easy way out. This will not conquer the state any more than any other kind of self-immolation or self-martyrdom will exterminate an evil.

Evils must be faced and overcome. They cannot be overcome and will not even be faced were we to accept this easy route and simply refuse to place ourselves in a position of non-attractiveness to the state. When we are dead, the state will lose interest, too. So we do not propose to approximate the condition of being dead before our time.

The lure of freedom to us is that it provides a challenge, not to run away, but to stay and fight. We are disinterested in self-imposed poverty. We are interested in self-created success and opulence. And this is the point where the state is bound to take an interest. That is the challenge: to find the state eagerly seeking new ways to curtail and contain us, while we manage, by superior effort, to remain free and to retain the products of our labor.

The lure of socialism has always been a lure designed for men who do not greatly aspire. If you can be contented with mere subsistence, you can get that right now from the state. Further, the state will use you as a reason for its own existence. You become a statistic, a unit in the war against poverty.

Were there no improvident people, no non-productive people, the state could not use the fact of poverty as a reason for its forays against the productive. So, while the state takes a major interest in the productive people, it uses the existence of the non-productive as its primary reason for taxation.

Imagine a community in which each person was worth a million dollars.

What state would dare emerge to offer "help" to these people? Obviously, they can govern themselves. Obviously, they can manage their own affairs. The state may envy them and it may attack them. But it will not come forward to offer "protection" or "help" in any guise.

If you wish to promote independence and freedom, you will begin your efforts by becoming wholly independent. You will concentrate on becoming financially solvent.

Here is a challenge that offers the highest mountain to climb. Our search is always for the few who dare the heights.

The Shortened Tourist Season

By RUFUS L. PORTER

It is not my purpose in this article to attempt to establish a criterion for educators in regards to the summer school vacation. Perhaps it would be better if the long summer vacation were abolished and education were continued on the year-around basis, as the educators are paid. This would permit the children to finish their educations in one fourth less time, or 12 years from grade one through college instead of 16. This would add four more years of productive activity to their lives.

Yeah, I know, there ain't enough work to go around now. That's the reason the government's going to have to establish "youth camps" where the teen-agers and the early 20ers will be kept off the labor market for an indefinite period by being paid by the taxpayers for simulated work or made work of no particular good to anybody.

I wonder if it ever occurred to those who cling to this new deal, socialistic philosophy that if all government restrictions were removed from the market place, and all "pork barrel" projects were eliminated from the government tax rolls, and all competition by government with private enterprise were abolished and the taxes thus saved were left in the hands of the people, our economy would enter such a period of growth there would be employment for all our citizens and we would be importing labor at a faster pace than we ever did during the 19th Century.

If a youth is "old enough to vote" at 18, as the politicians are telling us, why in heck isn't he old enough to be through school and ready to go to work? And if he hasn't completed his education, where did he find the knowledge and the judgment to make him an intelligent voter? (or do voters need intelligence?)

How did those three paragraphs get in here? I intended to use them in another column. Let's get back to summer vacations.

During the past hundred years it has become customary for all government schools to close during the three summer months. Parochial and other private schools have tended to follow the government lead and any kid who has had to attend school during any of those months has felt cheated. Whether this was good or bad from an educational standpoint is immaterial. The fact is that the whole economy was affected by this three months of nonschool.

In fact, it was originally a little more than three months. Most schools used to "let out" somewhere in the tail end of May and stay out until Labor Day, no matter how late that day appeared on the calendar. And people used to plan their lives and their vacations, if any, with the assumption that they had from at least June 1 until Labor Day free from worrying about keeping the kids in school. And we, here in Colorado, as in other regions that catered to the touring public, used to plan on three full months and maybe a week or two more of "the tourist season." But the government that gave us a three-month vacation from school is now eating it away at both ends. More and more schools are closing at later dates and opening at earlier ones each and every year. But the kids aren't getting more schooling, which should be the object of longer terms. And tourists are getting later starts or having to rush home sooner than they had planned because they "can't keep the kids out of school."

And this is beginning to have a serious effect on the economy of business places that depend primarily on tourists for a livelihood. The fact that more people may be "on the road" during the shorter period of time does not compensate for the curtailment because some of the places can handle only so many at a given time, and because larger crowds are apt to rush through a little faster and potential customers leave because they can't get attention in the crush.

I am not saying that it is either a good or a bad thing, education-wise, to keep school going a little longer in the spring or to start it a little later in the fall. I am merely contending that it is upsetting an industry that has been built around the idea of a full three months, or better, of heavy tourist trade. When those three months are shortened by a week or ten days on either or both ends, it makes many an enterpriser "look at his hole card," and wonder if he isn't in the wrong business.

This is just one of the minor examples of how a government can upset the economy of the country, but it is important to the Pikes Peak Region. If we hadn't grown to expect a full three-month school vacation, our businesses would have been planned differently.

Ask anybody who is conducting any type of "tourist" business and he will tell you that he is being hurt by the shortened season. The usual "after Labor Day slump" hit them all with a bang a week to ten days early this season.

It's Up to You

A Self Reliant American

By H. E. KERSHNER, L.H.D.

Many of my readers write to me about their beliefs and experiences. These grassroot letters are all interesting and some are priceless. Sound, self-reliant Americans still exist in large numbers although the welfare state constantly depletes their ranks.

One of them has written me a letter which contains much of the philosophy that made our country a great nation. I am going to share a part of this letter with you as follows:

"Some of us are too busy scratching out a subsistence to form groups and paint placards to announce their poverty. I've got my back up from reading articles in the Post, Newsweek, Readers Digest, etc. screaming about poverty and I'd like to do a little screaming myself.

"My husband, three children, and myself live in that 'miserable' low-income bracket currently lauded as 'poverty-stricken.' We have no water supply and of course no plumbing. We haul water in old oil drums. We dug and built our own outdoor privy. Our housing condition is very bad, rat-infested and overcrowded, so we built new wings to our rustic dwelling out of mill ends from a local sawmill and nails we salvaged from old buildings. We obtained some cats who were sufficiently deprived to be willing to work. Luckily they had not yet heard of government aid and were able to combat the rats.

"In all this undiluted squalor we somehow manage to earn enough to be obliged to pay income tax. Now how do you suppose we feel, paying out our hard-earned dollars to help lazy parasites, sitting around watching television and drinking beer (graciously provided by federal aid)?

"We are amused at the tears being shed over the plight of the poor squalid southwestern Indians. We live between the Apache and Navajo reservations. There are literally hundreds of ranchers, farmers and rural dwellers like ourselves who would gladly provide a living wage for Indian families who want to work. I have stalked bars and encampments for days in search of Indians to dig post holes at $1.50 an hour. None could be found. The Indians are perfectly happy to live from government bounty. Providing them with garbage cans and privies is the biggest joke many of these Indians ever heard of. You see, they do have a sense of humor.

"In this respect I suppose the Indians are not much different from many other Americans who have learned to love idleness because government relief has made it so easy for them to exist without work.

"This note is written in praise of independence and freedom. We have one thing money can't buy: poverty! WE don't want the government taking that away. We believe that man thrives on problems to be solved and challenges to be met. Take that away and you have robbed man of his most precious asset."

Sincerely yours,
MRS. JOHN REIDHEAD

LOSING THE TRIANON

To the Editor:

Why are people upset at losing the Trianon? There are no objects Americana in it, it played no part in forming American history, is of no value to us as a nation, no battles were fought there, no important papers were signed there and its existence has affected our culture and heritage not in the least.

It was built during a time when it was fashionable for the well-heeled American to emulate anything European. We have plenty of our own real Americana in our lovely state and amidst our wonderful mountains. Let's think about preserving some of that and forget about the Trianon. For the most part, everything in it is in grotesque bad taste when looked at through American-attuned eyes. Let the items return to France where they have a right to be treasured as part of a country's artistic background and where they should have stayed in the first place.

If people want to preserve something of the past, let them see what they can do about our old mines and mining towns that soon will disappear at their present rate of deterioration.

Also, if people worried as much about each other as they do about things and buildings, the world would be just that much nicer.

WANTS TO KNOW

To the Editor:

I have read with great interest, of the plans to close the Trianon. I was one of the 3,000 who stood in line to see it Sunday. That was also my fourth time through.

I think it is terrible of Colorado Springs and the Broadmoor area to want to destroy such a lovely place.

I was wondering if your newspaper would write an article explaining why the millionaires of the Broadmoor area, like Mr. Tutt, want the Trianon destroyed.

I am sure many other people would like to hear their reasons also. I'll watch your paper in hopes of seeing such an article.

A REPLY TO MR. WELSH

To the Editor:

(The editor printed a lucid and well thought out reply to Mr. Welsh's letter the same day it was printed in these columns. However, since the tirade was directed largely against criminals I think it fitting that a criminal be allowed a rebuttal.)

". . .An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth," quotes Mr. Frank S. Welsh in the August 29 issue of the Gazette Telegraph. Mr. Welsh takes this quote out of context to justify with equal impartiality the death penalty for murder, brutality by arresting police officers, and to advocate "shoot to kill" as an effective means to quell riots.

"In the case of riots, I think the 'shoot to kill' is the only plan to bring things under control." Since Mr. Welsh elsewhere in his letter specifies "the riots that are so common now," one can only assume that he refers to the riots meant to bring attention to certain long-standing racial inequities. Mr. Welsh is right: if police shoot into such crowds with intent to kill, fire enough shots and fire them with great enough effect, the riots doubtlessly would be quelled. There'd be no one left to riot and, consequently, no one left to demand racial or any other sort of equality. The Bible-quoting Mr. Welsh brings to mind a quotation from Friedrich W. Nietzsche: "After coming in contact with a religious man, I always feel that I must wash my hands." Or, from the Bible, "He multiplieth words without knowledge" (Job 35, 16).

Indeed, many of the current crop of rioters do a great amount of looting. They break windows, damage property and steal merchandise. And for that they should be shot and killed, on the spot, Mr. Welsh? Surely, that would give them racial equality, for nothing is more equal than death.

With a fine disregard for truth, Mr. Welsh states that "a large per cent of murders are committed by murderers for the second or third time — sometimes after acquittal, and often after serving a sentence for previous murder." There is absolutely no basis in fact for that statement, unless it is Mr. Welsh's intention deliberately to mislead. By far the greater number of murders are committed by those who kill for the first (and last) time. Most murders are committed in the heat of passion, and the knowledge of the supreme penalty is no deterrent when passion places a man beyond the reach of reason. (THESE facts can be verified by anyone who cares enough to seek the truth, rather than allow himself to be ruled by various emotions.)

Some murders are committed during the commission of another crime, usually due to panic or sometimes even due to an insane urge to kill. Some murders are done for profit, but these killers seldom are caught and brought to trial, so who is to say what sort of person committed them? Some murders are committed with the full sanction of society and with the blessing of the Churches: these murders are called war, wherein fine, Christian people drop bombs upon the civilian populace of large, non-military cities. (Praise the Lord, and pass the ammunition!)

"An officer risks his life in combat with any man who resists arrest," states Mr. Welsh. That is true, IF the man resisting arrest is armed. "Resisting arrest" can consist of being too drunk to understand an order to "get in that wagon, you —." A great many times resisting arrest consists of the failure to give the desired answer to questions asked in the "interrogation room." There are all too many cases where the "resistance" occurs AFTER a prisoner has been confined in the city jail, or while being questioned in the police station. (And I here include the city police of Colorado Springs.)

"Shoot to kill," cries Mr. Welsh, and possibly he makes a good point here. Just think of all the money wasted arresting, trying and keeping confined those who break society's laws. It costs great sums of money to arrest and try a criminal, and it costs more than $1,800 each year to keep each of these unhuman beasts confined in prison. A .45-caliber bullet costs less than twenty-five cents so plainly it is more economically logical to have the officers of the law shoot to kill each criminal when he is arrested, rather than waste all that money in trials and in confinement. Obviously a crook is guilty, or the upstanding minions of the law would not have arrested him in the first place.

"Communism is the cause of much crime," mouths Mr. Welsh. Nowhere in his writings does he so state, but one gets the distinct impression that anyone who disagrees with Mr. Welsh is, ipso facto, a communist. Shades of Senator McCarthy! Most of the men in Colorado's prison are serving time for crimes involving less than one hundred dollars in cash, and I am sure that the Communist Party has far more efficient ways to raise funds, or to disturb the populace. Over the years I have polled a good cross-section of criminal prisoners, and practically none of them have even a faint idea of what communism is. It is illustrative that, when asked to identify the source for the quotation, "... .from each according to his ability, to each according to his needs," a large majority of prisoners will identify it as being Biblical.

It is not communism that makes men burglarize, riot, rob, murder or forge checks, but I feel certain that Mr. Welsh has the answer to this problem which no one else in the history of man, has been able to solve.

In parting, may I offer for Mr. Welsh's consideration another quotation, from the Old Testament of the Bible:

"BE NOT RIGHTEOUS OVERMUCH" (Ecclesiastes 7, 1).

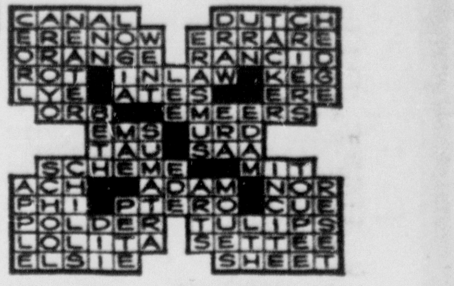
Answer to Previous Puzzle



It Won't Work

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Rub a little of the shine off a conservative socialist and you find, inevitably, the words, "It won't work."

On the other hand, the same socialist conservative insists that everybody must place faith in government via the elected and appointed bureaucrats even when faced with the facts of political life which cannot be denied.

Basically, most political actionists are frightened people with no faith in individualism and a dreadful fear of being alone with their own thoughts. Almost violently fearful of the thought of being responsible for their own actions, those who wish to be ruled prefer to place their faith in the system while admitting, between elections, that politics is a dirty game. But, don't laugh, every addict of the socialist conglomerate who hollers, "It won't work," when the word freedom is mentioned, is a haunted and unhappy person. His or her fear of the unknown is a real and tragic condition. Logic is totally ignored. Facts are nightmares. Reason is a dirty word. Just the use of the word, truth, spreads panic.

The conservative or democrat or republican socialist always has an ace in the hole. No no matter what happens, he can blame the incumbents in office and insist that the election of the "right" candidate will solve the problems. As a standard operating procedure he can go through the unthinking act of voting every two years and complain violently about the operation of the system he sanctions during the 104-week intervals. This is the way he manages to avoid responsibility for his own decision.

The political actionist, regardless of conversation made to the contrary, is a believer in the divine right of kings, dreaming of a myth which magically turns ordinary humans into godlike beings when they are elected to public office. Try to discuss self-government with the political actionist, as an alternative to tyranny and enslavement, and he hollers — "It won't work," refusing to even listen. Basically, every political actionist is an addict of the socialist conglomerate.

Take a long look at the constantly increasing crime rate and offer a suggestion and listen to the howls, "It won't work." Suggest that juvenile criminality might be reduced if parents acted in a more self-responsible manner and the howls are repeated. You name it and it won't work. Just leave it all to government.

Big government in all its bureaucratic glory thrives upon the unthinkingness of its people. Those who holler, "It won't work," never say a word about the stupidity of the zip code or newly contrived impositions of government into the life of the market place.

Just the other day Mr. Johnson signed into law a bill that gives the securities and exchange commission new authority to supervise over-the-counter trading in stocks. Mr. Johnson stated that the nation will see a new era of federal regulation of business. The bill even increases government supervision of brokerage employes. The item referred to was a tiny, two-inch blurb under a Washington dateline and I haven't heard of a single conservative socialist hollering, "It won't work." As a matter of fact, I've noticed no complaints from anybody about this latest evidence of fascist-like control over American business. The Keynesian-Fabian concept of faith bolstered by control which creates an image has been proven ineffective. Once an appreciable number of Americans understand the bankrupt condition of the government-controlled economy, the image of the real thing will be known for what it is.

Anything the federal government may do won't work! Poverty cannot be reduced without impoverishing. Racial relations are only made worse by legislation. Because of its very nature, government can only create problems. When it attempts to attack one problem, it creates several additional problems. Government may save itself only by reducing the size and cost and power of government and it seems that only a few kings and queens had sense enough to move in that direction — backing up, so to speak, in order to get a new start.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Perils of Imitation

From Wall Street Journal

It did not seem possible that anybody, even another federal regulatory agency having an off day, could outdo the Federal Trade Commission's ruling on the use of the term "fake fur." But we think the Food and Drug Administration has gone its sister agency one better.

The FTC about a year ago lowered the boom on some clothiers advertising coats composed of man-made fibers treated so as to resemble furs. The clothiers, not illogically, called their wares "fake fur." Oh no, said the FTC, citing a rule based on the Textile Fiber Products Identification Act; since the word "fur" in a true and legal sense could only be used in reference to animal skins, the term "fake fur" wasn't permissible. Absurd, but that's the way it was.

Now to the market place comes a company advertising a low-fat-content spread which it calls "imitation margarine" because, it asserts, the spread contains only half as many calories as margarine. Oh no, says the FDA. Margarine is defined by law as a product containing no less than 80 per cent fat, whereas the new product contains only 38 per cent fat. Therefore, says the FDA, it's clearly a misbranding of the stuff to call it "imitation margarine."

Well, if it is not "imitation margarine," what is it, and what do you call it? The FDA doesn't know either. Surely if there ever was a case of a regulatory agency giving a shabby imitation of how to protect the consumer against misbranding, this is it. The average consumer may not be a genius, but he certainly doesn't need the government to help him figure out the meaning of "fake" or "imitation." Or of "ridiculous," for that matter.

Your Outdoors

By MARY L. SHIRER

For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

The major peaks of Colorado have been ascended and most of us direct our attention to those 14,000 feet and over when contemplating a climb. The greatest number of peaks in Colorado still remain untouched. Many of these, however, are under 14,000 feet but very rugged and difficult to climb. There is much in the way for real alpine work for the ardent climber.

The Colorado Mountain Club has led the way to a number of these unexplored mountains and is gradually getting into these territories.

Colorado is the mountain state of the union. It is estimated that one-seventh of the state stands above 10,000 feet in altitude, that it contains at least 350 peaks above 11,000, 220 above 12,000 feet, 150 above 13,000 and 54 above 14,000. The highest peak in the United States is Mt. Whitney in California (altitude 14,501). Mt. Elbert, Colorado, ranks second with 14,419 feet. It may be more at last survey. Many of the peaks under 14,000 remain unnamed.

A portion of the west side of North Park had been designated by the Forest Service as the Mount Zorkel Dome peak primitive area. The highest summit is Mt. Mirkel, 12,200 feet. A very difficult pinnacle, it remained unclimbed a few years ago. This area required the skill of a trained alpinist. There is the Big Agnes Mountain which is as difficult and more so than some of the 14,000-foot peaks. There is a beautiful lake in this region called Gilpin Lake, and it is thought that a small glacier is on the summit of Mount Ethel. In Roosevelt National Park lies the Medicine Bow range. Its most rugged portion lies within boundaries of Rawah, primitive area.

Between Rawah and Clarks peaks is especially rough and difficult and requires real skill in mountain climbing. The great white walls of Pagoda, chief's head and McHenry's Peak at the head of Glacier Gorge, probably have never been assaulted by direct routes. The great Gore range is a great field for mountaineering. Of course in the San Juan mountains many climbs remain untouched. Colorado is a vast state, and much is mountainous, wild and rugged yet colorful scenery. In the Sawatch range, there are many 14,000 foot peaks which are not difficult of ascent but there are others of lower altitude which are extremely difficult to climb and many climbers have not attempted them.

Mount Lincoln in the Mosquito range has been described by a climber of the Alps as more massive and grand than Mt. Blanc. Its gorges, its cascades, lakets, icy crags, leaping wild animals, screaming eagles makes it more enchanting than all witchery of the Tyrolean Alps. This man was deeply impressed by all our mountains.

In the great galaxy of mountains in Colorado, there is every variety of climbing which delights the mountaineer. They challenge the skill of the most accomplished rock climber and yet there are easy slopes which provide enjoyment for all who wish it.

NFO President Urges Farmers Toughen Rebellion

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Farmers Organization (NFO) president Oren Lee Staley has urged members of the militant group to "really toughen" their 23-state market rebellion in efforts to push prices higher.

"We are in an advantageous position," Staley said Thursday.

"Most livestock which is going to be shipped to market has already gone.

The NFO hopes to boost on-the-hoof prices by holding cattle hogs and sheep off the market. The "holding action" moved into its 16th day today.

Some 60 law enforcement officers rushed to the Owosso, Mich., livestock market Thursday, where about 330 NFO members picketed the grounds to keep trucks from entering the market. Several minor injuries were reported.

Prices were varied as a larger volume of cattle and hogs shuttled through midwestern markets. In Chicago, hogs sold up to 25 cents higher but cattle were steady to 50 cents lower.

Twelve major terminals reported 29,100 cattle receipt — compared with 21,237 a week ago and 25,133 a year ago. Hog receipts were 47,500, compared with 39,764 last Thursday and 67,059 a year ago.
